DIETRICH PROMISES SPEECH

Nebraska Senator Propose to Talk on Cuban Reciprocity.

MEMBERS DEFEND QUAY'S AMENDMENT

Claim Extraneous Matter is Often Tacked on to Appropriation Bills So as to Insure Majority Getting Its Way.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—The senate proceedings today were unmarked by any lively debates such as occurred yesterday. Mr. McLaughlin (Miss.) urged adoption of the Rawlins resolution, calling for evidence in certain courts-martial.

Mr. Lodge (Mass.) concluded his remarks in opposition to the omnibus statehood bill and Mr. Bard (Cal.) also spoke in opposition to it. Just before the adjournment Mr. Foraker (O.) declared the proposition of Senator Quay (Pa.) to tack the statehood bill on an appropriation bill was not extraordinary. Legislation had been placed on appropriation bills before the senate, but when the senate took a similar view.

A senate bill was passed authorizing the building of dams and other improvements on the Columbia river in Washington. Mr. Dietrich (Neb.) presented a resolution discharging the committee on relations with Cuba from further consideration of a house bill pertaining to Cuban reciprocity. Reciprocity, he said, was being held in statu quo in the senate, and he asked that the resolution lie on the table.

The Rawlins resolution calling for the proceedings in certain courts-martial was called up and Mr. McLaughlin (Miss.) detailed certain acts of cruelty on the part of soldiers toward Filipinos and said the senate should have the evidence. He remarked that it was easy to say there was a syndicate of slander and defamation in the Rawlins resolution and that the American officers were shown to have been guilty of outrages they should be weeded out of service. The resolution went over.

Mr. Foraker (O.) in defending Mr. Quay's amendments said from statements that had reached him the action in introducing the statehood bill as an amendment to the agricultural and civil sundry bills was regarded as an unobjectionable proposition. It was not unheard of at all. It was simply a question whether a majority of the senate could do a thing it wanted. He referred to the Rawlins resolution and said an appropriation bill had contained a provision establishing a civil government in the Philippines and the army bill today provided for legislation creating a general staff.

Mr. Clay (Ga.) took the same position as read from the record showing that the Philippine legislation, known as the Spooner amendment, was voted on the army appropriation bill. After a brief executive session the senate at 4:55 p. m. adjourned.
