What J. H. McIntoch Says of Articles Being Sent Out by Railroads.

CALLS ATTENTION TO HOUSE ROLL 171

Lawyer Maintains That Pending Bill Does Not Amend Statutes Under Which Countles Levy Taxes on Railronds.

James H. McIntosh, counsel for the the tax article being sent to Nebraska newspapers by the railroads, said!

The article the railroads are sending the press of the state, offering checks to pay for its publication, in which | the law of the state and the provisions of they say that the bill now pending before the legislature to require railroad property within metropolitan cities to be valued for taxation for city expenses by the same assessor that values other property within the city for taxes is an attempt 'o 'deprive the outside countles and districts of Nebraska of from 25 to 75 per cent of the railroad taxes which they heretofore have received has not one word of truth in it, and no one better knows it than the rathroad people. This bill, if passed, would not deprive the state, any county or a single school district of the $9,800 per mile, and that the auditor so state of one penny of railroad taxes.

"When the offer was publicly made at Lincoln last week to pay $1,000 to any charitable institution if the railroads would show how this bill would deprive the state, any county or school district of the state of one penny of rathroad taxes the railroad attorneys there present did then pretend it was so. They knew it was not, and did not say so when their falsebood could be publicly exposed.

"The railroad taxes the state, countles and school districts collect are levied under sections 39 and 40 of the revenue law, being chapter LXXVII of the Nebraska statutes. House roll 171 amends section 98 of chapter XIIs of the Nebraska statutes. It does not amend sections 39 and 40 of the general revenue law. does refer to sections 39 and 40 of the general revenue law. It does not in any manner or form affect sections 29 and 40 of the general revenue law.

WORD OF TRUTH IN IT UNION PACIFIC'S COMPLAINT Petition in Tax Matter is Not the Same as that of Berlington.

The petition in the case of the Union Pacific Railroad company against the city of Omaha and the municipal officers, filed at Lincoln Saturday night, has been received at the office of the clerk of the United States circuit court here.

The petition, so far as its legal phases go, follows closely the propositions laid down by the attorneys for the Burlington road, but the case presents some features not shown in the case of the Burlington. Omaha Real Estate exchange, speaking of After the formal caption the petition sets up the facts as to the purchase of the Union Pacific railroad property by the present company and the proceedings by which the property was acquired. It then refers to the city charter for the assessment of rallroads, maintaining that the city tax commissioner and city Board of Review have no power in the matter of railroad assessments further than to accept the assessment as reported by the State Board of Equalization. It further state, without qualification, the State Board of Equalization assessed all of the property of the railroad with the exception of the headquarters building and the property connected with the shops at its actual value for each mile of track, finding that value to be certified to the county clerk of Douglas county; that the total mileage of the road within the city is 6.903 miles, and the valuation so assessed $67,650; that the city tax commissioner assessed this property at $6,764,940 and the Board of Review raised the figures to $14,583,260; the petition then says that if this is permitted to remain the road will be deprived of equal protection of the laws and will be deprived of its property without due process of law, contrary to the provisions of the constitutions of the state and nation.

The petition then takes up the question of personal assessment other than that of the right-of-way, saying that the tax commissioner found horses, machinery and other property to the value of $186,450, at which figure he made return to the Board of Review, but the Board of Review upon the complaint of George T. Morton and upon its own motion, without investigating the matter, increased the assessment to $1,011,450, which was affirmed by the Board "Therefore, if it does not amend or af- of Equalization. CITY TAX LEVY IS BLOCKED that Council May Pass Levy Ordinance.

Because of the injunction proceedings instituted by the railroad companies against a levy of taxes upon the assessment of their property as fixed by the city authorities, the council finds itself confronted by DEAD LAMP POSTS REMAIN a most perplexing problem and has decided to defer final action in making the tax levy until after February 16, the date set for hearing in the federal court the injunction application of the Burlington road. action of the railroad companies to be pre-the State Board of Equalization. Blocks the Proceedings.

Therefore the tax commissioner was in effect prevented from making any certificate of the assessment to the council and the proceedings were manifestly blocked. City Attorney Connell was called into the conference to elucidate the legal complications of the situation and explained that until modified by the court the writ must be regarded as effective and therefore the tax ommissioner must not certify the assessment of the railroad companies to the council as it had been fixed by the city officers and boards. He was of the opinion that although the city authorities had not in their action accepted the assessment of the railroad properties as fixed by the state board, the total of which was $131,000, the A telegram from St. Louis announces tax commissioner could legally include that the case of the National Surety com- those figures in his certificate. He felt that as $131,000 would represent so small a proportion of the whole amount of the assessmanded with instructions for a verdict for ment, the city could best afford to let that go altogether.

Then further discussion developed the of Humboldt until April 15, 1897, when he fact that under the circumstances even committed suicide and was found to be though Mr. Fleming might certify the assessment without including the railroads or leave them out altogether-the counci could find no certain basis for a tax levy surety company of the suit. Calculations Are Difficult. It was shown that should the council is about $10,000 on an original judgment of sumption that the railroad assessment as fixed by the city was valid, and that assessment then he held by the courts to be unwarranted under the law, the calculations would be entirely thrown out and there would not be funds to meet the apportionments. On the other hand, if the council should base its levy upon the assessment with the $26,000,000 of railroad property eliminated and fix its rate to produce the necessary amount upon the remaining $103,000,000 of assessable property. and the courts should then hold the railroad assessment to be valid and in force, the tax levy as fixed by the council would be invalid as excessive.

J. H. McIntosh, who had dropped in during the discussion, said he believed the sitto be very simple, except that must delay the action of the council until after the hearing of the application now pending in the federal court. This order of the court under which the council and tax commissioner are now bound he explained to be only a temporary restraining order pending the hearing of an application for a temporary injunction, and he did not believe that there was one chance in a thousand that Judge Munger would grant the temporary injunction as asked, or that the case would be heard on its merits on February 16.

Keen rivals are these societies, although cooperating to a single end; and so secret are their pracedings that even the personnel of their membership is unknown outside the council chambers. But they work the whole year through, and they spend for such purpose fabulous sums of money. The result is a brilliant succession of contumed tableaux, masked balls and street pageants. The features of the latter are floats, or cars, on which is illustrated in spectaular gorgeousness some well-chosen subject. For instance, a recent pageant presented by nineteen floats the legends of Augard and the Gods—the myths of Sean-chanacis; one of the Rex pageants was based your scenes and incidents chosen from the pages of Fergus Hume's "Chronicles of Faery Land—Fantastic tales for Old and Young," in which flox himself assumed the character of the King of Faery Land, and which were portrayed by twenty floats, preceded, as usual, by a car containing the Boest Gras, or the fatted ox, for the sacrificial ceremonies which inaugurated the Carrivasi; and one of the pageants of the Mystic Kruwe of Comus beautifully illustrated with twenty floate the "Sengs of Long Ago,"—"Landlord Fill the Flowing Bowl," "Listen to the Mocking Bird," "Dixie," "Home, Sweet Home," etc.
