Cured Consumption.
"Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup cannot be beaten. It is the best on the market; for we have doubled the dose and used it for a long time and the doctor said I had consumption, but I heard of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, took it and I was well and cured in a week. I have a boy to whom I give Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup every time required and it always cures him too." Mrs. Lillie Curtis, Donora, Pa.

HOUSE READS REVENUE BILL
Practically All of the Afternoon Session is Consumed in This Manner.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)
LINCOLN, Feb. 23.—(Special.)—Fifty members, one short of a quorum, were present in the house at 10 o'clock this morning. The timely arrival of Ten Eyck of Douglas enabled the house to proceed with business.

Shortly after convening Douglas of Rock, chairman of the house wing of the revenue committee, reported the completion of the bill and placed the latter on the chief clerk's desk, thus technically introducing it. The measure was temporarily laid aside. The number of bills introduced was 34.

Committee reports were made on thirty-five bills, twenty of which were recommended for passage, and placed on general file and the remainder recommended for indefinite postponement after the introduction of several other bills, H. R. 34, the revenue bill, was introduced and read the first time.

The house adjourned at 5 o'clock.

TOOLEY IDEA IN THE SENATE
Member From Valley Introduces the Measure Killed in the House.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)
LINCOLN, Feb. 23.—(Special.)—Senate Bill 203, introduced today in the senate by Fries of Valley, is a second edition of the Tooley house bill, which was killed in the house last week. It is a bill for the rearrangement of the apportionment of school money. It provides that one-fourth of the money shall be given to counties according to the number of school districts and the remaining three-fourths shall be divided pro rata according to the number of pupils. Senator Fries said he believed the bill was not thoroughly understood in the house, hence he introduced it in the senate. It seeks to take from the larger school districts money that they now get under the apportionment law and give it to the smaller districts.

Harrison of Hall introduced a bill to compel school directors, when they make out an estimate of their expense account for which a levy is to be made, to itemize the statement. Senator Harrison said that intent of his bill was to prevent school boards from saying "we need such an

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—A large crowd was attracted to the senate today, mostly visiting Daughters of the American Revolution. Washington's farewell address was read by Mr. Dubois (Isham). The omnibus public building bill, passed by the house, was introduced and was considered without final action.

Mr. Tillman (S. C.) spoke for nearly two hours, principally in reply to Mr. Spooner (Wis.) on the Indiana postoffice case. He said that if the policy of the administration in regard to the equality of the negro was carried out and Booker Washington should be appointed to the cabinet he would vote for his confirmation. He did not conclude his remarks.

Chaplain Refers to Washington.
In opening, the chaplain referred to the character of George Washington, saying that not only in ideal, but in personal character, he embodied the elements of truth and greatness which have been in-wrought into our national history.

During the reading of Washington's address, Reed Smoot, senator-elect from Utah, seated in the chamber and took a seat beside Mr. Kearns (Utah).

The Rawlins (Utah) resolution, calling on the secretary of war for information concerning court-martial cases in the Philippines, was favorably reported and adopted with an amendment, limiting the reply to summaries of the records and testimony.

Another amendment, which was adopted, excludes the case of Major L. W. T. Waller. Mr. Proctor (Vt.) reported the agricultural appropriation bill and gave notice that he would call it up at the first opportunity.

A house bill was passed, providing for at least one term of the circuit court of appeals of the Eighth judicial circuit, in Denver.

Mr. Kearns (Utah) presented the credentials of Senator-elect Smoot of Utah, which were read. Mr. Smoot was sitting in the rear of the chamber when the document was read.

Mr. Burrows (Mich.) stated that a protest had been filed with his committee against Mr. Smoot's admission. The credentials and protest were filed.

Mr. Quay (Pa.) sought to secure a vote on the statehood bill on Thursday, February 26. Mr. Keam (N. J.) objected, remarking that he hoped he would be permitted to conclude his remarks in several days ago.

A house resolution was agreed to, providing for the erection in Washington, D. C., of a bronze equestrian statue of Count Ponchartraine, aged 69 years, born in Schlewig-Holstein, died Sunday morning at 5 o'clock. For a number of years he had suffered from the attacks of a mad bull with which he had an encounter on the farm. He leaves a widow and five children. The oldest child, John, is 30 years old, and the youngest, a girl, 4 years so that a guardian will have to be appointed. The funeral takes place Tuesday afternoon from the farm northwest of Yutan, to the German cemetery.

Mr. Arps was a member of the Lutheran church of Yutan and Rev. G. A. Neeff will officiate.

Michael Wetters.
STURGIS, S. D., Feb. 23.—(Special.)—Michael Wetters, aged 62 years, a well-to-do farmer of Pleasant Valley, Meade county, died at St. Joseph's hospital in Deadwood, Friday. During the past two weeks he had been receiving treatment at the hospital for blood poisoning, which had set into his system, as the result of an injury received to one of his legs. Although everything possible was done to aid him, the disease reached the heart. Deceased leaves a wife, two daughters and a son. Interment occurred in this city yesterday at the Catholic cemetery.

Funeral of Mrs. Healy.
FREMONT, Neb., Feb. 23.—(Special.)—The funeral of Mrs. Mary Healy was held from the Methodist church. The Robekal lodge and the Rathbone Sisters were present and the building was crowded to the doors. Dr. Sanderson, the pastor of the church, who conducted the services, paid a high tribute to the worth of the deceased and her activity in charitable work. The remains were followed to their last resting place in Ridge cemetery by a long procession. Her brother, Julian West of Milwaukee, was present.

Frederick Rolfs.
Frederick Rolfs, who has been a resident of Nebraska since 1867, died of tuberculosis at his home near Elkhorn last Friday, survived by his wife, a son, a daughter, a sister, Mrs. Peter Giant of Leigh, Neb., and by three brothers. Mr. Rolfs was born at Hofseld, Holstein, in 1851, and was brought by his parents to Davenport, Ia., two years later. From Davenport he moved to Nebraska.

Miles Ross.
NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Feb. 23.—Miles Ross is dead at his home here from Bright's disease. Mr. Ross was one of New Jersey's delegation in every democratic national convention from 1858 to 1888. He was one of the original "Cleveland" men in 1858. He was a member of the democratic executive committee in 1876 and for some years thereafter. He was born in 1827.

William S. Stewart.
FREMONT, Neb., Feb. 23.—(Special.)—William S. Stewart of this city died at the hospital this morning of appendicitis, aged 29 years. He was a native of Ohio and for eleven years had been engineer of the Tribune building. He leaves a widow and one daughter. He was a member of the Knights of Pythias.

Revolutionary Society Meets in Annual Congress and Dedicates Building Site.
NEARLY THOUSAND DELEGATES ATTEND

Mrs. Fairbanks Seeks Re-Election as President General and Thereby Precipitates Lively Contest Over Rules Interpretation.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—The twelfth continental congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution convened in this city today. Many of the leaders of the organization that numbers 40,000 patriotic women, were present. Approximately 1,000 delegates and alternates from all the states in the union attended.

The congress will be in session throughout the week and already bids fair to be marked by several warm contests, the principal one being over the office of president-general. Mrs. Charles W. Fairbanks is a candidate to succeed herself for the second time. She already has served one term as president-general, and one term before that as vice president-general, and the opponents to her re-election claim that her tenure in both offices general and vice president-general in the meaning of an amendment to the constitution in preventing the officers from serving more than two consecutive terms.

The advocates of her election contend that the amendment was not retroactive and that she is therefore eligible. Mrs. Daniel Manning and Mrs. Donald McLean, both of New York City, will be conspicuous in the campaign for president-general.

Would Limit Term American.
The feature of today's proceedings were the address of welcome of President-General Fairbanks, the response by Mrs. May Phelps Montgomery of Oregon and the ceremony the raising on the site of the Memorial Continental hall the flag presented to the society by the Sons of the American Revolution of Washington.

Mrs. Fairbanks in her address referred to the influx of Italians, Bohemians, Poles and Russians in Greater New York, and said that the greatest aspiration should be to eliminate the attaching of any other nationalities to the word American. She referred to pending amendments relating to limitations on the length of service of officers and to change the date of the annual meeting to either the week of March 19 or April 19, or to the first Monday in May, and recited the arguments of both sides on the latter question, but made no recommendation beyond saying that "all will regret our failure to meet in that week in which Washington's birthday occurs."

During the year there were 3,750 members added to the rolls. She said that the approach of the centennial of the Louisiana purchase is absorbing the attention, not only of the Daughters of the American Revolution, but of the Daughters of the Sons of the American Revolution and a detail of the first regiment of Minute men of Washington marched on the stage. Edwin Warren of Baltimore, president general of the Sons of the American Revolution, eulogized President Washington, Lincoln and McKinley.

He arranged congress for not having appropriated money for the erection of continental hall, instead of allowing funds for the creation of that institution to be raised by private subscription.

An interesting feature of the day's exercises was the raising of the flag on the site of the proposed continental hall at Seventeenth and D streets, northwest. This took place at the conclusion of the business session of the convention.

When adjournment was announced, Mrs. Fairbanks, leaning on the arm of General Warfield, and followed by the national officers and delegates to the Daughters of the American Revolution and members of the Sons of the American Revolution and the guard of Minute men, proceeded to the site of the new building where had been erected the historic flagpole which had been used at the inauguration of President McKinley. The flag was attached to a rope in the hands of Mrs. Fairbanks, and with a "hip, hip, hurrah," it was hoisted aloft, to the tune of the "Star Spangled Banner," sung by the crowd below.

Mrs. Fairbanks announced that the house of representatives had passed a bill exempting the property, including the proposed hall, from taxation, which would result in a saving of probably $2,500 annually to the association. The statement was received with cheer.

Wage Conference Still Drags On, While Parties Seem to Drift Apart.

TOPEKA, Kan., Feb. 23.—The outlook for a possible settlement for the Santa Fe wage dispute is rather unfavorable tonight. More conferences have been held, but the only development is a more persistent unwillingness on the part of either side to give in. The national officers of the conductors and firemen, who are here, appear to be firm in their determination not to accept less than a 20 per cent increase.

DEATH RECORD.

Funeral of Louis C. Barnett.
NEBRASKA CITY, Neb., Feb. 23.—(Special.)—The funeral of Louis C. Barnett, a victim of the Cedar Rapids holocaust, was held this afternoon from the Methodist Episcopal church. Interment was made in Wyuka cemetery. A detachment of Company C, Second regiment, Nebraska National Guard, accompanied the funeral cortege. Mr. Barnett arrived in Cedar Rapids a few hours before death came to his son, but owing to the severe burns about the face of his son was unable to see him. The young man had carried several people from the burning building and had returned for his watch when he was overcome with the heat and received the injuries which caused his death. He realized that he could not live and requested his father that he have a military escort at the funeral.

And still when asked about the relation of this bill to municipal taxation of railroads members of the committee will persist in saying the bill does not touch municipal taxation of railroads.

Repeal Insurance Companies.
The bill assesses fire and life insurance companies on the basis of their gross income instead of net earnings, which will make a vast difference. It is held, in the volume of taxes these concerns pay. One plan in this is to catch those companies whose agents make their returns directly to their foreign offices. The bill exempts home mutual companies. Foreign fire insurance companies are taxed locally on their gross receipts of premiums, foreign life on 2 per cent of their gross premiums, and their assessment is payable to the state treasurer.

The Nebraska life and fire companies, except fraternal or mutual, are also assessed locally on their gross receipts of premiums.

Now that the revenue bill is introduced, the question of the Omaha tax commission bill, house roll 330, being tacked onto this measure, has again been raised. It does not meet the approval of the committee who framed the revenue bill. Sen. an avowed friend of municipal taxation of railroads, deprecates the wisdom of such a plan. He said today he hoped nothing of this sort would be undertaken. The sentiment seems to be in favor of having each bill go alone and stand or fall without the support or disapproval of the other, and that's about what will come out.

Look to Omaha Men.
But still the fate of house roll 330 and the attitude of certain members looms up as a most pertinent and interesting proposition, entirely too interesting to suit some of these members. The Douglas county men naturally are looked to to assume a positive leadership of this Omaha bill to give Omaha and every other municipality in the state the right of taxing railroad terminals at their fair cash value. Are they looked to in vain? That is a question of such moment, and upon which hangs the political fate of some people. This house roll 330, as a man remarked today, is going to be a Jonah to political plans and ambitions.

Of course it has been known all along that the republicans, so vastly in the majority in both houses, would not be unit on this proposition. They need not and yet command sufficient strength to pass the bill. It is now believed that when the show-down comes the majority of the minority will be found against H. R. 330. From choice? Well, that is doubtful. From political wisdom or expediency? That is doubtful, too.

Kennedy of the Iowa Douglas county democrat, appears to be earnestly working for the passage of the bill. He has endeavored to get the Douglas county members to caucus on it and shape definite and systematic plans for carrying it through. But he has not succeeded. The Douglas county delegation actually has never held a caucus to decide what its course would be on this, the most important measure to their constituents before the legislature. Mr. Kennedy today sent word to Chairman Gess of the Omaha city committee to get his men together on this thing at once or he might decide to go it alone and do what he could for the success of the bill.

Loomis Lays Down.
The democrats, it was supposed, would be led on the floor of the house by Loomis of Dodge, but Loomis has completely withdrawn from any position that could be construed into that of a leader. He appears calmly indifferent upon the whole matter

(From a Staff Correspondent.)
LINCOLN, Feb. 23.—(Special.)—Senate Bill 203, introduced today in the senate by Fries of Valley, is a second edition of the Tooley house bill, which was killed in the house last week. It is a bill for the rearrangement of the apportionment of school money. It provides that one-fourth of the money shall be given to counties according to the number of school districts and the remaining three-fourths shall be divided pro rata according to the number of pupils. Senator Fries said he believed the bill was not thoroughly understood in the house, hence he introduced it in the senate. It seeks to take from the larger school districts money that they now get under the apportionment law and give it to the smaller districts.

Harrison of Hall introduced a bill to compel school directors, when they make out an estimate of their expense account for which a levy is to be made, to itemize the statement. Senator Harrison said that intent of his bill was to prevent school boards from saying "we need such an

HAZLETON, Pa., Feb. 23.—According to information given out today by the mine workers only about 200 of the men in the seventh district who went on strike last Monday are still idle.

Most of the strikers who no places have yet been found were formerly in the service of the L'high Coal & Navigation company.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Feb. 23.—The anniversary of the birth of Washington was not observed today by the coal mine workers of the Wyoming valley. Every mine was working full handed all day.

The Stanton colliery resumed today, after being idle for a year on account of being flooded, fully 600 men and boys were given employment.
