The greatest and most successful "re-peater" last, and for two previous seasons, that ever came from that house of musical comedy successes, the New York Casino, was the famous and favorite musical comedy, "The Telephone Girl." In the metropolis it enjoyed a run of comethings like 200 nights. With a good, and if not better cast than ever it will be the attrac-tion at the New theater next Friday even-ing.

"The Power Behind the Throne," a highly successful romantic play, will be given at the New theater tonlight. Katherine Willard portrays the character of Aria, daughter of a court musician, and her opportunities are markedly strong. The scene is laid in an Austrian province in the latter part of the eighteenth century, and the story tells of the intrigues of the rival factions in the petty court to obtain ascendency over the reigning prince. The management gives promise that the costumes will be handsome and historically correct, and that the scenic settings will be magnificent and a prominent feature. DEFENSE IN M'DANIELS' CASE Prisoners Will Stick to the Story that Husband Committed Syleide.

The defense of Mrs. Ella McDaniels and Bert Livix, now in the county jail charged with the murder of the former's husband, Barney McDaniels, was outlined by Hon. Lew Genung, attorney for the defendants, while in the city yesterday. The defense will be that McDaniels committed suicide by not only cutting his throat, but by also taking strychnine. This is in line with the Fred Bokemper, proprietor of the Senate story told by the accused at the time of the saloon on Broadway, who was charged with keeping a disorderly place on the grounds that he incited two of his patrons to engage in a fight recently, was nined 55 and costs in police court yesterday. The fine was subsequently remitted on Bokemper paying the costs. sons of Mrs. McDaniels, that on the morning of the tragedy McDaniels before breakfast drank poison and was taken violently sick. The story of the defense will be that McDaniels after supposedly attending to his chores returned to the house from the barn and lay down on the bed and was taken violently sick. When his wife attempted to relieve him he said that it was useless trying to do anything for him or to send for a doctor, as he intended to die and had taken strychnine. Further, that when Mrs. McDaniels left the room at the request of her husband to secure something he jumped from the bed and rushed from the house with the blood pouring from a gaping wound in his throat.

Mr. Genung said that there was no evidence to substantiate the statement of Al Smith that he heard McDaniels call out as Henderson.

No application has been made as yet by stated yesterday that as far as he knew nothing would be done in the case until the regular session in April. Both Mrs. McDaniels and Livix since their confinement in the county jail here have declined to discuss the charge against them.

Committee Changes It Friends Hardly Recognize the Mensure.

PIERRE, S. D., Feb. 24 .- (Special Telegram.)-The house held a morning session today and the first move was on the part of the friends of special appropriation bills to postpone action for a few days longer, the Aberdeen Normal bill and the St. Louis fair bill being on the list. Among the principal house bills presented were: Hayes, providing for a state revenue commission of three; by Russell, requiring gas companies to furnish patrons with full instructions for reading meters; by Young, granting extra compensation to county assessors in large counties; by Bromley, to authorize the purchase of land at the Redfield Hospital for the Insane. The house passed senate bills providing for town jails, licensing of billiard rooms right of control of water from public artestan wells, providing for annexation of territory to independent school districts, providing an appropriation of $5,000 for a silver service for the ship "South Dakota." o appropriate money for criminal prosecu ons in Stanley county. The senate oil inspection bill was taken up and several amendments were offered by Gross, the principal ones being to raise the flash test from 105 to 110 and striking out the portion of the bill which sime to regulate the color of oil. Madison and Kribs opposed any changes in the bill, as it was carefully drawn and should go through just as it passed the senate, while Brown of Sanborn looked upon the amendments with suspicion and wanted it to go back to the committee before any changes were made. Porter was opposed to the whole bill on account of its attempting too much and was likely to fall down in some of its provisions. On motion of Longstaff the bill went back to the committee for further consideration. The bill will be reported tack tomorrow without change and likely will pass.

Carroll offered a general apportionment bill to cover the failure of the legislature of two years ago to act, and, on motion of Goddard, it was indefinitely postponed as soon as it received its first reading.

The boundary committee bill came up on special order and was supported by Lawson, Bromley and Hutchinson Beadle and opposed by Nelson, who desired to amend to fix the compensation of commissioners at $6 per day instead of $10, but the bill was passed as presented.
