

The oldest,
safest,
strongest,
Sarsaparilla
you can buy

NEW BOOKS AND MAGAZINES

Eggleston Out with Another Interesting
Virginia War Story.

IT IS THE THIRD OF A SERIES IN A GROUP

Two Works Written by Associate
Editors of the "New Thought"— Practical Guide of the Jeweler's Art.

George Carcy Eggleston is out with another entertaining novel—a Virginia war story entitled "The Master of Warlock." Mr. Eggleston's third story in a group, of which his recent very successful "Dorothy South" is the second, deals with the early stages of the civil war, as witnessed from the southern point of view, and yet without a touch of sectionalism, and thus carries on his delightful and authoritative studies of American conditions in the south. "The Master of Warlock" has an interesting and increasingly strong plot and is full of purity of sentiment, charm of atmosphere and stirring details. Agatha Ronald, while visiting some friends in Richmond, had learned to love Billie Pagan, the Master of Warlock. But the early discovery of one of the typical family feuds of Virginia separates the lovers at first. The hero goes to the war and during one of his farthest adventures on the enemy he is wounded and taken prisoner, being sent to a northern hospital. Agatha hears of it and undergoes many hardships and adventures to reach him. With the help of his servant Peggy, Agatha escapes from the hospital, but is immediately taken sick again. He is then joined by Agatha, who nurses him back from death. They are happily united at last. The story is one that will be enjoyed by all. Lathrop Publishing company.

Theodore Burt Sayre is the author of "Tom Moore." It is founded on the same incidents as his successful play, as presented by Andrew Mack. The author calls it "an unhistorical romance, founded on certain happenings in the life of Ireland's greatest poet." All lovers of the author's "The Last Rose of Summer" and "Love's Young Dream" will find this an exceptionally interesting book. It is divided into four parts, the subjects and order as follows: "One Afternoon in Ireland," "One Afternoon in England," "Two Evenings in High Society" and "A Night of Adventure." It begins with the poet as a young fellow out angling and carries him through various experiences of both bitter disappointment and remarkable fortune. Moore's courtship of Miss Bessie Dyke brings out a love tale of unusual interest, while his fall from royal favor and the regaining of the same help to enliven the story. The poet's wit carries a vein of merriment and humor through the entire novel, even during discouraging moments. Published by Frederick A. Stokes company.

We are in receipt of two books written by associate editors of the "New Thought." The first is by William Walker Atkinson and is entitled "The Law of the New Thought." This book is written to answer the questions, "What is the New Thought?" "What does it mean?" "What principles does it stand for?" "How does new thought differ from old thought?" The second book is "The Heart of the New Thought," by Ella Wheeler Wilcox. It is practically an interpretation of "New Thought." The backbone of this philosophy is the power of right thought, the idea giving shape to our lives are governed by our thoughts—the purer the thought, the purer the life. That we can train our thoughts to such an extent that we can practically become masters of circumstances. Published by the Psychic Research company.

"Silverwork and Jewelry," by H. Wilson, is a practical guide to some of the more simple processes of the jeweler's art. The author has been careful to avoid the fault of vagueness common to most books of this character, and at the expense of a certain amount of repetition he has described the operations of each process consecutively, from beginning to end.

The subject is treated not from the standpoint of a trade, but from that of an artist, in former times the arts developed under the hand of the contact of tools and material, but in these later days, as the editor points out, it is far too customary to "design," as it is called, the shape of some

Moore's Stoves
Always
Please

The Only Range with Hinged Top

The handy way to broil, toast or fix the fire.

MOORE'S STEEL RANGE has Oven Thermometer, Automatic Controlling Damper, and every facility for cooking with ease and certainty. Ask to see it.

For Sale by Leading Store Dealers.

INCENDIARY FIRES DOCK

Portland Harbor Property is Destroyed by Furious Flame.

TOTAL LOSS WILL REACH $400,000

Brigade Has Hard Fight to Save
Adjoining Property and Even Then Houses, Wheat and Salt Go Up.

PORTLAND, Ore., March 10.—Victoria dock, situated on the east bank of the Willamette river, north of the railroad bridge, was entirely destroyed by fire about noon today together with 1,000 tons of wheat and 2,000 tons of salt stored on the dock. The total loss is estimated at $400,000. The insurance is about $250,000.

It seems certain that the fire was started by an incendiary, as a man was seen leaving the dock after the fire had gained some headway. The police station was notified as soon as possible, but before an officer arrived the man disappeared.

Three times during the last fortnight fires have been started on docks in this city and it is supposed that the same man is responsible for all of them.

The fire broke out shortly before noon and it looked for a while as though the entire line of docks on the east side of the river would be burned; indeed, several times living dock, adjoining caught fire, but by diligent efforts on the part of the fire department the flames were confined to Victoria dock and a few small buildings nearby.

Several small houses near the dock were destroyed, the loss on them aggregating $5,000.

Earlier in the day the half block of frame buildings bounded by Mississippi, Russell and Goldsmith streets, in Astoria, not far from Victoria dock, was destroyed. Eighteen families who lived in the block were rendered homeless. The ground floor was occupied by several small stores. The total loss is about $25,000.

SPLIT, BRITTLE, DULL HAIR.

All Come from Dandruff, Which is Caused by a Germ.

Split hair, harsh hair, lusterless hair, brittle hair, falling hair, all owe their origin to dandruff, which is caused by a measly little microbe that burrows into the scalp, throwing up the cuticle into dandruff scales and sapping the vitality of the hair at the root, causing the hair to fall out. Modern science has discovered a remedy to destroy the dandruff microbe, which is combined in Newbro's Hairdressing, which may be had of any druggist. Always itching instantly and makes hair soft as silk. Take no substitute; nothing "just as good."

DEATH RECORD.

"Grandma" Rapp-Christie.

"Grandma" Rapp-Christie died Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of her son, William B. Christie, Eighty-fourth and Burdette streets. She was born in Trenton, N. J., August 24, 1820, and moved to Ohio ten years afterward with her parents. In 1842 she married William B. Christie, the last of the saddlegear circuit riders of the Methodist church in Ohio and Indiana.

Her husband died ten years after their marriage and she married Mr. Rapp in 1852. He died in 1859 and eleven years later she came to Omaha, where she had lived ever since.

She was an earnest worker in the Methodist church until her advanced years made it impossible for her to take other than a silent part in it. In her declining years she would recount for hours stories of the time that she had spent with those prominent Methodist divines in Ohio, Russell Biglow, Adam Poe, Bishop Morris Hamline, Sworstedt and others, and of hours spent with Senator John Sherman and his brother, William Tecumseh Sherman. Her acquaintance with the men who made state and religious history in Ohio was large, and she never failed to find interest in telling them. In Omaha she was well known and many of the older men in public life were wont to visit with her and listen to her.

The funeral will be held from the home of her son, William B. Christie, on Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Interment will be made at Prospect Hill cemetery.

Mrs. Deilah Herron.

BEATRICE, Neb., March 10.—(Special).—The many friends in this city of Mrs. Deilah Herron were shocked to learn of her death, which occurred in Kansas City Saturday night at 4 o'clock. Deceased was one of the oldest residents of this county until two years ago, when she removed to the above place to make her home with her nephew, W. B. Reed. Mrs. Herron was the wife of the late Captain Herron, who served two terms as sheriff of Gage county and was Beatrice's second fire chief. She was 62 years of age and was a woman highly esteemed by all who knew her. The remains were brought here last evening for interment.

"Yum Crinkle."

NTACK, N. Y., March 10.—Andrew C. Wheeler, better known as "Yum Crinkle," a well-known newspaper writer, died at his home at Monsey today. He leaves a widow, two sons and a daughter.

World's Best Pile Cure.

Why endure tortures from piles till you contract a fatal disease when Bucklen's Arnica Salve cures, or no pay? 25c. Per sale by Kuhn & Co.

Mysterious Men Arrested.

Detectives Davis and Ferris arrested a mysterious pair yesterday evening, in whom they had been long interested. The pair were wanted in the west for having been in the possession of the stolen goods of the late Captain Herron, who was killed in the above place to make her home with her nephew, W. B. Reed. Mrs. Herron was the wife of the late Captain Herron, who served two terms as sheriff of Gage county and was Beatrice's second fire chief. She was 62 years of age and was a woman highly esteemed by all who knew her. The remains were brought here last evening for interment.

When F. Marion Crawford was under the spell of the mahatmas he didn't find it produced chapters on mysticism that would credit to Marie Corelli, while his wondrous words around Buddhist thought worthy of William G. Judge himself. And to hold together these theosophical disquisitions he spun love scenes with the deftness of Laura Jane Libby—and no more subtly and with equal tenacity. Such a story is his "With Wings of Prayer." One doesn't wonder that the effort to construct a play from such material has resulted only in an array of dull speeches, academic discussions of the emotions, dialogue concerning laboratory experiments and soliloquies directed at nothing in particular, but full of gasps for breath and words that are given a doubly brilliant effect, the whole apparently without logical sequence. Mr. Eppy Williams hasn't added any particular rays to his crown by his work in adapting the Crawford story to stage uses. Some little attempt to provide interest in the movement of the characters is made in the emphasis put on the racial and religious differences between the hero and the heroine, but while listening to this one can't help humming

Where the best is like the worst.
And there ain't no ten commandments
And a man can raise a thief.

while the heroine resembles, in personal aspect at least, the young person Mr. Kipling's "Tommy" found "near the old Moulmein pagoda" and had in all human probability much the same tastes in cheroots and men. If one could only think that Mr. Crawford and not Mr. Kipling is right—but experience and the record are both against such a conclusion. At any rate, the Crawford book does over into a play hasn't taken on any new interest and is very much lacking in light.

Mrs. Bruner as Uolna is introduced as a temple serving girl, possessed of a strange power over men and beasts, but knowing nothing of its source or nature. She is loaned for experimental purposes to a charlatan, who is searching for the secret of life, that he may render himself immortal. A year after she comes on the scene as a carefree maiden we find her in Prague, debating anatomy, physiology and bright with her master, and delivering a gratuitous harangue on love to a persistent suitor, the said harangue being couched in polysyllables, and quite devoid of effect. What she does later doesn't matter. She honestly attempts to give her heavy lines some interest by injecting into them such dramatic force as she commands, but with doubtful success.

Julius Brutus Booth doesn't do any special credit to his illustrious namesake nor to the British army by his presentation of the part of the British captain who loves

Uolna. Erroll Dunbar makes the Arabian doctor something like what the author might have conceived him, a fanatic, educated, polished and heartless. Others in the cast are there solely to make the story move. An honest and in a measure successful endeavor to provide the piece with an atmosphere has been made in staging it. Scenery and stage appointments are oriental and of such texture and design as carry the idea of eastern taste and luxury.

"Uolna" will be given at a matinee and evening performance today.

An Unreliable Rumor.

The rumor from Washington that the "Four Track News" has been sold to Frank Munsey for four million dollars is denied by George H. Daniels, the publisher, who says that the "Four Track News" will continue to be published at the old stand—Albany Journal.

Strikers and Strikebreakers.

To take the police blotter as evidence William Richelleu, captain of the city's picketer is an impulsive man. He was arrested yesterday evening and charged with assault, this being the third arrest on similar charges. The alleged assault was committed on the steps of the city hall, where Richelleu had gone to give bail for Charles J. Johnson of 1202 Nicholas street. Johnson had been arrested at Twelfth and Chicago streets in company with J. T. Murphy, a strike-breaking machinist from the shops. These two met and Johnson is said to have applied profane and obscene language to Murphy. Officer Devereux, who was present, looked the two up, Murphy as com-

If you could buy back your lost health on the INSTALLMENT PLAN -- say 50 cents a week for a limited number of weeks until cured --- would you do it? Here is a plan worth trying.

Taking into account their power to cure, DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS FOR PALE PEOPLE are the most economical medicine, without exception. These pills have effected cures in cases of Partial Paralysis, Locomotor Ataxia, Rheumatism, Anemia and other serious diseases of the Blood and Nerves. They have cured in hundreds of cases where ordinary medicines had been tried and failed. They have restored to helpless invalids the full use of limbs that had long been powerless. That it has done this is the best guarantee that the remedy will not disappoint when used for simpler ailments. Taking one pill after each meal (as required for minor troubles) a fifty-cent box of the pills affords nearly two weeks' treatment. For chronic diseases, in which the maximum dose is reached, the cost of treatment does not usually exceed an average of fifty cents per week. Is this not worth a trial?

The following statements are made by people who have been cured and whose sole inducement to allow their names to be printed is the hope of commending this means of recovery to those who still suffer. They are not famous people but they are honest people who have bought Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, have been cured by them and are grateful to them. You may rely upon these endorsements as thoroughly as upon the recommendations of your friends and neighbors:

Locomotor Ataxia Cured.

Mr. J. T. Elliott of No. 3315 Parker street, Pittsburgh, Pa., was cured of locomotor ataxia by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. He says: "The trouble began with a severe pain in the legs and the physician at that time said it was muscular rheumatism. He gave me medicine which I took for some time without seeing any improvement. The pain continued and my strength kept ebbing away. Finally I was compelled to give up work."

A Complication of Troubles.

Mr. William H. Salmon, a veteran of Company A, 28th Pennsylvania volunteers, now residing at No. 74 Fayette street, Perth Amboy, N. J., says: "I suffered for years with rheumatism, caused by exposure in the army. I became partially crippled, and would now be in my grave if it had not been for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I also suffered from chronic diarrhoea and stomach trouble. My weight went from 185 pounds to 100, and I was in a terribly low state of health. Then I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and in one week's time saw a change for the better. I took on flesh, got stronger and soon felt first rate. Now I recommend this remedy to all who suffer."

Neuralgia Cured.

Mrs. J. B. Whittlesey of Turin, N. Y., says: "In the winter of 1900 I began to suffer with neuralgia. I tried three different physicians, but they did not help me; in fact, I grew worse. I suffered untold tortures with the pain in my face, and I don't know what I should have done if I had not acted on the advice of a friend and taken Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. In three days after beginning with them the pain began to grow less, and after taking three boxes the neuralgia had entirely disappeared. Since then I have not had even a touch of the pain. I have recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People to everyone I have seen who suffered with neuralgia."

Chronic Indigestion.

Mr. Arthur McLaughlin of No. 2725 North Lincoln street, Chicago, Ill., says: "For a long time I was troubled with severe pains in the stomach—a case of chronic indigestion. I would feel a craving for food, but when I ate I experienced these wretched pains which nearly drove me distracted. My kidneys also became affected. I tried Chronic Rheumatism Cured.

Miss Maggie Walton of No. 1326 Main street, Peoria, Ill., says: "I was afflicted with chronic inflammatory rheumatism and had suffered with it from my childhood. When I was 14 I was a helpless cripple, unable to leave my bed and with my arms and legs swollen to twice their natural size. I often fainted away with the pain, frequently several times during the day. Sometimes they thought I was dead. The rheumatism had affected my heart and that was the cause of the fainting spells. It was impossible for me to take any solid food, and there were days and days when not even a spoonful of liquid would stay on my stomach."

After-Effects of the Grip.

Mr. Robert G. Yates of No. 53 Clark street, Dubuque, Ia., had a hard attack of the grip and was slow in recovering from the after-effects. He says: "I was very weak and sleepless, with constant pain in my limbs. I fell away in flesh, lost my appetite, was tired out for no reason, and became generally miserable. Finally I saw in a newspaper and I decided to try them. I took better before I had finished one box. I kept on taking them and they cured me. Now I am past 55 years of age, I enjoy perfect health and, thanks to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, I can do a good day's work again. I am as hale and as hearty as many men much younger than I. I have a splendid appetite and can go to sleep a few minutes after retiring."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.

DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS FOR PALE PEOPLE
THE GREAT BLOOD-BUILDER AND NERVE TONIC

If YOU ARE SICK and your doctor cannot cure you, or if you have some ailment, small or great, that gives you trouble—write. We have an organization that enables us to show you whether troubles like your own have been cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills or not. In either case we shall answer your letter honestly and with perfect frankness; we will not, in fact, sell the pills to people whom we do not think they will cure. Address: Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

The tonic to take at this time of year when the blood is sluggish and impoverished.

AT THE PLAYHOUSES

"Uolna" at the Boyd.

Mrs. Minnie Little Bruce in "Uolna," a play in four acts, adapted from "The Witch of Prague" by Eppy Williams. The cast: Dr. Koryak (Arabian Nights) as Ruc, Comah, Erroll Dunbar, Captain Helmer Dreyer, Booth, Simon Kalka, Frank Henning, Sergeant Hawkins, Otis Sheridan, Henry G. Armstrong, S. D. Williams, Mandalay, Hilda Vernon, Axtella, Ida Warner, Sister Paul, Alice Porter, Uolna, Mrs. Bruner.

When F. Marion Crawford was under the spell of the mahatmas he didn't find it produced chapters on mysticism that would credit to Marie Corelli, while his wondrous words around Buddhist thought worthy of William G. Judge himself. And to hold together these theosophical disquisitions he spun love scenes with the deftness of Laura Jane Libby—and no more subtly and with equal tenacity. Such a story is his "With Wings of Prayer." One doesn't wonder that the effort to construct a play from such material has resulted only in an array of dull speeches, academic discussions of the emotions, dialogue concerning laboratory experiments and soliloquies directed at nothing in particular, but full of gasps for breath and words that are given a doubly brilliant effect, the whole apparently without logical sequence. Mr. Eppy Williams hasn't added any particular rays to his crown by his work in adapting the Crawford story to stage uses. Some little attempt to provide interest in the movement of the characters is made in the emphasis put on the racial and religious differences between the hero and the heroine, but while listening to this one can't help humming

Where the best is like the worst.
And there ain't no ten commandments
And a man can raise a thief.

while the heroine resembles, in personal aspect at least, the young person Mr. Kipling's "Tommy" found "near the old Moulmein pagoda" and had in all human probability much the same tastes in cheroots and men. If one could only think that Mr. Crawford and not Mr. Kipling is right—but experience and the record are both against such a conclusion. At any rate, the Crawford book does over into a play hasn't taken on any new interest and is very much lacking in light.

Mrs. Bruner as Uolna is introduced as a temple serving girl, possessed of a strange power over men and beasts, but knowing nothing of its source or nature. She is loaned for experimental purposes to a charlatan, who is searching for the secret of life, that he may render himself immortal. A year after she comes on the scene as a carefree maiden we find her in Prague, debating anatomy, physiology and bright with her master, and delivering a gratuitous harangue on love to a persistent suitor, the said harangue being couched in polysyllables, and quite devoid of effect. What she does later doesn't matter. She honestly attempts to give her heavy lines some interest by injecting into them such dramatic force as she commands, but with doubtful success.

Julius Brutus Booth doesn't do any special credit to his illustrious namesake nor to the British army by his presentation of the part of the British captain who loves

Uolna. Erroll Dunbar makes the Arabian doctor something like what the author might have conceived him, a fanatic, educated, polished and heartless. Others in the cast are there solely to make the story move. An honest and in a measure successful endeavor to provide the piece with an atmosphere has been made in staging it. Scenery and stage appointments are oriental and of such texture and design as carry the idea of eastern taste and luxury.

"Uolna" will be given at a matinee and evening performance today.

An Unreliable Rumor.

The rumor from Washington that the "Four Track News" has been sold to Frank Munsey for four million dollars is denied by George H. Daniels, the publisher, who says that the "Four Track News" will continue to be published at the old stand—Albany Journal.

Strikers and Strikebreakers.

To take the police blotter as evidence William Richelleu, captain of the city's picketer is an impulsive man. He was arrested yesterday evening and charged with assault, this being the third arrest on similar charges. The alleged assault was committed on the steps of the city hall, where Richelleu had gone to give bail for Charles J. Johnson of 1202 Nicholas street. Johnson had been arrested at Twelfth and Chicago streets in company with J. T. Murphy, a strike-breaking machinist from the shops. These two met and Johnson is said to have applied profane and obscene language to Murphy. Officer Devereux, who was present, looked the two up, Murphy as complaining witness. Later on when Richelleu came in the prisoners were being liberated and he spoke to Johnson, while Murphy passed out into the hall. Then Richelleu also went out, but immediately returned. He said that he was holding his head. He said that as he stepped out of the door Richelleu following after had struck him twice. The three were locked up.

Substitution Reversed.

A lady walked into a drug store the other day. The druggist was a noted substituter and the woman was evidently aware of the fact. She was ready for him.

Customer—Please give me a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Clerk—Here is a bottle of Sarsaparilla (he goes to wrapping it up), which is just as good as Hood's—in fact, we think it's a little better. I am sure you will like it. The price is the same.

Customer—Here is your dollar (she takes the bottle and lays a Mexican dollar on the counter); it weighs more than an American dollar and is made of better silver.

The clerk was too overcome to protest and stood staring after her while she smilingly sailed out of the door.—Pacific Coast Advertiser.

Incorporate Hotel Company.

Articles of incorporation have been filed by the Home Hotel company with the county clerk. Howard Blaine Wahl, Mary Ella Wahl and Hazel Heston Wahl are named as incorporators and the capital stock is named at $20,000. The object of the company is to carry on a general hotel and restaurant business. The Wahl are from Smithfield, Ia., where they run a hotel.

Paracamp
Relieves Instantly and Cures Quickly
COLD IN THE HEAD, SORE THROAT,
CROUP, FROST BITES, SORE CHEST,
SWELLINGS and all INFLAMMATIONS.
Prevents Pneumonia and Pleurisy.
IT SOOTHES, IT HEALS, IT CURES.

FOR SALE BY KUHN & CO., 15TH AND DOUGLAS STS., OMAHA, NEB.