She Made a Change. A Charleston Mother Did So with Advantage to Herself and Children.

A mother living in Charleston, Mass., the happy possessor of four children, writes: "Every fall and winter I have laid in a stock of cold remedies, croup mixtures and throat medicines for my children, for somehow or other they never seem to be free from colds, coughs or sore throat.

This fall I had a change in the usual program. I had myself been cured of an obstinate catarrh, from which I had suffered for years, by Stuart's Catarrh Remedy, and as they were pleasant to take, I determined to try them with my children. Our family physician told me he knew them to be perfectly safe and nothing better could be used for catarrh, coughs and colds.

People who have used sprays, inhalers, salves or washes for catarrh and have found how useless they are will be agreeably surprised at the results following the use of a pleasant, convenient internal remedy in tablet form. Druggists everywhere sell Stuart's Catarrh Remedy, which will sell for 50 cents for full sized bottles. It is the safest, most effective and popular of catarrh remedies.

RATHBONE ATTACKS WOOD

Claims Military Governor Acted Unfairly in Famous Corruption Trial.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—Estes G. Rathbone, formerly director of posts at Havana, who was convicted of misuse of funds, but pardoned under the general amnesty proclaimed by President Palma when he assumed office, has made public a statement of his case. This statement was addressed to Senator Platt (Conn.).

Mr. Rathbone has been earnestly urging the senate to take up his case, and now that congress has adjourned, he has decided to make public his statement. In it he says:

I acted as a citizen of the United States under the direction of the postoffice department of the United States, and in a treaty which was and is part of the law of the United States, and in the course of the performance of my official duty was charged with high crimes and misdemeanors and with communications to a foreign country, by a tribunal appointed by and acting under the authority and direction of the military governor of Cuba.

I contend that it was the duty of the government of the United States to secure for me the same impartial trial under usual and regular rules of judicial procedure as for other accused persons under its appointment, direction and authority.

I was subjected to trial by arbitrary and unusual modes of trial contrary alike to original laws of Cuba and the fundamental principles of justice and equity.

The proceeding which led to my conviction was not a judicial proceeding, but a special proceeding directed by the military governor of Cuba, who issued orders from time to time according to the exigencies of the case.

By letters of instruction communicated to the trial court, I authorized the use as evidence in the case of all papers and documents in the United States on behalf of the government.

Illegal evidence was used against me, notably hearsay and expert affidavits. I did not have the right to be heard in my behalf in violation of article vi, amendments to the constitution.

I did not have full authority to appoint and remove members of the judiciary.

Items of expenditure in my accounts which he held to be improper he admitted to be correct, and the military governor and other officials, including his military secretary, were convicted of conspiracy upon the same evidence.

W. H. Reeves, who was a defendant on trial upon the same charge.

McLaughlin was awakened early this morning by smoke and found his house in flames. Wrapping his wife and infant daughter in a blanket he rushed from the house and carried them in safety to a neighbor's.

He returned to the burning house, but had barely reached the boy when the roof fell. Father and son managed to crawl to the door among the burning embers, where they were found and carried to the hospital, but both died this afternoon.

COLONIANS OPPOSE TREATY

Colombians Oppose Treaty, Aroused Hostility.

COLON, March 14.—General Rafael Reyes, vice president of Colombia, who reached the isthmus two days ago from Mexico, was interviewed here today.

Questioned concerning the canal treaty, he spoke guardedly and did not appear disposed to discuss its terms or the probability of its ratification by the Colombian congress. He seemed to believe, however, that the interpretation the United States put on obligatory rights to maintain free transit across the isthmus and its proposed manner of enforcing these rights had created an unfavorable impression throughout Colombia.

The politicians who would be called upon to decide the fate of the treaty would not be likely to forget, he said, the humiliating incidents which occurred during the recent insurrection.

General Reyes in no way expressed himself as opposed to the construction of the canal by the United States.

Both men are boarders at the Elkhorn Valley house and are charged with fighting.

Wigam Dunn, the bartender of the Arcade saloon, who was charged with the larceny of $40 from a guest named Griffin, was released from custody Saturday. SPONNER DEFENDS TITLE

Claims New Panama Company Ample Able to Sell Concession.

Franchise Has Been Sold Twice and Is Now About to Be Bought in Similar Fashion by United States.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—Without transacting any business the senate today went into executive session.

Previous to the closing of the doors the official stenographers and all the employes of the official offices were sworn to secrecy and one of the new representatives was invited into the chamber to make a detailed report of the proceedings, with the understanding that it should be published after the vote.

Spencer Replies to Morgan. Senator Spencer occupied five hours in reply to Senator Morgan's opposition to the canal treaty.

Much of his speech was legal in its character, designed to sustain the validity of the canal title. He said there could be no doubt that the company came legitimately into possession of the canal concession and having so acquired the property had an undoubted right to transfer it to the United States or any other purchaser.

Passing to Senator Morgan's religious fear, he said under that treaty there would be no pretext for the interference by Colombian authorities with the religious conduct or affiliations of Americans in the canal zone.

He said that the treaty would be a position against the minority party in the country with which the agreement was made.

Traces Canal History. Returning to the validity to the title, Senator Spencer traced the history of the liquidation concerning the concession through the French courts. Beginning with the transfer of the original concession to M. De Lesseps he said in 1858, when the company organized by De Lesseps became involved, the courts intervened and after appointing a liquidator authorized the organization of a new company, which is the company from which the United States secures its title; that the new company was recognized by a law passed by the Colombian government in 1860, which confirmed the original concession and made provision for payments of stock and money to Colombia. Other subsequent acts of the Colombian government were such as to leave no doubt of a perfect understanding between it and the new canal company.

Towards the close of his address Senator Spenser was questioned by a number of democratic senators particularly Senator Morgan.

In reply he said there were some features of the treaty he would prefer to have otherwise, but the terms were the best that had been possible to secure, and he believed expediency demanded that the treaty be accepted.

Senator Dewey referred to the criticism that the canal would be injurious to railroads and said that as a railroad man he was thoroughly convinced that such would not be the case. On the contrary, the construction of the canal would stimulate all lines of business and the railroads would share in that prosperity.

Senator Bacon and Senator Morgan offered a number of amendments which will be voted on Monday.
