COUNCIL BLUFFS.

BRICK SIDEWALKS MUST GO

Practically All on Broadway, Pearl and Main Streets in Bad Condition.

COUNCILMEN MAKE INSPECTION TOUR

Change in Gutter Will Be Made to Remedy Trouble over Drainage at Greenewick & Schoenberg Warehouse.

Practically all of the brick sidewalks on both sides of Broadway between First and Thirteenth streets and on Pearl and Main streets from Broadway to Sixteenth avenue will have to be replaced this year with either cement, stone or artificial walks. This was decided upon yesterday afternoon at the meeting of the committee of the whole of the city council, following an inspection of the sidewalks on the streets named.

In a few places it was found that the brick walks were in condition to do service for some time to come, and these will be excluded from the general recommendation which the committee will make to the council at its meeting next Monday night. The sidewalkers from their tour of inspection learned that with a few exceptions the brick sidewalks on the three principal business streets of the city were in a deplorable condition and justified the many complaints that have been made at the city hall.

The sidewalkers also examined the paving on Ninth street between Broadway and First avenue recently laid for the special benefit of the Greenewick & Schoenberg company. At the meeting of the city council Monday night the Greenewick & Schoenberg company filed a complaint to the effect that the paving had been improperly laid, with the result that the water from the street seeped into the cellar of its warehouse. The company at the same time protested against the recommendation of the committee to raise the gutter on the east side of the street and cementing it the trouble complained of could be remedied, and this will be done.

The protest of the company against being assessed for the paving of the Union avenue intersection places the city council in a quandary. The Union Pacific railroad and the Omaha Bridge & Terminal Railway company have signified their willingness to stand the cost of this portion of the paving, but the sidewalkers will not accept the offer. The right of the Union Pacific to Union avenue has been disputed by the city and an action contesting it is now pending in the courts. The sidewalkers are fearful that if they accept the offer of the improvement they will thus admit that the railroad has title to the thoroughfare and be unable to pay the cost of the improvement. The matter will thus admit that the railroad has title to the thoroughfare and be unable to pay the cost of the improvement.

Manual Training for Mutes.

The quarterly conference of the heads of the various state institutions with the Board of Control, which closed this evening, developed some matters of more than usual interest in the state at large. The discussion of manual training in schools for the deaf in a paper by Superintendent T. A. of the Minnesota school at Faribault, developed that the schools in Iowa and Minnesota make larger use of the manual training department than any other of the fifty-seven in the United States. Superintendent Robert of Council Bluffs and Superintendent T. A. of the Minnesota school in their reports, in which they work in the method of manual training in their schools. The fact was brought out that employers of skilled labor regard deaf students who have been trained in these manual departments as among the very best mechanics that can be employed, and there is a demand for them. In woodwork, in shoemaking and similar trades they excel. In the matter of giving the deaf students good training to be breadwinners the western schools lead.

In the matter of the new inebriate departments at the state hospitals some valuable information was given by Superintendent Augustus A. of the hospital at Mount Pleasant. His paper brought out the fact that there is every reason for desiring that the inebriates be kept in a hospital separate from the insane, and this was commended by Governor Cummins and members of the Board of Control. He related the method of treatment adopted at the state hospital, declaring that of the 150 cases first admitted not one person was without some other ailment than inebriety.

A number of other papers were read. The program arranged for the next conference is in a paper by Superintendent Green of the Nebraska state hospital.
