up or some seifish scheme up their sleeve. "About thirty years ago a lot of broken down politicians, who had lost their grip in the republican and democratic parties, and a portion of the fourth, but on that banded themselves together for the ostensible purpose of purifying politics and redeeming Omaba from perdition. They flourished for a time, but just as soon as their leaders were uncovered and their scheme for distributing political spoils made public, they went to pieces and disappeared as spooks usually do at sunrise. There is nothing new under the sun. The dark lantern movement which has recently been inaugurated in this city differs in no respect from that of the defunct 'ko-ops' or Gopher Klan.

Political Ting Ling Foos.

"The leading spirits of 1903 are imbued with the same patriotic desire to save Omaha and get themselves into office as the political spirit mediums of thirty years ago. Like the professional sleight-of-hand performer, they want to shroud their movements in mystery. Now you see it and now you don't. You doubtless remember the Chinese juggler, Ting Ling Foo, who mystified and puzzled so many people at the Chinese village in the Transmississippi exposition. He brought in a rabbit in bis sleeve and presently had a whole flock of | geese on the stage. That is the way Ting Ling Foe Breatch and Jung Ling John Westberg, and Bing Ling Burban't are trying to make geese of you all. Many of you, doubtless, have been handed a typewritten circular with the injunction to 'keep it dark.' Here is one of the Gopher pledges for the Sixth ward. The closing sentence reads as follows: 'Whether or not I am accepted to membership in this committee, I hereby pledge myself to keep the identity, work and membership in said all times be governed by the action of a as I can learn they failed to discover anymyzelf to do all in my power honostly and detective myself to do all in my power honostly and detective my power h fairly to elect an anti-machine delegation to the next city convention to be held to the next city convention to be held April 11, 1903. Now, why this profound secrecy? Is there any reason why the problems of municipal government cannot be discussed in the open? Why should any free American citizen bind himself to be governed at all times by the action of a dark-lantern committee whose identity he does not even know? Why should any self-respecting republican sign away his sacred right to exercise his privilege as a citizen according to his own best judgment and conscience? Why should he allow himself to be blindfolded by a gang of masked political bunco-steerers who do not dare to show their faces in the open?

Something About Machines. "They say they want to down the macoine. What machine? Is it the old or the Let us be frank about these matters. The machine that has figured so conspicuously in Casha politics was known as the Moores-Rosewater-Dennison machine. Moores stood for the city hall gang, the pelice commission, with 100 pelicemen the wrong direction. The leaders of the swinging their clubs over the heads of brewers and saloon keepers, and a dozen sleuths ferreting out and running down anything and anybody that did not toe the mark, all the while collecting forced contributions from gamblers, prostitutes and outlaws for political purposes and personal pictured by the sham reformers who circulated those 'well defined rumors' two

"If there ever was such a dreadful machine as above described, it certainly has no existence now. Take a look into the city hall and what do you find? With the exception of a couple of elevator boys and two or three clerks the entire ground floor of the city hall has worn out its shoes in City Clerk Elbourn, who was nominated by ler, who had the support of the machine in the Sixth ward, and Bryce for his third term election, is afflicted with the city treasurership until he was pro-

Bulldoze those who did not want to give him their involuntary aupport and to hold up people who were subject to police surveillance. This is the story they told and thousands of good, respectable people in the city of Omaha believed and hundreds of them still believe. You remember the gentlemen who started the well-defined rumors called upon the judges to convene a special grand jury. The grand jury was called and continued in session about two months. It investigated these stories, but failed to find any tangible proof of a holdup or blackmail or collection of forced contributions from the vicious classes. But the men who are now leaders in the Gopher camp insisted that the grand jury was packed and, moreover, that the men and women who were subpoensed before the grand jury did not dare tell what they knew, for the police were still in the hands police they would not telt what they knew

Dennison honored the draft and gave them $100 of gambler's money and they took it. I presume that if Dennison or any other man of the sporting fraternity should drop a hundred-dollar bill into the slot machine of the Gophers they would use it without any qualms of conscience. (Applause.) They would not hesitate to accept such stained money. Not at all. At the same time they would thank the Lord that he has not made them as all these others are.

Alleged Rosewater Machine.

"Now as to the Rosewater machine. When the county committee and city committee was by decisive majority made up of my political friends there was always some representation in the committee for the minority. The committee was organized for the republican party and not merely for one faction. The Rosewater machine recognized the right of the minority to participate with the majority. When a ward or precinct was carried by the opposing faction the anti-machine delegates were always allowed to name the members of the committee for that ward or precinct. They were always given their proportion of campaign ammunitions whether in the shape of carriages or workers, and were permitted to share the fortunes of the party and march hand in hand with the majority. At no time in the history of Omaha and the county, at least for the last twenty-five years, has any precinct or ward presented the names of committeemen selected by the delegates present without having them duly recment, of which Mr. Moores was presumed ognized and enrolled in the central com-

Methods of the Reformers.

"Mark the contrast between the old and the new machine. When the county conention last fall was captured by imported repeaters from Iowa and hundreds of affidavit men who had no right to vote and by corporation boodle, the anti-machine faction set up the most arbitrary and tyrannical machine that we have ever seen in the city or in this state. When South Omaha came up with a delegation opposed to the majority of the convention they were chastised and denied any representation on the legislative ticket. Not only that, when the delegation from South Omaha, in accordance with old-time usage, named the six committeemen to which that city surely was entitled under the call, those committeemen were insultingly rejected and six men who had been overwhelmingly defeated at the South Omaha of Mr. Moores, and as long as he had the primary were put upon the committee. Is any wonder that the ticket met with disaster in that town by reason of the resentment of the republicans of South Omaha at such treatment? The same treatment was meted out to the Second and Third wards in Omaha and precincts in the county that had elected anti-Mercer formed that women who plied their voca- delegates. If memory serves me right, it happened about two years ago, when Thompson of the Ninth ward was a candidate for sheriff. In the middle of that campaign Thompson called on me with his bosom friend, City Treasurer Hennings. 'What do you think of my candidacy for sheriff?' said he, 'and where do you stand on that?' I said: 'So far as I am concerned, I want to help nominate a man that we can elect. I do not think you are a good mixer. I think you are talking too much on the street corners and do not circulate enough among the workingmen. If I was in your place I would change my tactics and endeavor to get in with the people.' 'Well,' said he, 'where does Frank Moores stand on sheriff?" 'I do not know exactly, but I understand that the mayor wants a man that can be elected, and in the main I believe he thinks the same as I do, that you do not mix enough and that you do not have the strength you ought to have among the common people.' 'Well, how does Tom Dennison stand? said Thompson. think I am a mind reader?" said I. 'Dennison is a gambler, and gamblers are always with the powers that be, and the powers that be is John Power, over in the ourt house. Naturally Dennison is with Power. He is just like all of his class. They always try to stand in with the sheriff and the mayor and they always drop on their feet like a cat when the political policy wheel takes a turn.' (Laughter.) So far as I can ascertain, Tom Dennison has no calling in the city of Omaha now that can be considered illegitimate. He has not been in business, as they say, for more than six months, except as a sport on the race tracks and in side speculation. As a matter of fact, Dennison is a very reticent man. He does not take anybody into his

Why Its Campaign Pailed.

"The new machine is the most despotic machine that anybody has ever seen in this or any other state in the union. Never has anybody seen such high-handed and stupid machining. The disaster that overtook the new machine last fall was due almost altogether to its unrepublican policy. They did not want to fraternize with anybody that did not belong to their faction. Mercer himself repelled the proffered assistance of Senator Millard. When he was asked by Senator Millard whether he could do anything for him, he said, 'No, I am as good as elected now. I do not need your help.' The impending city campaign is not national. It does not involve great state issues, but it may bear on the future of the party, and on the future of the state. The paramount issue in this campaign is Omaha, and the republicans of Omaha must stand by Omaha, against corporate tax shirkers and corporate misrule, and against the election of anybody that stands with those people. (Applause).

Stand of the Corporations.

"There is no doubt that the parties that have been operating at Lincoln this winter will now enter into this campaign and attempt to give us the kind of representation in the city hall for the next three years that they have given us in the legislature for the last three months. It remains for every republican to decide for himself whether he can afford to be represented in the city government by anybody who is chained to the corporations. We want to give the corporations fair and equitable treatment and if they are satisfied with fair treatment they should stop tampering with our city council and city officers. If they want to rule this city with an iron hand, if they want to own our public servants, our councilmen, mayor, treasurer, clerk and comptroller, then, for one, I am willing to go anywhere to break that power down. (Applause.) And I will say that no party ties are strong enough to chain me down to that class of candidates. I realize that we have a great future before us. I believe that if Omaha would make a concerted effort to develop the resources at its command the oldest man in this room may see a city here of 200,000 population, but if we continue simply as the hewers of wood and carriers of water for these corporations and allow them to control our public men, we cannot hope for progress. The people of Omaha in the earliest days stood up for Omaha and fought its battles and they ought to fight them again, and what I want to see is the republicans of Omaha take up the banner and carry it to victory at the coming election. (Applause.)

As to Frank E. Moores, "I am not committed to Frank E. Moores for mayor of Omaha. I do not believe that any man is absolutely essential to the growth and prosperity of Omaha. I do not think that any single man must occupy any office in order that the city should prosper. (Applause.)
