AUTHORIZES OCCUPATION TAX

Amended Charter Permits Council to Tax All Classes of Bustness Mon.

Any business that is in a class, of whatsoever kind, may be especially taxed for revenue in Omaha if the mayor and the city council so desire, according to section 12 of the charter amendments. Furthermore, the mayor and the council can make the tax as high as they please and the business men "have no adequate recourse at law." They will have to pay-that's all. say the provision is legal, and the knowledge that it is a law caused a little breeze to blow steadily in the downtown districts Saturday, Inasmuch as the city is going to be short of funds this year and may even go broke, the business men are wondering what may happen. City Attorney Connell, in expounding the new doctrine, says:

"The former law limited the power of the mayor and the councilmen to license and Jackson streets, Thursday, April 9 at 2 regulate these various kinds of business. Under the power to merely license and regulate the courts held that a license tax cannot exceed the reasonable cost or expense of regulation. The power to license and regulate is now extended to the levying of a tax for the purpose of revenue, which | Facific streets, one block from the east end mayor and the council may determine, without reference to the cost of regulation. In other words, they have the right to tax all kinds of business for revenue.

New Department Opening at Brandeis.

The formal opening of a new department given over entirely to juvenile clothing was celebrated at J. L. Brandeis & Sons yesterday. A number of unique features have been employed by the proprietors of the store in adopting this new department to the likes of the little fellows and the opening was made a very attractive event for Omaha boys.

The new department is situated on the third floor and occupies nearly one-third of the entire floor space solely for the display and sale of boys' clothing and furnishings. At the forward end of the department is fitted an elaborately furnished parlor and waiting room. Everything within the range of mercantile possibility is employed to give a comfortable and homelike air to the department. The dressing rooms are as spacious as small living Souvenirs were given away to the throng that visited the prettily equipped department to witness the juvenile style

Dentists Fight.

Dr. Worster, manager of the Union Dental college, 1522 Daugias, room 4, states that the dentists of this section have been rying for over two years to get this pany out of business. They have held meetings, threatened us, tried to bluff us, without success. Our success has startled the dentists of Omaha. The masses of the people are fighting for the Union Dental college. With their assistance this will be one of the greatest institutions in Omaha, as it enables people to get their teeth fixed by expert dentists at about half what the private, obscure, sorehead, idle, jealous dentists who are behind the times in this year of progress ask. It is goodby and a merry ha! ha! to above class of dentists. Our reliability is unquestioned, as this firm is backed by a wealthy corporation. It is nothing new, as about ten years ago Union Dental college started in the east.
