

FOR ARMOUR'S WIRELESS

Export de Forest Arrives to Arrange His System's Installation.

DESCRIPTION OF THE EQUIPMENT

Inventor Tells How Messages Will Be Flashed from South Omaha to Kansas City Without a Cable.

Lee de Forest, Ph. D., of New York, a native of Council Bluffs, son of Rev. H. S. de Forest, who for eight years previous to 1876 was a minister of the Congregational church in the Iowa city, where Mr. de Forest was born in 1873...

During the last month the de Forest Wireless Telegraph company, or strictly the American de Forest Telegraph company, which has acquired the rights of the original company, has operated an experimental system between the Chicago stock yards and the Chicago office of the Armour company for the purpose of demonstrating the ability of the invention.

INVENTOR OUTLINES PLAN.

According to the plans outlined by Mr. de Forest, the inventor of the system, there will be constructed at South Omaha, upon "Armour hill," the Omaha office. There will be two towers made of wooden lattice work, 200 feet high and 100 feet apart...

RECEIVERS DIFFER.

The receiver of the de Forest system is an anti-coherer. Between two specially prepared aluminum wires, placed at right angles to each other, is placed a small quantity of viscous fluid, carrying an electric current, which in this case is water. As long as this fluid remains in its normal state there is a current continually existing through the wires, but when the additional current is received from another station the water is broken into minute bubbles, breaking the circuit and producing the sound in the receiver, which is similar to the receiver of an ordinary telephone.

HOW REGULATED.

The receivers and the transmitters are attuned so that the impulses from the transmitter will actuate only that receiver which is similar to it. This is governed by the number of jars in the battery and the length of the wire used to connect the jars with the transmitter and the receiver. At the present time the rates for fixing the various tones in which the instruments sound are empirical, but experiments are being conducted and observations recorded which are expected to result in a well defined rule for the construction of instruments which will respond only to the impulses of instruments similarly constructed, and then there will be no experiment as to the results to be obtained from the different machines. Where there is but one wire attached to a single tower, as at the experimental station at Coney Island, in New York the electrical waves move in circles, but where the construction is similar to that which will be used at South Omaha the waves travel more rapidly and stronger in the directions perpendicular to the plane of the towers, and for this reason the towers at South Omaha will be east and west, to give the strongest impulse to the south, as Kansas City is in that direction.

WALKER'S WOUNDS FATAL

Colorado Cattleman Shot by Jackson Dies in Hospital.

COUNTY ATTORNEY AWAITS INQUEST

Coroner Expects to Hold One Monday, Though Body Will Be Sent Today to Plattsmouth, Where Mother of Deceased Resides.

H. J. Walker of Wray, Yuma county, Colo., who was shot in Garrity's saloon, Tenth street and Capitol avenue, Friday evening by Pat Jackson, a porter and musician of the place, died at Clarkson hospital a half hour after noon yesterday. The body was taken in charge by the coroner and will be sent to Plattsmouth this morning to Plattsmouth, Neb., for interment there, the man's widowed mother and three sisters living on a farm five miles south of that place. The inquest will be held Monday morning. Jackson is confined in the city jail.

WALKER'S CAREER IN OMAHA.

He had been in Omaha most of the time for about three weeks and had been spending a good deal of money in the Third ward, especially in Garrity's place, Friday night, the place was full of customers and loungers—white and black men and women—and Walker, according to statements made by the witnesses who were examined by Captain Haze, was intoxicated and abusive in his speech to every one. Shortly before the shooting he got to talking about the cattle business and of his exploits in the west, using a rather beautiful tone, Jackson, who was listening to the talk from across the room in a spirit of emulation, joined in with the remark that he had once clipped forty horses for John D. Creighton who had a fine place in Kentucky. At this, according to the witnesses, Walker turned upon the negro abusively and said that he would clip him any day he pleased. Jackson repeated his assertion whereupon the rancher threatened to throw him out doors.

GREEN POKES FUN AT THEM

Makes Jest of Seventh Ward Republican's Old Bluff About Cleaning Augean Stables.

"I don't know who prepared this delegation; I don't know when it was selected. It was handed to me a short time ago by a resident of this ward whom you all know," said John F. Stout last night, as he read a list of names at a meeting of the members of the seventh ward called to select candidates for delegates to the republican city convention opposed to the renomination of Mayor Moore. Mr. Stout did not mention the name of the well known resident of the ward, and none could be found who would mention his name for publication.

SHORT TALKS MADE BY D. H. MERCER, HARRY BROME, J. O. DETWEILER, A. H. BURNETT, JOHN F. STOUT, F. L. MCCOY AND J. P. BREEN.

"I place here, but I came over to see that the interests of Mr. Benson were protected. I did this because some time ago, before any candidate had been prominently mentioned I promised Mr. Benson that I would support him should he enter the race. Concerning these words 'machine' and 'Augean stables' which I have heard something since I came to the room as referring to the present administration, I am certain that the same refrain can be heard from ocean to ocean. Even our democratic friends have taken up the cry here in Omaha. Whenever the fellow cry are out want to get in they always talk of 'cleaning the Augean stables,' and sometimes they only mean to steal the barnyard fork. We often see people who go into the temple to drive out the money changers making away with the vessels of the altar themselves."

DAIRYMEN HANSEN EXPLAINS.

George Hansen, dairyman, was called yesterday to explain the presence of a five-inch fish in a can of milk left at the Delmonico hotel. When shown the fish, which was slipping around in a glass jar filled with water, Hansen only laughed. He said that the only explanation he could make was that some of "the boys" at the hotel had played a joke on the cook. A little quiet investigation practically proved this to be true. The joke was to have been sprung on April 1, but those interested in the deal were unable on that day to obtain a fish of the right size. Hansen's explanation "went" with the inspector, but the incident has turned the attention of the sanitary department to the advisability of a more careful examination of all milk sold in the city.

ANOTHER HOSPITAL SESSION.

Saturday forenoon President Talbot of the Hospital association called a meeting

Mrs. Talbot said that a middle-aged woman is wanted for cook at the hospital and also a laundry girl.

Johnson to the position. For seven months past Johnson has been acting as substitute for Peter Quinn, who was on sick leave. While working as a substitute for Quinn, Johnson received $500 per annum. Now he drops back to a $600 position, as Quinn has returned from his leave.
