BROATCH CLUBS A BARTENDER

Orders Saloon Keeper to Discharge Man for Talking Moores.

MALLORY'S BAND WAGON A BOOMERANG

Banker Wants to Know if Harry Morrill's Candidacy for Comptroller is Merely for Trading Purposes.

Broatch has used his political club to crack the head of a bartender whose independence as a citizen prompted him to mingle of Mayor Moores and would vote for him in preference to any other republican candidate for mayor. The bartender's name is August Sothman and he is employed at the saloon of Nels Petersen at Fourteenth and Webster streets.

Commissioner Broatch wrote a letter to Mr. Petersen telling him to discharge Sothman for the reason that he "was talking too much" and Petersen complied with the demand of the police commissioner. After Sothman had gone to Broatch and demanded an explanation the warden of the political-police club sent word to Petersen that he could reinstate the bartender provided he (Sothman) would "keep his mouth shut." Sothman returned to work, presumably with the understanding that he was to relinquish his right as a free born citizen to talk politics.

This high-handed method of gagging one of their number has aroused the indignation of all the bartenders who have heard of it and some warm talk on the Broatch brand of politics is being heard among the members of the bartenders' union. The business agent of the union is in possession of a copy of the letter sent to Petersen by Sothman so that the bartenders may understand just how far this man Broatch dares go to intimidate working men into "keeping their mouths shut" or boosting the anti-Moores campaign.

P. C. Schroeder, cigar dealer at 810 North Sixteenth street, says: "W. J. Broatch sent a written notice to Nels Petersen, a saloonist at 1401 Webster street, to discharge his bartender, August Sothman, a democrat, for making a remark that if his party did not put up a man to suit him he would vote for Frank E. Moores for mayor; that he would vote for Moores at any time in preference to any one else, and that he did not care what the police commissioners or anyone else said. Sothman was promptly discharged Wednesday morning. Sothman went to Mr. Broatch and asked what wrong he had done. Broatch made the remark to him that he was going to down the saloon element so that they would kneel to him. Sothman said to Mr. Broatch that he did not propose to kneel to any man, as he was a good American citizen. Broatch replied that he did not care a d—n and that the saloons should kneel down to him. Sothman then went away and laid the matter before the bartenders' union. The union sent a communication to Mr. Broatch, and last evening at 8 o'clock Sothman went to see Mr. Broatch in response to a message that Broatch had sent him. Broatch told him to come back and go to work at the saloon and apologized for his treatment of Sothman earlier in the day. Sothman reported to the union of Petersen and was given his old place back. He did not, however, go on duty last night."

Mr. Schroeder authorizes the use of his name in verification of the foregoing, and says further that Mr. Sothman is ready to verify the same.

"I was solicited to vote the anti-Moores ticket in the Third ward," said a member of the Walters' union Wednesday, "and I told the fellow who approached me that I was against anything that John Westberg had anything to do with. When he wanted to know what I had against Westberg and I was frank enough to tell him. One evening some months ago Westberg was in the Calumet restaurant when somebody in his party began to discuss the trouble that the Walters' union was having with certain business houses. During the discussion one of the Walters in the place overheard Westberg declare that he didn't care a d—n for the Walters' union, that he could get along without any help from its members. We have generally taken him at his word and in this campaign he is certainly getting along without our help. We'll see how he comes out."

A prominent republican from the Seventh ward who has never taken any active part in politics had this to say concerning the circular letter signed by C. S. Hayward and G. M. Nattlinger: "I am surprised that men of the standing of Hayward and Nattlinger would allow their names to go to such a circular. They say that they are in a hurry to get in, in case to every individual to do his duty. I have been watching the work of purification of Broatch and the faction with which Hayward and Nattlinger are associated, but I have yet failed to see any purification or reform in anything that the new police commission has done, nor do I see any purification of party primaries in the policy of the anti-machine faction, especially in the attempt at wholesale disfranchisement of voters or by one-sided election boards and test oaths. From my point of view the only emergency before the republicans is to stop playing horse with the party, stop dog-eat-dog tactics and stop making the party the cat paw of grasping corporations under the banner of purification and reform."

On resolution of the Real Estate exchange a committee consisting of W. T. Graham, chairman; John N. Frenzer, Thomas A. Creigh, W. H. Green and E. C. Garvin has been appointed to look into the standing and records of the candidates for city office.

Mr. Devlin said in part: "Less than eighteen months ago Chief Secretary Wyndham of the British government said that the necessities have reached their limit; that there was no national feeling in Ireland; that the National league had only branches and that England was tired of the Irish land question, and that the best thing to do was to let the landlords fight it out."

"The landlords formed a league to fight this war and in less than three months raised $500,000 to carry it on, besides having the support of the British government, which enacted another coercion act as a basis for any of the ninety-nine former acts. This act lasted three months, with the government and the landlords' combination on the one side, and on the other the league with its 15,000 branches, but with no money or influence. In this bitter fight no better spirit or bravery has been shown in any fight for liberty than that of the Irish agriculturists. The landlords believed they could smash the league, but are now begging terms in a way which no Irishman could have hoped for. The fair trial by jury was abolished, newspaper men imprisoned for printing speeches and armed men broke up meetings and imprisoned leaders as common felons.

"The Irish people are now more thoroughly united than ever, better than in the time of Parnell, so that new results will be obtained. The minister has now submitted a measure which is the most radical ever brought before Parliament. This will abolish the landlord system and give the soil to the actual tillers and a sum of $30,000,000 is to be set aside to meet the differences in the prices between the tenants and owners. Those who have been evicted will be reinstated on farms. It may be that you on this side think we put too much stress on the land question, but it is only a beginning of Irish independence. It will give the country strength, the agriculturists will take interest in their work, factories will be built and prosperity return. The fight has been a shameful failure for England and she has decided that it does not pay to keep it up and will give us our rights."

 Falling hair is caused by dandruff, which is a germ disease. The germ in burrowing into the root of the hair, where it destroys the vitality of the hair, causing the hair to fall out, digs up the cuticle in little scales, called dandruff or scurf. Newbro's Herpicide is the only hair preparation that kills the dandruff germ. Herpicide is also a delightful hair dressing. Sold by all druggists. ## SEEKS AID FOR THE IRISH

Joseph Devlin, M. P., and John F. Finerty Tell of the Needs of the Peasants.

OMAHA MEN RESPOND GENEROUSLY

Speakers Give a Brighter Day Dawning for Their Native Land and Tell of the Great Struggle to Gain It.

Joseph Devlin, M. P., of North Kilkenny, Ireland, and Colonel John F. Finerty of Chicago, president of the American branch of the United Irish league, met a number of the Irish citizens of Omaha in the Paxton hotel last night for the purpose of stirring up sentiment for the old country and raising funds to help make a start to defeat the present anti-Irish bill now pending in Parliament. After Mr. Devlin had spoken the following contributions were made: J. A. Conner, $100; Count Creighton, $100; T. J. Mahoney, $25; Bishop Scannell, $25; Thomas Brennan, $25; C. J. Smyth, $25; G. J. O'Sullivan, $25; James J. Fitzgerald, $25; James E. Boyd, $25; Sheriff John Power, $25; O'Donohue & Redmond, $25; F. J. Moriarty, $20; T. J. O'Brien, $15; Jerry Howard, Rev. J. T. Smith, James P. English, T. J. Nolan, John E. O'Hearn, James Brennan, Rev. E. J. Judge, P. C. Healy, I. J. Dunn and E. C. Ryan, $10 each; total, $322.

Frank J. Moriarty was appointed treasurer and E. C. Ryan secretary, and it was decided to appoint committees of two to visit the residents of assigned sections of the city and solicit contributions. These committees will meet Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock in the office of C. J. Smyth for the division of territory. Letters will be sent to prominent Irish citizens of the towns and cities throughout the state asking them to act locally in this collection.

T. J. Mahoney, who acted as chairman, introduced the two distinguished Irishmen. Colonel Finerty spoke first, commenting on the great change in the condition of Ireland during the twelve months since he spoke here last. Then the country was in hopelessness, with the prospect of the extinction of the Irish race; but now, with this most generous land act, the tillers of the soil would become its owners and the country come back to prosperity.

Brighter Days for Ireland.
 Mr. Devlin said in part: "Less than eighteen months ago Chief Secretary Wyndham of the British government said that the necessities have reached their limit; that there was no national feeling in Ireland; that the National league had only branches and that England was tired of the Irish land question, and that the best thing to do was to let the landlords fight it out."
