TWO PROBLEMS FOR POLICE

One is to Locate Knight and the Other to Find Wife's Body.

DETECTIVES CLOSELY FOLLOW ALL CLUES

Particular Search Being Made for Corpse in Vicinity of Courtland Beach—Dusenberry's Horse and Wagon.

The Knight mystery has resolved itself into two searches—one for the man and the other for the body of the woman. The endeavor to collect further evidence to show that Knight killed his wife practically has ceased. There is not the slightest doubt in the minds of the police that murder was committed, and from Chief Donahue down the work in hand is regarded as the production of the principals, living and dead.

By bungling what might have been an easy job the police of Cheyenne have let Knight slip through their hands and he is now swallowed up in the great west with its interminable distances and mountains retreats. Chief Donahue's department has not relaxed its efforts to apprehend the man, however, and yesterday scores of circulars and photographs were sent to officers west of Omaha.

Yesterday the police were strongly inclined to believe Mrs. Knight was buried along the river to the north and east of the Dusenberry wagon on the night of April 4 or morning of April 5. Acting on this theory the entire force of detectives, assisted by a number of curious men and boys, are going carefully over a big stretch of ground along the river to the north and east of Courtland beach. After a careful consideration of the many clues and theories at hand the chief has concluded that most probably the body is buried in this tract.

Near Courtland Beach.

Tuesday Detectives Drummy and Mitchell uncovered what looks to be the best indication as to the route taken by the wagon containing his ghastly burden. They found a bunch of horse manure on Courtland beach and near to the river and the people living in this sequestered place had not even heard of the Knight mystery. The officers questioned them closely and learned that the locality is unfrequented, and that late on a week or more ago, according to the best memory of the people, it had been awakened by a wagon being driven through their yard.

It is necessary to go through the premises to reach the river bank. The presence of the wagon was unusual and was commented on by the neighbors. The wagon was guided by the dwellers, the officers were taken along what might serve as the outlines of a road to a place where a wire had been stretched across to turn back trespassers. This wire had been broken and was down, much to the surprise of the neighbors. In the sandy waste beyond, the trail of a light wagon, drawn by a single horse, was discovered, and following it the detectives were brought to a clump of willows on the bank where a horse had barked the trees recently. There were numerous foot prints and the wagon had been turned sharply so as to scrape the sand. There is plenty of room to make a large turn and the short turn makes it look as though the wagon was there at night.

Incident of the Spade.

The theory that the body was buried rests largely on the incident of the spade. Just before the disappearance Knight told young Dusenberry that he had purchased a brand new spade, which Dusenberry never received. The spade and its present whereabouts are unknown. Knight was seen by the neighbors using it in his garden, and it is therefore considered certain that he had it. The police for a long time thought that he had this spade located, only to find that the individual who was supposed to have it had an article that he had stolen. There was nothing to connect his spade with the Knight spade.

What leads further strength to the idea that Knight and probably young Dusenberry drove the body to the point on the river bank northeast of Courtland beach is the fact that the willows where the wagon stopped are very close to the place where Dusenberry was arrested by Detectives Drummy and Mitchell several years ago. He was fishing and was wanted on the charge of stealing bullion from the smelting works, but escaped conviction after being bound over to the district court.

Hunchback Is Suspected.

Although the hunchback ferry maintains that he did not go with Knight when the latter took his wagon close to midnight, April 4, the police are as fully convinced that he did. They argue that Knight was not especially familiar with North Omaha, while Dusenberry, who had driven a junk wagon for thirteen years, knew it thoroughly. Therefore, acting as pilot to the murderer, he conveyed him to the solitary and desolate location where the deformed man was caught fishing when he was wanted by the police before. After arriving at the willows the police think the two men buried the corpse and that they could not now find the grave, so utterly broken and waste-like is the nearby territory.

Mel Dusenberry's Rig.

Mel Dusenberry, the owner of the horse and wagon which is supposed to have hauled the trunk containing the body of the murdered woman away, was photographed yesterday at the police station. The wagon and horse, which are now in the hands of the police, may also be photographed. The horse is a big bay, shod all round, and his tail has been docked. The animal is a bony looking specimen and seems not at all averse to his new boarding quarters. The wagon is a rickety affair with the right shaft broken and patched. Three of the wheels were originally painted white, and are in a dilapidated condition. The left hind wheel is of the Sarven patent and was painted yellow and is in a fair condition. The wagon bed has been patched and is in a generally broken condition.

On the wagon bed at the rear part are two or three clots of dried mud of a clay texture and the wheels are more or less marked with mud of the same character. Near the mud clots in the wagon bed are marks indicating that a heavy box or trunk had been hauled in the wagon, the indentations are plainly showing that the box or trunk had iron rollers on its bottom, or that it had been bound with iron. A number of feathers still adhere to the sides and bed of the wagon, as though it had been used for hauling poultry.

Five Dollars for Vehicle.

It has developed that Dusenberry received $5 for the use of the wagon from Knight until 7 o'clock Sunday morning, a sum larger than the outfit ever earned in a similar length of time. Daily earnings are gradually shaking the hunchback's story of ignorance of the crime or the disposition of the body, but he still refuses to give an account of the matter.

Chief Donahue is by no means convinced that Mrs. Knight was either poisoned or drugged. It has not yet been discovered that Knight purchased any poison either in Omaha or South Omaha, and it is considered possible that the woman was strangled or suffocated.

County Attorney James P. English made a second call at the chambers of the county commissioners yesterday and was able to corral Connolly and O'Keefe for an expression as to what the board probably will do about offering the requested $100 reward for the finding of the body of Mrs. Knight.

After the conference Commissioner Connolly said: "I think it perfectly safe to say that the board will offer the reward as advised to do by Mr. English."

Tracing the Body.

Chief of Detectives Dunn and Detective Drummy spent a portion of yesterday afternoon in following out the wagon trail from the river bank to the point on the river where the wagon was discovered Tuesday and is considered the most probable route taken by the wagon. At a point about one mile this side of the East Omaha bridge they discovered the track of a wagon leading down and returning back from the extensive bar there, which is now under water. At the time of the supposed crime this bank was uncovered, but the water has risen since then. It is thought by the police that it is possible the body was buried out on the bar since covered by the water. If this is the case it will be difficult to recover it. The water has fallen somewhat, but if it does not shortly uncover the sand the spring high water will come on for good and last probably until the latter part of June, rendering any work impossible and perhaps changing the channel and washing away or adding to the bank at this point.

The wheel ruts, however, cannot be taken as being certain evidence of the visit of Knight, as this district is sometimes visited by persons dumping refuse in the river and by willow workers. These latter would have no cause to enter the stream, and the dumping is usually done at other points.

The detectives had the shoes taken from the feet of the Dusenberry horse and fitted them to the tracks in the sand. These may or may not have been made by the horse in question, as while the shoes appeared to fit the prints, these have been obliterated sufficiently by the rain and wind to make a certainty impossible. The detectives covered the river bank and considerable territory back from the stream, working from near the East Omaha bridge to much nearer the city, but found no other clue.

NOT RECOMMENDED FOR EVERYTHING

But if You Have Kidney, Liver or Bladder Trouble, You Will Find the Great Remedy Swamp-Root, Just What You Need.

It used to be considered that only urinary and bladder troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all diseases have their beginning in the disorder of these most important organs.

Therefore, when your kidneys are weak or out of order, you can understand how quickly your entire body is affected, and how every organ seems to fall to do its duty.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking the famous new discovery, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, because as soon as your kidneys are well they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince anyone.

Doctors Prescribe Swamp-Root.

Gentlemen—"I have prescribed that wonderful remedy for kidney and bladder complaints. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is the most beneficial effect ever known of many cures by its use. These patients had kidney trouble as diagnosed by the physician, and treated without benefit. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root effected a cure. I am a liberal man and accept a specialty wherever I find it. It is an accepted school or out of it. For desperate cases of kidney or bladder trouble, complete relief is guaranteed. Satisfactory results I turn to Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. I shall continue to use it, and I shall continue to prescribe it and from personal observation state that Swamp-Root has great curative properties."

Weak and unhealthy kidneys are responsible for more sickness and suffering than any other disease, and if permitted to continue much suffering with fatal results are sure to follow. Kidney trouble irritates the nerves, makes you dizzy, restless, sleepless and irritable; makes you pass water often during the day and obliges you to get up many times during the night.

Unhealthy kidneys cause rheumatism, gravel, catarrh of the bladder, pain or dull ache in the back, joints and muscles; causes indigestion, stomach and liver trouble, you get a sallow, yellow complexion, makes you feel as though you had heart trouble; you may have plenty of ambition, but no strength; get weak and waste away.

The cure for these troubles is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the world-famous kidney remedy. In taking Swamp-Root you afford natural help to Nature, for Swamp-Root is the most perfect healer and gentle aid to the kidneys that is known to medical science.

If there is any doubt in your mind as to your condition, take from your urine on rising about four ounces, place it in a glass or bottle and let it stand twenty-four hours. If on examination it is milky or cloudy, if there is a brick-dust settling, or if small particles float about in it, your kidneys are in need of immediate attention.

No matter how many doctors you may have tried—no matter how much money you may have spent on other medicines, you really owe it to yourself to at least give Swamp-Root a trial. Its staunchest friends today are those who had almost given up hope of ever becoming well again.

If you are already convinced that Swamp-Root is what you need, you can purchase the regular fifty-cent and one dollar size bottles at the drug stores everywhere. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root—Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

AFFAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA

Bomb is Thrown in Camp of Brewers on Liquor License Proposition.

PLAN TO RESTRICT THE ISSUANCES

Object is Said to Be to Fix Responsibility—Many Notices of Licenses Will Have to Be Re-Advertised.

An adjourned meeting of the city council was held last night. An ordinance was introduced regulating the sale of liquor. This ordinance provides among other things, that a license shall be granted to only one person and that breweries may not take out licenses as they have in the past. The idea is to fix responsibility. In case there is a fight in a saloon or a disturbance of any kind the city officials want to be able to know who to look to for damages in case the affair warrants it. A tip was given out three weeks ago that the council would introduce this ordinance, but the brewers would not believe it and consequently went ahead and advertised licenses as formerly. Now, if the ordinance "sticks" and goes through, nearly all of the licenses advertised will have to be re-advertised.

Another ordinance went to the judiciary committee without any objection. It was an ordinance levying an occupation tax of $200 on each saloon in the city in addition to the $1,000 license. Some days ago The Bee made mention of the fact that there was a movement on foot to impose an occupation tax in order that the overlap might be decreased. There is something behind both of these ordinances which has not been made public. Members of the council assert that the brewers went to Lincoln and worked for the appointment of a fire and police board and the bill passed and has been signed by the governor. Now the brewers who worked for the bill will be called upon to toe the mark as the council has the power to grant or refuse licenses this spring.

After the liquor license business was disposed of a petition to grade Nineteenth street from O to P street was read. It was placed on file.

The appraisers appointed to report on the grading of C street from Twenty-sixth to Twenty-seventh street reported no damages and the report was accepted.

J. F. Fitzgerald, city tax commissioner, went to the council his list of deputies. The list was approved and the names are: William Rawley, A. C. Pancoast, D. D. Sullivan, Jacob Davis, J. M. Fitzgerald, F. P. Foyvendra, P. McGoldrick, E. Elster and F. Biser.

Dan Hanson was appointed to fill the vacancy. Kubat was taken from the police force and put on the fire department.

To Twenty-fourth street and the alley between Twenty-first and Twenty-second streets from K to L street. Dan Cash was awarded the contract for grading Q street from Twenty-third to Twenty-fourth street. Welsh brought up the matter of registering Twenty-fourth street. On his motion the finance committee was authorized to borrow $2,000 for the purpose of making immediate repairs. It is understood that bids for the work will be advertised for at once in order that the pavement may be fixed as soon as possible. The next meeting of the council will be held on April 20.

Elfeldter Dreams Again.

Detective Hank Elfeldter, the well known police officer, had a dream about the burying of the body of Mrs. Knight. The detective told his troubles to Chief Briggs just before noon Wednesday and the result was that Briggs, Morton and Elfeldter took the city rig and drove to Thirty-ninth and K streets, where they commenced digging for the body. An hour's work did not produce any results and so the officers laid off for dinner. In the afternoon the work was taken up again but up to dark last night no signs of the body were found. Captain John Troutan and Officer Kruger are sure that they saw the Dusenberry wagon on the night of the disappearance of Mrs. Knight. These officers both say that when first seen the wagon was going west on L street. Kruger says that two men were in the wagon, while Troutan says that he saw only one man. It is hardly probable that the search will be continued today as the authorities are convinced that "Hank" was in a trance when he insisted that a search be made for the body on the ground near the grading camp. Church Needs Help.

Rev. W. T. Biggars, pastor of the African Methodist Episcopal church, at Twenty-fifth and R streets, stated to a Bee reporter last night that help was needed. The preacher said that the interior of the church needed papering and painting, while the chimney needed fixing and some repairs to the roof were necessary. The total cost will hardly exceed $50. There is some talk of giving an entertainment of some sort in order to raise this money.

Preparing for Inspection.

Captain Bruce McCulloch, commanding the South Omaha cavalry troop, has received a notice from Adjutant General Culver to be prepared for a general inspection on or about May 1. With this in view Captain McCulloch is getting his men and equipment in shape. On account of the difficulty in securing horses the troop will be inspected at the armory instead of on the troop parade ground.

Department Change.

Louis A. Sanjolek, a member of the fire company at No. 3 hall, was dismissed from the service yesterday by Mayor Koutsky and John Kubat was appointed to fill the vacancy. Kubat was taken from the police force and put on the fire department.

Women need not suffer

Three years ago, when the grippe was epidemic in Chicago, I was in a very weak, nervous condition and suffered with female trouble. I was taken sick with the grippe, suffered severely, then had that it refused food and my menses stopped for five months, and the blood flowed from my mouth and nose at the end of the trouble. When I was in this trouble Wine of Cardui was tried and I was cured. I had tried hard to begin slowly but surely to mend. I would use no other medicine, and although the doctor said I must take medicine, I would not take it until I had tried Wine of Cardui. I felt better and within four months I felt better and stronger than I had ever been. I am glad now that I did, for I found that it met my expectations daily.

Mrs. Lura Roushe
