ARMS MADE BY YELLOW MEN TO BE TAXED

Czar's Officials Demand Right to Levy Duties on Military Manufactures Sent to Disputed Territory.

LONDON, April 26.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Daily Mail hears from an authoritative source that China has accepted the Russian proposals in so far as it regards the duties at the lake boundaries. After the negotiations with the Tsung Li Yamen, the correspondent continues, the Russian minister formulated the following conditions: (1) The importation of Chinese arms into Manchuria shall be taxed according to the discretion of the Russian customs authorities and China shall be permitted to construct at Kalzan a munitions factory to supply material for the proposed Russo-Chinese railroad to Peking which will pass into the vicinity of Kalzan. (2) China shall establish in Rharlin an administrative body to insure the rights vested in the gold mines which are now being worked by Chinese engineers. (3) All Russian goods sent to Central China shall be entirely free of any Chinese customs charges. (4) Russia and China shall jointly agree henceforward to close the door in Manchuria to the goods of other powers. This agreement, concludes the correspondent, will come into force after the opening of the Manchurian railroad.

The Times' correspondent at Peking says he has ascertained that the fourth demand in the first Russian document, namely, that the present status of the administration of Manchuria is to remain unchanged, does not apply to Manchuria, but is a demand that the administration of Mongolia shall not be changed. The object of this is to check the suggested alteration in the government of Mongolia by which it was contemplated to transform Mongolia into a Chinese province.

The foreign office, continues the Times' correspondent, has formally agreed that Russia is to retain 2,100,000 taels, receipts from the New Chinese bank, now in possession of the Russo-Chinese bank, as an indemnity for repairing and protecting the Shan-Hai-Kwan New Chwang railway.

Japan Press Demands Firm Front.

YOKOHAMA, April 26.—Even those newspapers which previously have been sympathetic in tone have expressed the opinion that the time has arrived for all powers interested in the integrity of China, its development and trade opportunities there to show a firm front to Russia in the matter of demands upon Manchuria.

Casualties on Hay.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—Russia's demands in Manchuria and their effect on American interests were the subjects of a conference this afternoon between Secretary Hay and Count Cassini, the Russian ambassador, at Secretary Hay's house. It is stated that the ambassador brought official advice from his government, but the fact that he is still suffering from an attack of lumbago, which has confined him to the embassy for several weeks, is evidence of the urgency of the call.

Steps already have been taken by the State department to ascertain the true inwardness of Russia's latest move. Ambassador McCormick at St. Petersburg has been instructed by cable to ascertain the Russian foreign office a note which, while diplomatically known as one of inquiry, is in substance a strong protest against Russia's demands. Cable instructions also have been sent to Minister Conger at Peking to express to the Chinese authorities the dissatisfaction of the United States with Russia's demands and the hope that China will not accede to them. No answers have yet been received to either note, though unofficial assurances are still reaching the department that the department interests in Manchuria would protest.

In the department's note which Ambassador McCormick probably has presented already Russia's attention is called to the assurances repeatedly given the United States relative to the preservation of the integrity of China and the continuance of the open door policy. Russia also is reminded of the severe blow to American trade which must follow the granting of the first two demands, that no more ports or towns in Manchuria be opened and that no additional foreign consuls be admitted.

Suggests Trade Agreement.

Russia's reason for contending for the closed door in Manchuria is the claim that the open door is not a commercial, but a political question. It continues to assure the United States that in some way this country's interests will be protected in Manchuria. The point is made that as the Manchurian demands are still in negotiation between St. Petersburg and Peking, the United States cannot expect Russia to make concessions until the fate of its demand has been determined. When China has acceded to all of these demands, it is suggested, a trade agreement of some sort can be reached which will protect American trade interests.

China men Will Protest.

SHANGHAI, April 26.—A mass meeting is to be held here tomorrow. China men from all the provinces will be present and urge the government to make no concessions to Russia regarding Manchuria. It is reported among Chinese officials here that Japan has evacuated Manchuria and that the Manchuria has evacuated forthwith. A Russian guboct left here today for New Chwang.

Mines Will Resume Today.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., April 26.—Work will be resumed tomorrow at No. 9 colliery of the Lehigh and Wilkesbarre Coal company at Sugar Notch and at the Baltimore No. 2 colliery of the Delaware and Hudson Coal company of this city. Both mines have been idle for a few days on account of a strike. The officials and the miners have been together and adjusted their differences in an amicable manner and the several hundred hands agreed to return.

DEWEY SUPPOSED TO STAND REPROVED

Report is that He Has Been Formally Rebuked for Giving the Interview which Offended the Germans.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(Special.)

It is known that he emphatically disapproved of the habit of some army and navy officers of commenting, for publication, upon the relations between this country and Germany. The immediate cause of this action on the part of the president was the utterance of Admiral Dewey to a newspaper correspondent in which the hero of Manila said some things which the German people have resented. Root realizes that there are several matters pending between the German empire and the United States which have caused friction and which may lead to exceedingly unpleasant consequences.

It is the intention of the administration absolutely to silence every officer of the United States, civil or military, upon the subject of our foreign relations. It has been reported that Admiral Dewey has been formally rebuked for his ill-advised talk with a newspaper correspondent.

Dewey Doesn't Deny It.

The admiral does not deny that the words attributed to him were uttered by him. The admiral is not that kind of a man. Many men in public life, finding themselves quoted in cold type, have repudiated interviews, but Admiral Dewey practically admits that he was correctly reported in his speech at a dinner given by the president at the White House, and he is perfectly willing to take the consequences. The admiral undoubtedly has heard through the secretary of the navy that his talk is regarded as exceedingly injudicious and has been advised of the desire of the president that he shall hereafter refrain from comment likely to produce international complications. In the meantime, Baron von Stierwald, the present representative of the German empire in this country, in a speech at a dinner given by the president at the White House, has referred to the admiral's remarks as "a most interesting and valuable contribution to the study of international relations."

BROWN PLAYS PRINCE WELL

Footman Who Deceived Countess Russell Evidently Won Her Heart.

LONDON, April 26.—(New York World Cablegram—Special Telegram.)—The footman William Brown, who got Countess Russell to marry him by pretending that he was Prince Stuart de Modena, a natural son of the emperor of Austria, from whom he was about to receive $40,000 a year, is a good-looking young fellow with a well built, well tailored, with clean-cut features, dark, neatly trimmed mustache, blue eyes and an off-hand manner. His accent is not that of an educated man, but though the countess knew him six months, she and her mother (Lady Scott, who has had considerable experience) never once suspected the imposture.

The "prince" borrowed money freely from the countess, who appears to have really fallen in love with him. He says he never intended to go the length of marrying her, but was gradually drawn into proposing. After her first outbreak of anger on discovering that she had been deceived and deserted, the countess gave the police no assistance in tracing him. Even now that he is under arrest she seems unwilling to prosecute him.

It is supposed that Brown was put forward in the first instance by some person who had a grudge against the countess, to play a practical joke upon her. But the affair developed so satisfactorily that Brown made full use of his opportunity and eventually married the countess, believing that his fondness for him would prevent her from revenging herself when the inevitable discovery of his imposture came.

Brown will be arraigned in court at Portsmouth on Monday, on the charge of making a false entry in the passport register there when he wedded Countess Russell, having signed the name of Athol Stuart de Modena.

REVIVING BLOUSE AND BOOTS

Russian Smart Set Encouraging Wearing of Old National Costume.

(Copyright, 1903, by Press Publishing Co.) ST. PETERSBURG, April 26.—(New York World Cablegram—Special Telegram.)—A league to encourage the wearing of the national costume has just been formed by some wealthy people here. This is believed to be due not so much to patriotic sentiment as to a curious controversy that has lately arisen over the matter in some high class restaurants.

The characteristic of the national dress include an embroidered blouse and high boots, and the advocates of this attire so arranged have several times endeavored to dine at some restaurant where the smart set was largely represented, but each time the proprietor objected on the score of the costume. The league's first efforts will be to get a decree permitting its members to enter wherever they may choose in blouse and boots.

Reputed Find of the Buried War Fund of Emperor Charles V.

(Copyright, 1903, by Press Publishing Co.) METZ, Germany, April 26.—(New York World Cablegram—Special Telegram.)—A historic treasure of great value has just been dug up here. When Charles V. became emperor in 1550, with a large army, he had no thought of being buried. But when he was obliged to retreat he did so in such haste that he ordered his war treasure buried.

Workmen engaged in tearing down the ancient citadel of Metz came across the treasure in 1853, with a large army, but had no thought of being buried. But when he was obliged to retreat he did so in such haste that he ordered his war treasure buried.

HEALTH BOARD IS ON GUARD

Will Be Watchful Lest Bad Fruits or Vegetables Get Past Them.

With the coming of the season of cheap fruits and vegetables the Board of Health is renewing its vigilance to prevent the sale of unwholesome market offerings. The most glaring violation of the rules of health control is the sale of the commission houses dealing in fruit. Here, one day last week, a number of cases of strawberries were condemned because of decay and were thrown into the refuse barrel which is removed each day by the scavenger. While the fruit was in the barrel a peddler came and took from it ten boxes of the condemned strawberries. A short time afterwards he returned and said that he had sold for ten cents a box. When the manager of the house learned what had been done he forbade a continuance of it, but nearly a dozen cases of the condemned fruit had been placed on the market before it was stopped.

It is reported also to the Board of Health that some of the peddlers have been in the habit of securing barrels of radishes which are so decayed as to be unwholesome and removing the decayed portions of the vegetables and cutting off the damaged tops to sell the radishes by the quart.

When the matter was brought to the attention of the Board of Health it was said by one of the officials that the commission men are somewhat to blame for the practice as they fail to notify the city officials when food is condemned, and the city cannot keep watch at each house. When such food is condemned by the city it is made unwholesome by having kerosene poured over it. Ramacottis, who has charge of the condemnation and destruction of food products in the city
