Governor Mickey Expects to Take Up Omaha Police Board Mattern as Soon as Strike is Over.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, May 11.—(Special.)—The Republican state committee has been called meet at the Lindell hotel in Lincoln on Tuesday, May 26, 1903, at 8 o'clock p. m. for the purpose of fixing the time and place of holding the next state convention, apportioning delegates and transacting general business. The state convention will nominate a candidate for supreme judge and two candidates for regents of the state

Wright, shortly to resign from membership on the Omaha police board, is not worrying the governor very much at this time. But as soon as the laor question is off his hands this will come up and the man will be named. Another question, that probably would have received a ention at the hands of the governor is the action of members of the Omaha police board in using the members of the police departure of the poli using the members of the police department during the recent Omaha municipal election. Before the strike the governor was much concerned in the matter and in a conversation he showed plainly that he was much interested in the reports of the inspectors filed during the last few years actions of members of the board. It would not be surprising to many if, after the than any other month in the year. This is labor strike is settled. Governor Mickey due to the fact that the days are longer, takes a hand in the Omaha police board the farmers are busier and the young man affairs with a view to making the police and the young woman turn to moonlight department what it was intended to be in- walks and shaddy nooks. Statistics of Schools. The discussion of the erection of a new termal school and the efforts being made various towns throughout the western portion of the state to secure its location, recalls the fact that Nebraska stands at the head of the states in educational matters in that it has the lowest per cent of Illiteracy. These excerpts from the report of the state superintendent may show a reason for this. The report shows that Nebraska had at the end of the scholastic year, July 12, 1902, 8,813 schools. Of these 5,900 were frame; brick, 327; stone, 26; log, 121; sod, 436, and iron, 3, In 1901 there were 464 sod school houses in the state out of a total of 6,773. Many of these houses were well finished, nearly all floored and plassered and many finished around the doors and windows on the inside. The iron school ouse is in Johnson county, about five les from Tecumseh, and it is said to be s of the best country school houses in the state.

Male teachers last year were paid $636, $29.94 and the females drew in salary $2.207 .-201.82, which is not considered so bad. There were employed 1,962 male teachers and 7,767 females. The pupils between 5 and 21 years of age numbered 375,340. The money availe for school purposes was $5,320,227.58, and of this sum there remains on hand

Plenty of Water for Irrigation. Secretary Dobson of the State Board of Irrigation has just returned from a trip to the irrigated portions of the state and brings with him the report that the prospect for irrigation this year is brighter than ever before. He reports that considerable new land has been placed in cultivation and the crops in good condition. The Irrigated country I passed through seemed to be in the best of condition. said Mr. Dobson this morning. "The flow in the streams is even above the normal and the ditches are all carrying a good supply of water. In fact I think that in some cases too much water is allowed to flow through the ditches. I saw alfalfa nelds that seemed to be suffering from too much water in spots

"This difficulty will be overcome when the measuring boxes provided for in a recent law are installed in the ditches, since this will enable the under secretaries in the field to determine just how much water each person is entitled to.

There will be a good many applications for permits for irrigation works this year," continued Mr. Dobson. "Most of them. however, will be for the construction of Chief. Leonard Malchow; assistant chief, embankments across dry runs and canyons Theodore Schwartz; secretary, in order to store flood water. The normal Kase; treasurer, G. L. Neiburg. This is the flow of the streams has been fully appropriated as a general rule and this ten-

PREPARING FOR CAMPAIGN dency to construct storage reservoirs I rements for the welfare of the irrigated sec tion of the country, since it is in that di rection that we must expect added facilities for the irrigation of western land.

"Many of these runs in which water is to be impounded are almost dry throughout the year, but during the wet season they run full. A large part of this water can be saved and turned into domestic uses. It costs but little to construct a dam across a canyon, a mere earthen embankment serving the purpose, while in all section: of the irrigated region available canyon and runs may be found. All that is necessary to make a satisfactory reservoir is the construction of an embankment higher than the possible rise of the water and s waste-gate for the purpose of allowing the surface water to escape when it reaches the maximum height."

This is the plan that the United States government is carrying out on a large scale in the North Platte valley, and the same method employed on a grand scale by the English government in Egypt to bring large areas under cultivation.
