ROOSEVELT REACHES 'FRISCO

Chief Executive Given Typical Welcome in Golden Gate City. VISITS LELAND STANFORD ON THE WAY Spends in the Famous Quadrangle and is Accompanied by Deputy of the Entire Student Body and Citizens.

SAN JOSE, Cal., May 12.—President Roosevelt passed the night at Campbell in this city. He arose refreshed, ate a hearty breakfast. The train arrived here at 8:30 this morning. There was a large crowd at the depot and as the train pulled out for Palo Alto the president stood on the platform and waved his hands.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 12.—President Roosevelt left San Jose at 8:30 o'clock this morning, on his way to this city. A half hour's ride through orchards and fields brought the train to Palo Alto, the site of the Leland Stanford Jr. university. Here the president left his car and was driven up a palm-lined avenue to the famous university quadrangle, formed by the grouping of tile-covered buildings in the Mexican style of architecture. He was greeted by President Stanford Jordan, the faculty and assembled students, to whom he delivered a brief address.

After a leisurely inspection of the campus and buildings, including the beautiful Stanford Memorial church, which he dedicated was one of the most artistic edifices in the world, the president was escorted by his car by the entire college body. Hundreds of residents of Palo Alto and the adjacent country had assembled at the depot, and as the train pulled out there arose a deafening roar of college bells mingled with the cheers of the populace.

Shortly before 12:40 o'clock the presidential party reached Burlingame, the picturesque home of the Country club, where a stop was made for luncheon. For this event President Roosevelt was the guest of Henry T. Scott and many prominent citizens of California were present at the informal repast.

After a rest under the trees and a stroll about the grounds the journey was resumed. At San Bruno and South San Francisco in succession were passed and at 2:15 p. m. promptly on time, the main depot of the coast division of the Southern Pacific, at the corner of Third and Townsend streets, in this city, was reached. The arrival was announced by a presidential salute fired by the naval reserve. The party was met by the citizens' executive committee, whose president, M. H. DeYoung, greeted President Roosevelt in the following words:

Mr. President, the name of the citizens of San Francisco, I extend you a hearty welcome. In the days of old, when our land was owned by the Spaniards, who were noted for their hospitality, when they received a guest they generally said: "Welcome to our house, and all that is in it is yours." We say to you today, "Welcome to our city, and all that is in it is yours, and with it we give you our hearts, and you will have interest in the welfare of our city and the welfare of our people."

To this cordial address of welcome President Roosevelt made a brief response, expressing his gratification at having reached the metropolis of the Pacific coast. The president and his party were then escorted to carriages and to their places in the military procession already formed under command of Major General MacArthur, U. S. A., and Major General Dickinson, U. S. A., of the National Guard of California.

The procession was a long and stirring one, infantry, bluejackets from vessels in the harbor, detachments of the naval reserves and semi-military organizations. Up Third street, one of the least imposing thoroughfares of the city, to Market street, where some thousands assembled, the parade passed through a dense line of the stands of cheering citizens. At Market street the elaborate decorations, the fluttering flags, the swinging wreaths of green and the mass of pendent electric globes at the corners attracted the president's attention and he expressed his appreciation in hearty terms of the general effect.

The sky was cloudless and probably 200,000 people were on the streets through which the presidential party passed. On Van Ness avenue, the president's carriage was the first to pass, followed by the rest of the party. The people cheered constantly and innumerable flags were waved.

After several days of wet weather and discomfiture of the fans, the base ball season will most likely be resumed at Vinson street park this afternoon. The Milwaukee team here will team with the Rourke family which was to have been played at the Vinson street park. The series with the boys from the Cream City will therefore open this afternoon when a large crowd is expected to turn out. This is also "ladies' day," which is always an extra inducement for the men to come out and the players to do their best. Milton Rourke's new pitcher will be in the box.
