BOTH SIDES OF LABOR QUESTION AT FAULT

American Social Science Association Listens to Prominent Speakers on the Labor Topic.

BOSTON, May 14.—The general meetings of 1903 of the American Social Science association began here today. The program covers sessions including Saturday morning and the discussions scheduled are: Thursday, "Social Economy;" Friday, "Health and Jurisprudence;" Saturday, principal speakers today were George H. Anderson and Leeds H. Brandels, leading riembers of the Suffolk county (Mass.) bar. and Prof. Eugene Waumbaugh of the

Mr. Anderson spoke on "Some Responsibilities of Capitalistic Organization." He said in part:

In considering some of the responsibili-ties of capitalistic organization it is not to be overlooked that the career of the labor organizations has not been marked by any such love of wisdom, justice and fair dealing as to evoke our moral enthusiasm. Nor have the labor organizations any moral standing to denounce trusts, for their movement is as distinctly a combina-tion or trust as is the capitalistic move-ment. The two movements are like in object.

In the great contest now carried on between these two organized forces it is observed that there are at least two main disiderata: First, that the parties to the contest should become so nearly equal in real and apparent power that each may come to respect the other, to the end that an acquilibrium approximating justice may result. The organization of into rise an absolute condition precedent under present conditions to any sound social and inconditions to any sound social and inconditions to any sound social and inconditions. The great injustice to both the young man in question and his family and friends, and I, a brother, respectfully request you to give this letter the same publicity that you gave this letter the same publicity that you gave this property. He conditions to any sound sociel and in-dustrial progress. To oppose to it organiza-tion, to attempt to prevent at by constitu-tion or to denounce it in terms recently used at the manufacturers' association meeting at New Orleans is both futile and

The second desiderata is that there should be an increased respect for law and justice on the part of lator and capital. The final appeal must be to justice.

In weighing the power of the two contending forces nothing is more foolian and misleading than a comparison of wages with interest and disidend rates for the purpose of determining the share received by capital and the share received by labor in the joint production of both.

Little Faith in Sherman Act. He declared that it did not follow that the remedy is to be found in such legislation as the Sherman act. It was a law far more likely to be abused than used. Under our law permitting the private ownership not only of the surface of the land, but of all minerals and metals beneath the surface, the coal and iron supply of the country would soon be entirely under monopoly control. The ownership and control of the anthracits coal supply, he contended, was just cause for revolutionary sentiments and

The main objection to trust combinations was in their enormous overcapitalization and in the use that is made of that overcapitalization. In the last generation, he declared, the legislation of the country had been mainly controlled by capital, and in not a few of the states the sale of legislation was a regular business.

In conclusion Mr. Anderson said:

It is one of the present responsibilities of capitalistic organizations to undo the evil they have wrought, to teach the voters that the powers of the ballot box and of the legislative hall are to be held and exercised as a sacred trust for the benefit of the community as a whole. If capital fails to recognize the necessity of just laws, respected and obeyed, it may expect little mercy at the hands of its adversaries when they discover their real power. If socialism comes, the main responsibility will rest upon the capitalistic organizations. In conclusion Mr. Anderson said: Strike is Averted.

VIEWS OF REAL ESTATE MEN ON TAXES

Auditor Weston Takes Exception to View that State Board Should Set a Precedent for Local Assessors.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, May 14 .- (Special.)-The need of a law defining the right of way of a railroad company and setting forth just how many feet of land is to be included in the right of way, was clearly demonstrated this afternoon in a three-cornered debate between members of the Omaha Real Estate exchange, the State Board of Assessment and a representative of the Union Pacific Railroad company. The facts brought out in the case were that the right of way ranged from 200 feet to 1,200 or 1,400 feet, or whatever the railroad chose to call its right of way. The occasion was the appearance of the sessment. W. G. Ure acted as spokesman President Harrison, F. D. Wead and C. E. Brown. They were asking for an increased assessment of railroad property. During the Real Estate exchange to assess the down and that right shortly, property it thought or believed was not on the right of way and fight for the collection of the taxes.

At one time in his argument Mr. Ure said the local assessors would do their work, and if the state board would increase the assessment of railroad property the local assessors would increase the valuation of would force the local assessors to do.

Weston Makes Denial.

The assertion that the state board was Weston and a red hot debate was the result. Mr. Weston held that the state board was following the lead of the local assessors, and that the board had received that no material increase in land valuntion had been made. Mr. Ure held that county boards had the right to raise or lower the assessment to equalize it and persons of prominence in various branches opened a way for the water to the south cited that the board in bought of professional and scientific activity. The side, with the result of flooding the streets had increased one concern from an asside, with the result of flooding the streets opened a way for the water to the south cited that the board in Douglas county sessment of $14,000 to $400,000, and the concern had paid the taxes. The governor wanted to call on the attorney general to see that everything was right, but after an hour's argument the board finally out. Farmers are doing nothing and much agreed on what the statutes said-that ground on the bottom is so wet that it is, when complaint has been filed the county doubtful if corn can be got in at all, and board has the right to lower or raise valuations with a view to equalisation. On many trivial questions the board and the exchange and the railroad representative Pastures are so backward and so soft that could not agree and much time was spent in argument.

In beginning his talk Mr. Ure said he desired to be heard informally and to make the cecasion one where citizens of Nebraska could get together and talk over asked that the board add to the assessment by considering such tracks as those that lead from the Omaha depot to the smelting works as spurs and not sidetracks and assess them the same as the main line. He held that these spurs were as valuable as the main line and should be assessed as such. He asked that all tracks that lead elevators, wholesale houses, lumber yards, etc., in all towns in the state be assessed as main line. Ie was during this discussion of spurs and sidetracks that the right of way question and the jurisdiction of the board was injected.

Question of Right of Way.

In Beatrice Mr. Ure said the right of way tained about sixty acres of land, and the value of the property there was equal to a greater portion of the valuation of the property in the town. The railroads there were assessed at 3 3-16 per cent of the valuation of the property and they paid 33-10 per cent of the school taxes. He told ot two acres of land in the shop yards of the Union Pacific company in Omaha, and he tracks were not on the right of way, or on tracks were there they must be under the eculdn't find it on the records.

Mr. Ure then asked the board to concific. Omaha & Missouri Valley ran for a distance of five or six miles and had no tracks of their own. He wanted these roads or the Union Pacific to pay taxes Beginning May II, the Wells-Abbott-Nie- on the assessed valuation per mile on these man company advanced wages of all men roads for these few miles. As to whether who had been receiving less than $1.50 per this tax should be paid into Douglas county From the argument it was apparent that neither the other counties nor Douglas will get any of it.

Not Looking Up Property. Governor Mickey said it was not in the rovince of the board to go out and hunt ip property to be assessed, but to fix the assessment of railroad property in accordance with the assessment of lands and other property. Mr. Ure urged that the board assess allroad property on one-sixth of its value secause it was right that it should be thus assessed. It was within the power of the board to do this, and he was sure that if the railroads were made to pay their just proportion of the taxes, the railroads would see that the land valuation came up, even if they had to file complaints with the county board to do so. He quoted the net earnings of the Union Pacific and the Burlington and showed where their assessment was entirely too low. He made his fight on these two roads and paid no attention to the other systems. He called attention to the fact that some roads whose earnings were very little were assessed as high per mile as other companies whose parnings were enormous After Mr. Ure, R. D. Pollard, representng the Burlington, talked. He quoted figures in answer to Mr. Ure's figures and attempted to show that the Burlington system was not assessed too low. The members of the board spoke of the idded power given to the board under the new law, which becomes operative in Sepember, and each member seemed pleased hat the law granted the board the right to reduce or increase the assessment of any ounty in the aggregate. The sentiment of the board was that in its September meet ings things would be doing. There is little likelihood, however, that anything will be Ferris Wanted in Kanaas.

Lincoln officers are again requested to look up A. E. Ferris, who was wanted here something over a year ago because it was believed that Mr. Ferris had succeeded in getting rid of some property he didn't own to some parties that didn't know he didn't own it. Ferris was arrested in Omaha and two Lincoln officers were on hand to bring him here. He excused himself from the officers a moment while he changed clothes at his room on Leavenworth street and suddenly shot himself. He stated that rather than suffer disgrace by his arrest he preferred to die. He was removed to a hospital and during the convalescence Kan., where it is alleged Ferris was up to Nebraska City, where he did the people to increased to 291. Captain H. the tune of about $700. Epidemic of Dandelions. Never before in the history of American civilization, according to the oldest inhabitant, have the dandelions taken such complete possession of the Nebraska state capital. Not only in the capitol grounds are these little yellow flowers thicker than fake telegrams in war times, but the entire city is overrun with them. An effort was made representatives of the Omaha Real Estate to have the state house stenographers give exchange before the State Board of As- a dandellon party, at which a prize was to be awarded to the fastest puller, but the for the exchange, and he was coached by scheme didn't work. Yesterday afternoon all the state house janitors, armed with cutlasses and other exterminating instruments, waged the war and tonight what the argument Governor Mickey stated that was once a waving field of gold is green it was only in the province of the board to clover and such like. The war has extended assess the railroad property on the right into the streets and byways of the town of way and he advised the members of and every dandelion will have to come

The Modern Woodman have filed a motion for a rehearing in the Coleman case which was recently decided by the supreme court In the motion the attorneys for the order take occasion to intimate that the supreme court took the wrong view of the law when it endorsed the views set forth by Commis sioner Ames that fraternal beneficiary associations have no right to demand better treatment from the courts than other insurance concerns. Commissioner Ames in writing the opinion made the statement that the business of the fraternal companies was on the same basis and should be re garded in the same light as the so-called old line insurance companies. The decision hinged on the interpretation of a contract the application of the rules which are applied to old line companies, claiming that the very nature of fraternal companies is such that they are to be subjected to more liberal rules of interpretation. The ground taken in the motion for a rehearing is that the beneficiary associations are not, strictly speaking, insurance companies, and have always been regarded differently by the courts. It is claimed that there is an element of brotherhood about the organiza tion which makes it a matter of public policy to exempt these associations from

The notices the Lincoln au- Telegram)-The Grand Army of the Rethorities received were from Concordia, public encampment transacted a large amount of business this morning his old tricks. He is said to be wanted at The number of delegates present was the matter of the relations of legislature to the soldiers homes in a short talk in regard to the inadequacy of the appropri ations for their support and the need of more funds in the future, Col. McClay of Lincoln defended the action of the legislature in making liberal appropriations Colonel Cole, commandant of the Grand Island home, also defended the action of the legislature, which he said had "been the most liberal of any for years, and that it had made appropriations in excess of what had been asked for both homes." The thanks of the encampment were tendered the legislature for their liberality. Grand Island and Omaha were the only aspirants for the reunion. In addition to the requirements of the council of administration the Omaha people had offered a bonus of $200, and on a ballot to locate the encampment next year Omaha won by a vote of 136 to 123. Lincoln and Kearney both wanted the encampment the year following and Kearney got it easily. Judge Estelle of Omaha was the only nominee for commander and was accorded the honor of a unanimous election. John Lett of York was elected senior vice commander.

Estelle for Commander.

Judge Estelle was nominated for commander by Colonel A. V. Cole and as it he was the choice of a large majority of the delegates no other nominations were made. A number of comrades seconded the nomination. Judge Estelle was escorted to the stage and thanked the encampment for the honor conferred upon him in an elo quent address. He said: "I esteem it the greatest of honors that ever has or ever can be bestowed upon me. Men may be elected senators or governors from any walk of life, but only he who has won the right to wear this little bronze button can ever be eligible to this high honor." He was accorded a hearty ovation at the close of his address and frequently was interrupted by applause. John Lett of York, who also had no opposition for senior vice commander, in a few words extended his thanks for the honor he had received. The encampment then took a recess to 2 p. m. At the session this afternoon the election was resumed.

Women's Organizations.

The Women's Relief corps met at the Congregational church at 9 a. m. and resumed election of officers. Mrs. La Della Stilson of York corps No. 5 was chosen department chaplain. Mrs. Lodusky Taylor, National Women's Relief corps president was present and delivered an eloquent address. The balance of the morning hour was taken up with routine business, which was a special order for that time.

The Ladies of the Grand Army of the Re public met at the council chamber in the city hall, with Mrs. Pattie M. Vaughn presiding.
