

B'NAL B'RICH FINISH WORK

Close Grand Lodge Convention with Banquet at Metropolitan Club.

DES MOINES GETS NEXT MEETING

Secures It After Spirited Contest with Milwaukee-Omahans Given Places on Several Principal Committees.

A banquet at the Metropolitan club last night closed the thirty-fifth annual convention of district grand lodge No. 4, Independent Order B'nai B'rith. The last of the business had been transacted and final adjournment taken at 4:15 in the afternoon, making the convention of but two days' duration.

Des Moines got the next meeting from Milwaukee after a spirited contest involving forty-five minutes of oratory by the advocates of the two places. The new finance committee, announced yesterday afternoon includes M. Guettel, M. Riess and H. Solomon, all of Chicago, where the headquarters of the district is located. The new committee on intellectual advancement comprises Israel Cowen, Chicago; Jacob Ely, Grand Rapids; Charles L. Aarons, Milwaukee; Arnold Wolf, Chicago; W. S. Newberger, Chicago; B. Ginsberg, Detroit; H. Riegleman, Des Moines; and M. L. Sugarman, Omaha.

State deputies for the year are: Illinois, A. J. Newberger, Chicago; Michigan, M. H. Wise, Detroit; Minnesota, Jonas Well, Minneapolis; Iowa, O. Hockman, Council Bluffs; Nebraska, C. Brandeis, Omaha.

For Immigrant Distribution.

In the closing hour of the session Harry A. Lipaky, manager of the industrial removal office at Chicago, made an earnest and loudly applauded appeal for co-operation in the work he represents, which work is that of diverting Jewish immigration from the congested parts of New York and other cities into the small towns of the nation and clearing out the slums. The industrial removal society is practically an outgrowth or continuation of the Roumanian committee, born at the time of the massacres and very successful in its labors. Mr. Lipaky stated that there are 350,000 people in the slums of New York City, but that the Roumanian society expects to take out 6,000 of them this year and to continue the work until all are cleared. His closing remark to the convention was: "We must break up these ghettos in New York, Philadelphia and wherever they may exist, and so divert our immigration that never again will such disease-breeding and immortal-fostering congestions exist."

Having elected its officers at the Sunday session, the convention yesterday turned its attention to incidental matters and adopted a resolution which pledges the members of the order to give financial and other support to the recently outraged Jews of Russia and empowers the general committee to memorialize the government at Washington if it is necessary. The resolution was drafted by a special committee appointed yesterday and headed by Judge Philip Stein of Chicago. It reads:

"We have heard with feelings of indescribable horror of the Russian outrages lately committed upon our co-religionists in and around Kishineff, Russia, and stand aghast at the thought of such atrocities, worthy of savages devoid of all civilization, could have been perpetrated in the opening years of the twentieth century. We go out in sympathy to our stricken brethren and we stand ready at any and all times to render them whatever assistance, financial or otherwise, their necessities may demand, and to take such action in their behalf as far as this may be possible, as will tend to the absolute prevention of any repetition of the same. We therefore recommend that the incoming general committee be authorized to issue an appeal to Washington for pecuniary help and that it be left to their judgment and to their initiative to take such action as they see fit, the government at Washington for the adoption of all proper measures and to take such further steps as in their opinion the emergency may now or hereinafter require."

Personnel of General Committee.

The general committee upon which is thus made to devolve responsibility for future action includes Judge Stein, A. B. Seelenfreund, both of Chicago, S. Livingston of Bloomington and William Tausig.

Other committees and trustees named yesterday were: Endowment trustees, H. Hirsch, D. Adler and H. Brimmer, all of whom are already serving in such capacity; Cleveland Orphan asylum trustees, A. Leob, S. Heaverich, L. H. Heller and S. Woolner; Denver Asylum for Consumptives trustees, Israel Cowen. The intellectual advancement committee is yet to be named.

At yesterday's meeting there was brought up and discussed a proposition to change the laws of the order to make it possible for holders of endowment policies therein to designate who shall be their beneficiaries instead of making it imperative that an endowment when paid after death shall be divided among the members of the deceased's family. The general sentiment of the convention seemed to be favorable to the change because of its making possible a reward for those who care for old people and keep up the latter's dues, but final action will not be taken until it is ascertained if the change will be contrary to the statutory enactments of Illinois, as some fear. The Nebraska lodge is the only one in Omaha having the endowment feature.

Secretary's Report.

From Secretary Hamburger's report are taken the following: Grand total receipts since last annual report to date, January 15, 1903: For endowment assessments to date, $36,800 00 For orphan asylum dues to date, 4,042 50 For district grand lodge per capita, 2,429 19 For constitution grand lodge per capita to date, 1,737 00

Grand total receipts for 1902, from January 15, 1902, to January 15, 1903: Grand total disbursements to date since last annual report, 1902: By M. M. Hirsch, chairman endowment trustees, $36,800 00 By David Fisch, treasurer district grand lodge No. 4, 4,042 50 By S. Sulzberger, secretary executive committee C. G. L., 1,737 00

Grand total disbursements to date, January 15, 1903, to January 15, 1902: Grand total disbursements to date since last annual report, 1902: By M. M. Hirsch, chairman endowment trustees, $36,800 00 By David Fisch, treasurer district grand lodge No. 4, 4,042 50 By S. Sulzberger, secretary executive committee C. G. L., 1,737 00

The report of Treasurer David Fisch showed receipts, (inclusive of the original balance of $60.95 on hand), amounting to $2,947.87, and disbursements of $1,734.49, leaving a balance of $1,213.38. His report was compiled early in the present year.

Report of the Treasurer.

The convention at yesterday's session voted $100 for the use of the intellectual advancement committee, and authorized the printing of 2,500 copies of the by-laws for general distribution.

Banquet a Success.

The banquet at night was given by Nebraska lodge No. 254, I. O. O. F. in honor of the delegates to the convention. The main banquet room, which had been most elegantly adorned with greens and flowers.

Isidor Ziegler, as toastmaster, first introduced Rev. A. Simon of Omaha, who in responding to the toast, "Facing the Future," took occasion to mention the gulf that has seemed to exist between the synagogue and the B'nai B'rith unit more closely in the effort to strengthen Jewish manhood and womanhood in the present day. Rev. A. Kraus of Chicago, introduced as "The True Reed of the Order," toasted "The B'nai B'rith," declaring it the Salvation Army of Judaism, tracing its sixty years of history and the good work it has done in the establishment of many hospitals, libraries and orphanages, besides giving millions to widows; affirming it was responsible for Secretary Hay taking so firm a stand on the Roumanian question and appealing for co-operation with it or in it as a means of meeting the needs of Russian Jews that must result from present conditions.

Hon. Edward Rosewater, introduced as a national character of whom the Jewish people are proud, because he came of similar stock and is a secular Jew, responded to the toast, "Facing the Future," reviewing some of the difficulties besetting the journalistic path and recounting incidents, amusing or otherwise, in his own career.

Editor Must Be Fearless.

"Some persons," he said, "presume an editor to be an encyclopaedia. It is not that, but he must be constantly reading and studying, must digest rapidly without fear, expressing, if he be a conscientious man, his convictions fearlessly. Loss of property and even loss of life are possibilities which must not deter him."

Mayor Samuel Pils of Omaha, Mich., responded to the toast, "Facing the Future," reviewing some of the difficulties besetting the journalistic path and recounting incidents, amusing or otherwise, in his own career.

Editor Must Be Fearless.

"Some persons," he said, "presume an editor to be an encyclopaedia. It is not that, but he must be constantly reading and studying, must digest rapidly without fear, expressing, if he be a conscientious man, his convictions fearlessly. Loss of property and even loss of life are possibilities which must not deter him."

Rev. A. Hirschberg of Chicago, a remarkably eloquent speaker, answered the question, "Have We a Future?" by declaring an emphatic affirmative. "There is a future," he said, "which cannot die, which must survive all. But there is much missionary work to be done. The Jew has not come into his own. It is still the Jew against the world, Singed and alone he has to cut his way through and alone he has to fight. The finger of God trembles upon him. There are sacred duties that must be performed. The reckoning is not with man, but with God. So long as truth lies prostrate so long must the Jew, repairing to his wretched tower, in a vain effort to escape from the world, and from then send forth his voice, his defiance. We have a future and that future is written in the azure of the sky."

Jew a Practical Dreamer.

Simon Bloom of Omaha spoke on "The Jew—His Dream of Empire," conceding that the Jew is a dreamer and long has been a dreamer. He maintains that the Jew is not an idle dreamer, but one whose dreams have been of humanity and whose efforts have been for the good of men of all ages and countries—one who best feels for others because he has himself suffered.

Hon. Martin Emrich of Chicago closed the speaking at 11:15 with some felicitous remarks so humorous as to set the banquet room laughing most heartily. Thereafter for an hour or two the younger portion of the banquet party of 170 danced.

Following are the committees who engineered the very successful night's entertainment and festivity:

Committee on Arrangements—C. Brandeis, chairman; M. Levy, L. Harris, I. Ziegler, S. Bloom, Rabbi A. Simon, F. Adler, M. L. Sugarman, Harry Miller, Harry Zimmman, Reception Committee—F. Adler, chairman; S. Bloom, Rabbi A. Simon, Degen, Harry Miller, Harry Miller, Harry Zimmman, J. Pirsch, C. Brandeis, Sam Katz, Banquet Committee—Nate Spieberger, chairman; Charles Kirshbraun, M. Levy, Entertainment Committee—Nate Spieberger, chairman; M. Levy, S. Sugarman, M. Morris, J. Merritt, L. Harris.

Floor Committee—Harry L. Cohn, chairman; Phillip Schwartz, Henry Blum, Albert Rosenthal, Henry Rosenthal, Louis Miller, M. Glickman, L. Levin, Harry Zimmman.

The banquet menu included:

- Fruit Salad. Waters. Salted Almonds. Tomatoes. Olives. Sweet Breads. Sauternes. Mushrooms. Radishes. Squab on Toast. Non-Caret. New Potatoes. Peas. Tomatoes. Cucumbers. Ice Cream. Assorted Cakes. Candles.

WORKMEN LEAVE THE CITY

Temping Offers from Elsewhere Attract Many of the Strikers.

One effect of the present strikes in Omaha—one which will be materially felt—is that a large number of the workmen are leaving or preparing to leave the city. Fifty carpenters out of probably 150 who went on strike have secured employment in layaway under the best conditions and will leave at once for their places. Other carpenters are preparing to go to other places. In addition to these, many of the electrical workers who have figured in the strike have obtained steady work elsewhere and are "packing up" to start for the new places of employment and residence.

Neither of these two crafts stands out conspicuously at this stage of the strike, though the carpenters cut a much greater figure than is apparent. They, with other building trades unions, are tied up and will be unable to turn a hand until the teamsters' strike is settled. This simply means that the great volume of new building that was started must wait until all matters are adjusted. And while, since the teamsters have conceded the two cardinal points of no boycotts and sympathetic strikes, an early settlement seems possible, it will naturally require some little time to fill the full length and patch up the differences with all the various organizations. Impressed with this fact, in view of the rapidly fleeting season, the divers uncertainties of a settlement and tempted by the prospect of a better wage, many of the electrical workers, many of them, have taken advantage of their opportunities and arranged to leave the city.

Yesterday afternoon saw the beginning of the inquiry into the candidates attending the applications for the injunction against the restaurant workers and the latter's counter injunction against the hotel and restaurant owners. J. O. Yelzer, for the strikers, and T. J. Mahoney, for the employers, appeared as the attorneys. The proceedings are being held in the headquarters building of the waiters on Farnam street. The hearing yesterday was rather preliminary in character, but one witness testified. He was W. H. Balduff, proprietor of the Balduff restaurant and a member of the employer's press committee. Mr. Balduff testified that the object of the co-operative spirit and purpose of the Business Men's association. He testified that that association, since the strike began, contributed funds for the maintenance of two of the smaller restaurants of the city which were closed by the strike. These proprietors cast their lot with the Business Men's association and, not being able financially to withstand the pressure of the strike, received aid from the association. Mr. Balduff further stated that the association is willing to have the transfer companies in adding them to bring in new men from other cities. He said that W. S. Jardine of the Omaha Merchants' Express and Transfer company was selected as the special representative of the association to go to St. Louis and employ a certain number of men to come here and supplement team drivers who had struck.

Laundries Start Up.

Yesterday all the steam laundries that were closed by the strike reopened and fifteen girls left the ranks of the strikers and returned to their old positions. Sixteen union teamsters deserted and took up their former places driving the transfer wagons. At least one statement of the city of Omaha, president of the Team Drivers' union. The transfer companies put on many more wagons yesterday and they count on increasing the number from day to day. W. S. Jardine of the Omaha Merchants' Express and Transfer company said that he had almost a full company of men, nearly ninety, at work and that forty of his old men went back yesterday. About thirty of these, however, did not strike and were retained on regular wages during the period they were idle. The teamsters believe the remainder of their men will start up until the end of the city still enjoys freedom from any suggestion of disturbance due to the unsettled labor situation. With the increased number of teams at work came no violation of the peaceful reign that has obtained, with few exceptions, since the strike began. Notwithstanding the quietude, the police and sheriff are taking no chances and are guarding the city with their special forces. All teams are attended by at least one deputy sheriff. The 2,000 strikers seem bent on prosecuting a peaceable content rather than engaging in violent demonstrations.

Position of the Engineers.

The press committee of the International Union of Steam Engineers gives out the following: "The International Union of Steam Engineers, in accordance with certain statements circulated, appointed a press committee to place itself right before the public. On May 3, 1903, after a meeting with the teamsters' committee, the union voted to stand at their present position. On May 10, 1903, after a meeting with the teamsters and firemen, a motion was made to refuse to burn anything but fair coal, in an executive session it was found to conflict somewhat with the constitution, and it was practically a step toward a sympathetic strike, and it was referred to the international officers, who refused to sanction a movement of that kind and recommended that if we had any grievance we should arbitrate."

For Union Laundry Work.

As to the restaurant and the laundry workers, they still assert their determination to hold out for their original demands. The laundry workers appear undisturbed by the desertion of fifteen girls yesterday morning and say they are fortifying their position and will be able to maintain a better front. They have arranged to open a large "counting" room at 1222 Capitol avenue, where they will receive work that will be sent to the laundries at Fairmount and Fremont, run on the co-operative plan. The laundry workers have arranged to run these two establishments from 5 in the afternoon until 7 in the morning. The Garrett laundry here, which signed the scale, is planning to keep three shifts at work all night and day. The laundries that opened yesterday morning have sent out a few wagons, but made no effort to send out all of them. As the laundry men advertised yesterday, they will depend on their customers delivering their own goods for a few days until things are more settled. The laundry men express themselves as quite surprised at the favorable conditions already. The laundry workers are on weekly benefits, as are the teamsters and waiters. The company with another man, Taylor drew an installment from their international at Philadelphia. It was a check of $500 sent

Horsehoes Out Again.

Forty-five journeymen horsehoes, having again locked horns with their employers, have once more joined the ranks of strikers. This time the trouble is over the labels. The master horsehoes have a label and the journeymen have a label. Both want these labels on the shoes that are turned out. About a year ago the same controversy arose and the journeymen won out against the protest of the masters. Now the masters renew their fight. They demand that their label be imprinted on the shoes, to the exclusion of the label of the journeymen. The journeymen contend that their label shall be used and are willing to have the masters' label also given a show. So when the masters pressed the issue of having their label used exclusively the journeymen walked out.

Season's Work Brought to Close by a Show of the Class Drills.

The gymnasium classes of the Young Women's Christian association closed their season's work last evening with a program of drills and ball games most entertaining to the audience of parents and friends that crowded one half the floor space of the gymnasium, in the Paxton block. The participants were members of the beginning and intermediate classes and the program was intended chiefly to show the various exercises that constitute the regular class work rather than any attempt at an exhibition, for the room is too cramped to admit of anything more pretentious.

Remarkable Naval Feat.

One of the most remarkable feats in naval affairs was the one recently accomplished by one of England's battleships—that of sailing over 2,000 miles without a rudder. It certainly reflects great credit on its officers. There is also great credit due Hostetter's Stomach Bitters for its unequalled record of cures of dizziness, nausea, sour stomach, indigestion, dyspepsia, constipation, biliousness and malaria made during the last fifty years. A trial will convince you of its value. Our Private Stamp is over the neck of the bottle.

Iowa Boy in Trouble

Iowa contributed another victim to its long list of unfortunate cases to this city last night in the person of Roy Cook. The boy, who came from his home with two other boys from that city and, returning yesterday evening with them, had been in the city and, it is known, just how he became separated from his money—$17—and his companions also and was left alone and penniless in the strange city. He wandered into the police station and told his story of misfortune, mentioning that he had a relative in the city, but did not know where he lived. This person was soon found and Cook provided for.

Woman Wants Her Spouse to Suffer for Making Play with Gun.

George Taylor and wife of Council Bluffs concluded some time ago to dissolve their partnership and Mrs. Taylor came over to Omaha and is making her home with her mother at 709 Pacific street. Last Friday evening Taylor met her on the street in Eighth-street and shot her in the right arm. Taylor was arrested and Taylor drew a gun on the man, who fled. Mrs. Taylor subsequently had him arrested. The charge against him was carrying concealed weapons. Taylor was arraigned in police court yesterday and fined $5 and costs on that charge. This evidently did not satisfy Mrs. Taylor, so she has filed another complaint against him for assault and battery. Taylor was rearrested and placed under $100 bonds for his appearance Tuesday morning.
