

SECRETARY IS IN CONTEMPT

Office of Business Men's Association Must Produce the Books. ALTERNATIVE IS TO GO TO COUNTY JAIL.

M. B. Branch, secretary of the Business Men's association, was found guilty of contempt of court yesterday afternoon in failing to produce the books and papers of the association before Calvin C. Valente, notary public, who is taking depositions in support of the cross-complaint of the Waiters' union in the injunction case.

At the beginning of the hearing before the notary public a subpoena duces tecum was issued for Mr. Branch. He appeared upon the motion but without the books, saying that they had been turned over to T. J. Mahoney, counsel of the association, who is no longer in the custody of the secretary. A motion was made by the attorney for the cross-complainant to have the witness committed for contempt. Arguments upon the motion were heard Thursday and a decision of the notary reserved until 3 o'clock Friday. At that time he decided that the secretary of the association was in contempt and should be committed to jail until such time as he obeyed the subpoena.

Commitment Held Back. As soon as the decision was announced and before the order of commitment was signed, Mr. Galt, one of the attorneys for the association, said that probably Mr. Mahoney would produce the books and papers today, but he would not say positively that it would be done. He asked that the order be not signed until it was known that Mr. Mahoney would not produce the books today, but the notary signed the order upon the sheriff to commit the witness, saying that it would not be served until 2 o'clock today, when if the books and papers were produced it would not be enforced. The taking of testimony was postponed until 2 o'clock today, after Mr. Branch had said that no secret communications were had between the association and its members other than letters addressed personally to the members.

Calumet Restaurant Sold. For $10,000 cash Tolf Hanson yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock sold his Douglas street restaurant, the Calumet, to W. S. Baiduff and Homer Miller, who announce that they will give it their personal attention. When asked what they propose to do in the matter of employees they answered that they propose to "stand on the platform of the Business Men's association, employing help at their own discretion and without discrimination."

More Teamsters at Work. Except for one more settlement secured by the teamsters no changes marked the progress of local strikes yesterday. The teamsters, on a verbal agreement with the Omaha Transfer company, 134 Howard street, employing help at their own discretion and without discrimination. The sale transaction is said to have occurred less than fifteen minutes. Mr. Hanson, after it was completed, made the statement that after adjusting minor affairs in Omaha he will leave for a long-contemplated visit in California, to be of indefinite length.

Business Men Make Statement. J. A. Sunderland, chairman of the press committee of the Business Men's association, replies to the statements made by L. V. Guye, chairman of Central Labor union arbitration committee, in an interview published in The Bee. Mr. Sunderland says: "Referring to Mr. Guye's declaration that the Business Men's association has been aggressive from the first and must accept the responsibility for the prolongation of the struggle, which now seems far from an end, the press committee of the Business Men's association calls attention to the fact that all of the strikes, both the alleged grievances and those called in sympathy, were inaugurated and have been carried on by various organizations of union labor and the responsibility of longer continuing them must be borne by such unions."

MEMORIAL DAY NUMBER will be out Sunday. It will contain a poem by Martha McCulloch-Williams, particularly appropriate to the day, with some especially posed pictures which breathe the spirit of the occasion. In addition to these are several articles bearing directly on Memorial day, and the pictures of the newly elected officers of the Grand Army of the Republic and its allied bodies in Nebraska, a picture of the monument to be dedicated to the grand dead of Johnson county by the Grand Army of the Republic, and other matters of peculiar interest to the soldier, old and young. None of the regular features of the paper have been omitted in the preparation for this interesting special number.

GERMAN AGRICULTURAL INVESTIGATORS looked over Iowa and Nebraska in a business-like way, taking minute observations of everything they saw. Omaha was one of their principal stopping places. For four days a Bee "photograph man" went with this body of distinguished visitors, and on the trip he secured many interesting pictures. A couple page is devoted to an exhibition of these, and with the pictures is an interesting account of how the Germans went about securing the information they hope to make use of in managing their own farms, and in assisting their countrymen to overcome some of their prejudices against American food stuffs. This is one of the most important expeditions ever sent out by a government, and its records are of consequent interest to the people most concerned. The Bee's pictures are exclusive.

MUNICIPALITIES AS PAWN-BROKERS is the subject of Frank G. Carpenter's weekly letter, telling of how the German cities loan money to the people at a low rate of interest. "Public Libraries as a Feature of Municipal Growth" is the first of a series of articles from "The Influence of Slavonic Immigration" deals with an interesting phase of national life: "The City of Civilization" tells what some eminent savages think of our methods of living; "Routine of a Turkish Woman's Life" gives us a glimpse into the seraglio; there are two pages devoted to woman's affairs and a concluding installment of S. R. Crockett's charming story, "Flower-of-the-Corn." Besides all of these features, there is the usual department of crisp comment, chatty stories and piquant anecdotes of prominent people. Not a feature has been omitted that nothing left undone that would add to the value of the number. If you are not already a subscriber, you should leave your order with your newdealer today.

purely defensive in its attitude, and all of its acts have been in the line of resuming the business of the city which was so violently interrupted by strikes on May 1. No fair-minded person will deny to a business man the right to operate his business, even when his employees are unwilling to continue in their work, and the Business Men's association accepts the responsibility for assisting its members in this direction. "At the conference held before the governor on May 11 the principles of employing union and nonunion men indiscriminately, and the use of the boycott and sympathetic strikes were discussed exhaustively for about four hours, the union representatives taking the ground that union men would not work with nonunion men, and that they would not, under any circumstances, abandon the use of the boycott and sympathetic strikes in the enforcement of their demands. The Business Men's association could not accede to this position of the unions, inasmuch as it is not a good business proposition to close the doors of our city to those persons who desire to come here to do business, or to labor, but are unwilling to submit to union dictation; and the boycott, together with its chief ally, the sympathetic strike, are a standing menace to the peaceful pursuit of business and have been declared by the highest courts as well as by the Anarchist and Communist commissions to be unlawful and criminal.

No Basis of Settlement. "It will be at once seen that no basis of settlement of the present troubles could be arrived at, until these questions, that had already been discussed, had been settled on a basis of right and equity. It was, therefore, not an arbitrary action on the part of the Business Men's association to refuse further conference until the unions had changed their attitude toward these questions, as conference committees could not make headway in negotiations until they had been settled, and should not consume their time in repeatedly discussing the questions on which both parties to the controversy had already stated finally their positions. "The Business Men's association desires peace in our city, and is ready at any time to do those things which, in its judgment, will make for peace, but, in the very nature of things, a compact based on unground public policy or a violation of the law cannot produce lasting peace."

Court Discharges Strikers. Almost the entire time of police court was taken up yesterday with the hearing of the cases against the strikers for the demonstrations made May 14. Those tried were Frank Gubel, J. F. Brewer, Bert Weininger, George Poland, Charles Stevens, Baxter, Miller, Gould and Pond. All were discharged. The arguments in the case of John Murray were continued until June 8. The cases of Boye and Fuller go over until Saturday. This leaves only the Boye, Fuller and Murray cases in court.

MAY FLOWERS FOR THE DEAD

Grand Army Men and Women Arrange for Memorial Services. JOINT COMMITTEE'S PLANS COMPLETE. Reports Given in at the Session Last Night Show Details to Be Well Provided for Already.

The meeting of the joint committees of Crook, Custer and Grand Army of the Republic, and their Women's Relief corps auxiliaries was held last evening to arrange further details for the appropriate observance of Memorial day. Chairman John L. Hobbs presided. The meeting was devoted to the submission of reports of the several committees and their respective plans. Mr. Driesbach of the committee on invitation reported that the organizations which had signified their intention of participating in the parade were the three companies of militia of the city, a battalion of United States infantry from Fort Crook, the Twenty-second infantry band, the six companies of the high school cadets, the high school cadet band, two platoons of Modern Woodmen and several other civic societies, of which detailed mention will be made later.

To Gather the Flowers. Provision has been made by the flower committee for the gathering of flowers for the three districts by the school children. The south district comprises all that territory lying south of Leavenworth street, the center district all territory lying between Leavenworth and Cuming streets and the north district all territory lying north of Cuming street. The flowers to be gathered will be assembled well in advance. The decoration and finance committees submitted reports indicating satisfactory progress. Commander of the Parade Driesbach announced the following formation of the parade: Drum and pipe corps, the Grand Army of the Republic and veterans of the civil war, Spanish-American war veterans, Twenty-second infantry band, battalion of United States infantry, three local companies of militia, high school cadet band, six companies of high school cadets, Woodmen of the World and other civic societies. A committee of three, consisting of J. L. Hobbs, Jonathan Edwards and G. R. Rathbun, was appointed to look after securing a hall for the formal ceremonies in the event of inclement weather.

Orders for Grant Post. The following order relative to Memorial day has been issued by the commander of U. S. Grant post: "Our post will assemble on Sunday, May 24, 1903, for our usual Memorial day observance at 10 o'clock sharp, to meet the Women's Relief corps, and to march to the Trinity Methodist church, where we will have an address delivered by Rev. D. A. Galt. All members of the post are cordially invited to attend. On Friday, May 22, all children and parochial schools are to be addressed and urged by members of the Grand Army detailed for that purpose. On Saturday morning, May 23, Memorial day, committees from the posts, the Women's Relief corps and the Trinity Methodist church will devote the morning to the decoration of the graves in the various cemeteries. The usual morning service will be held on our grounds in Forest Lawn cemetery. Comrades and the Women's Relief corps will meet at 2:30 p. m. and form in line for parade."

"DAMON AND PYTHIAS" AGAIN

Well Known Play Given at the Orpheum for the Benefit of Local Lodges. The knights of the six Pythian lodges of Omaha gathered last night in Syracuse, which place is generally known as the Orpheum, to give their hearts with the tragic scenes of "Damon and Pythias" and their legs and heads with the inviolable war bonnets of the amateur property man. The production, which was for the profit of the general benefit fund of the order, was staged under the direction of Robert Blylock. Despite the necessary incongruities of scenery and some small hitches incident to the change of scene, the play generally went with pleasing smoothness, and the characters were all letter perfect and gave their lines in a creditable and occasionally really dramatic and dramatic fashion. Kirby Snowden acted Damon, Ludwig von Stringer, Percies; Stewart O. Barnes, Philistias; Frederick C. Eckstrom, Lucullus, and Cecil Williams, the servant. Miss Dorothy Davis, in the role of Calanthe, had much difficulty to do and rose to the climax, and especially in the last act displayed dramatic force and passion. Miss Lucille Parrish played Harmon creditably, Miss Edith Wardell, Arria, and Madge Hungate, the child of Damon.

JESSE VANDERFORD'S BODY

Local Plumbers Receive from Colorado Remains of Their Dead Comrade. The joint board of the plumbers' union and allied societies met last night at labor temple to make arrangements for the funeral of the late Jesse J. Vanderford, whose body arrived in Omaha from Colorado yesterday. According to the story which comes from Pueblo, where Vanderford had been working for some time, he left that city a few days ago for Omaha. Before leaving he drew a sum of money out of the bank and from a low east of Pueblo wrote a friend in the latter city to send his kit of tools to this city. The next day a telegram was received from Henderson, Colo., saying that the remains of a man had been found near the railroad track and from papers at his side he was believed to be Jesse Vanderford. The wife of his former employer at Pueblo identified the

HERDMAN TO BE APPOINTED

City Attorney-Elect Carl C. Wright Finally Names His Chief Assistant. Carl C. Wright, who becomes city attorney Monday, has returned from Spirit Lake, where he went to rest after the campaign, and has given it out that Will H. Herdman will be his selection as assistant city attorney. This choice has been rumored for more than a week. Wright and Herdman were about the city hall together yesterday inspecting the offices they will occupy and familiarizing themselves with the records. Herdman has thoroughly identified himself with democratic politics for years and was one of the chief managers of the recent Howell campaign. He is a brother to Lee Herdman, clerk of the supreme court.

STERILIZED BARBER SHOP

A Famous Shop in the Carrollton Hotel, Baltimore, Maryland. The barber shop in the Carrollton hotel, Baltimore, sterilizes everything it uses in the shop. The sterilizing is done by heat. The towels, the razors, the strops, the soap, the combs and brushes are all sterilized before being used on a customer. Where there is no sterilization, have the barber use Newbro's Herpicide. It kills the dandruff germ and it is an antiseptic for the scalp and for the face after shaving. All leading barbers everywhere appreciate these potent facts about Herpicide and they use it. When the Grand Army Comes

A misapprehension seems to exist relative to the time the Grand Army reunion will be held at Omaha. Persistent with the action of the Grand Army encampment recently held at Fremont, the reunion which was voted to be held in Omaha was later forced to Hastings for another year, the present year being the centennial of the battle of Gettysburg. The reunion to that city for three years, in 1903. The reunions were consequently held in that city for the years 1900, 1901 and 1902. Hence the Omaha contract begins with 1904.

Boy Turns Highwayman

Pete Dargarczewski began again his career of 13-year-old highwayman which he carried on last summer at the Carrollton hotel, holding up two small boys yesterday evening. From the first of these he took a $100 bill and a young son of H. H. Baldrige, who gave up a pocket knife, a purse with 2 cents in it and a street car ticket and occupied with the robbery. He is the son of former Policeman Nicodemus Dargarczewski.

LOCAL BREVITIES

Can deliver today Sheridan coal. Victor White Co., 1008 Farnam. Tel. 127. J. J. O'Connor of Ogallala, Neb., was drunk and in custody of the police and held himself in the city jail. The prisoner is a cripple and is said to have used his crutch with effect on some unfortunate who refused to give him alms. Carl Fisher of Thirty-second street and Dewey avenue, more familiarly known as "Catfish," was arrested yesterday evening and charged with being drunk and assaulting Logan Gray, who lives at the intersection of Twenty-third and Leard streets. Gray says that he stepped into a doorway where the negro was standing and was the rain and that the latter knocked him down. Signs all over the city were blown down and scattered about the streets. Many trees were either uprooted or broken off. No serious accidents were reported to the police. Druggists Ignore Order. Only three of the dozen druggists in the city have complied with the order of the mayor in regard to securing druggists' permits to sell liquor. Last night it was reported that the Fire and Police board would soon take a hand in the matter and see to it that all druggists obeyed the law. A druggist's license costs $10, while the same sum is paid for advertising. Damages Light. City Engineer Deal said last night that the recent heavy rain had done very little damage to the unpaved streets and alleys. He estimates that it will not require $100 to repair the damage. This is something remarkable, as in the past hard rains have frequently cost the city $400 and $500. Last fall and early this spring some good work had been done on the streets and the repairs that were made were put in to stay. Maggie City Goes. George Nichols left last night for Seattle, Wash., where he intends to locate. A daughter has been born to Mr. and Mrs. L. Clough, 523 North Thirtieth street. The city and county assessors are proceeding along with a little work each day. Mrs. Myles E. Welsh has gone to Excelsior, Minn., to spend two or three weeks. An addition to the elevated walk in the cattle yards at the stock yards is being built. Mrs. A. D. Chamberlain of Douglas, Wyo., is in the city the guest of her brother, James P. McElroy. A Friday was spent by a record-breaker in police court, not a single case being brought before the judge all day. There will be a meeting of the South

AFFAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA

Variety of Opinion Develops Regarding Voting of Bonds. STRONG REVIVAL OF ANNEXATION TALK. Several of Big Stocks at Cudahy Plant Blown Down by Wind and Some of the Buildings Are Damaged.

There seems to be a disposition on the part of a number of voters to favor the high school bonds and the overlap bonds, and to vote for neither extension and the city hall bonds. Some of course favor the entire issue, while others are out at work fighting the entire proposition. It is predicted by many interested persons that if any portion of the issue can be carried it will be for a new high school building. This choice has been rumored for more than a week. Wright and Herdman were about the city hall together yesterday inspecting the offices they will occupy and familiarizing themselves with the records. Herdman has thoroughly identified himself with democratic politics for years and was one of the chief managers of the recent Howell campaign. He is a brother to Lee Herdman, clerk of the supreme court.

Some of those who favor the entire issue say that South Omaha may as well get some improvements now as annexation is sure to come within a short time. "Let the people of Omaha help pay for our city," is a remark frequently heard on the streets these days when voters are talking about the bond proposition. Interest in the bond question appears to be increasing and before the time election arrives it is thought that meetings for and against the bonds will be held. Naturally the city officials would like to see the overlap bonds carry as a lot of old debts could be wiped out and charged off the books. There will most likely be some mighty lively voting on June 23.

More Annexation Talk

Every day those who favor annexation are coming to the front. There is more talk in favor of the proposition now than ever in the past. Business men who have formerly opposed every suggestion regarding an amalgamation of the two Omahas now come out openly and favor the plan. There is some talk of calling a meeting to discuss the question and endeavor to decide what is best to be done. In its issue today the Weekly Independent, voicing the sentiments of the laboring men, will say on this topic: "We are no prophet nor the son of one, yet we venture the prediction that there will never be another election of city officials held in South Omaha. The annexation movement has gained new strength owing to the manner in which a few Sunday school people are now running the city. Unless some steps are taken to test the issue in the courts, we believe that a good, healthy annexation sentiment will develop. This is no laughing matter."

Revision of Registration

The mayor and council have decided upon June 20 as the day for a revision of registration. All persons who desire to vote on the bond proposition and who did not register last fall and those who have moved since the last election will be given an opportunity on this day to register. Notices were sent out yesterday to the city clerk to the members of the registration board. At present the board consists of thirty-six members, three for each of the twelve voting precincts in the city. With few exceptions, the places of registration will be the same as the voting places.

Courtney Withdraws

J. D. Courtney has, so it was stated last night, withdrawn his application for the position of chief police. A number of the board were known to favor Mr. Courtney, as he has had considerable experience in the police and detective line. Friends of Mr. Courtney say that one reason for the withdrawal of the application is ill health. Just now Mr. Courtney is confined to his home with a severe attack of rheumatism.

Martin's Successor Arrives

J. P. Sprengle of Des Moines will succeed Colonel John L. Martin as live stock agent for the Book Island road at South Omaha. Mr. Sprengle is in the city yesterday being introduced around by Colonel Martin. Several months ago Mr. Martin tendered his resignation, but agreed to remain until a successor was secured. Mr. Sprengle has been in the employ of the Book Island road for about fifteen years. For the last three years he has been chief clerk in the freight department at Des Moines. As soon as Mr. Sprengle is ready to assume the duties of his office Colonel Martin will join his wife at Bothwell, Wash., where he owns a fine fruit farm.

Building Stone Retaining Wall

Work has been commenced on the stone retaining wall to be constructed by the stock yards company at the west end of the Q street viaduct. This wall is to be eighty feet in length, fourteen feet in height and four feet wide at the base. Frequently rains wash out the supports at the west end of this bridge and the company decided that it would be better to construct a substantial wall than to keep filling in washouts all the time. When this wall is constructed the viaduct will be closed to traffic while a new flooring is being laid.

Cudahy's Stocks Fall

At 7:15 o'clock last evening, when the wind was apparently at its height, two of the large iron smokestacks at Cudahy's were blown down. Both stacks fell on the roofs of buildings to the north, doing considerable damage. No one was injured. It was necessary to slack up work at the plant for a time while temporary repairs could be made. Signs all over the city were blown down and scattered about the streets. Many trees were either uprooted or broken off. No serious accidents were reported to the police. Druggists Ignore Order. Only three of the dozen druggists in the city have complied with the order of the mayor in regard to securing druggists' permits to sell liquor. Last night it was reported that the Fire and Police board would soon take a hand in the matter and see to it that all druggists obeyed the law.
