Omaha took the last of the series from the Saints yesterday through superior hitting and clean fielding. It was a pretty game and fast played and the score stood i to 0 when the dust rolled away.

Companion pitched a steady, heady game and had clearly the best of it all the time, while Chinn, who took the place of Glade in the fourth, was hit almost at will and quite hard, too. Glade was a puzzle to the ourkeites while he was in and his Rooseeltian stare grew broader and more generous as things went on.

Maher was badly hurt in the first inning while making the pretty play of the game. With two men out and Shugart on second and Dolan on first, Wright banged out a hot one in the direction of second and Maher scooped it up and fell on his face with it, but half rose and threw himself on the second bag, putting out Dolan. In the effort he strained his back and was taken to the hospital, where his injuries axxRitter were attended to.

McBride Gets Spiked.

In the first of the fourth inning, with two men out, MeBride on third and McConnel first and second and Shugart forced him part way back and then threw to Patterson, who touched McBride a couple of feet off the bage and incidentally spike him in the forcarm, necessitating his stopping play. Glade was put at first and Chinn went into the box and the stuff was all off so far as the Saints were concerned. The injuries to the Saints necessitated a general change in the makeup of the team on first, they caught McConnel between general change in the makeup of the team and they were greatly handicapped by the

In the fourth Omaha gathered two runs on a fielders' choice, Patterson's double to left and a single by Thomas. In the fifth they added two more on an error of Glade on first and a swiped ball by Shugart which went through Hartman and Garvin and didn't stop until they both had swung around the four corners. The last run came two innings later, when Shugart started out by getting a clean double and went to third on Dolan's out. Wright then let one ripple off of his bat and it was good for a single and more than enough to score Shugart.

Saints Reach Third Only.

Several times the Saints got men on third, but they never could get any closer and it was "Pa's" game all of the time. Today Kid Nichols and his bunch of ball tossers will romp aroung the grounds for the enjoyment of the multitude and Kid Nichols will do the twisting himself. Ecore: OMAHA. AB. R. 1B. PO. A.

Montgomery was the first Knox man up and the doughty shortstop struck vehemently three times, but could not touch the ball. Then, after Grogan had gone out at first, French flew to right and Knox changed places with Creighton. Calinhan went out at first, Cassidy got that base on an error by Montgomery; Lanigan and Welch were disposed of hurriedly. Knox failed again to make the circuit, but E. Archie Creighton came to bat and made a single, reached second on a sacrifice by Kehoe, stole third and scampered across the plate on a hit by O'Keefe. This ended the run getting until the eighth inning. But in the third Knex grew hopeful when, a base on balls and a double were secured, and just then two men bunted and Lighthorse Harry sent Zalusky, the third man, to the bench on three strikes. In the eighth Lambert jumped upon one of Harry's slants and planted it over the rightfield fence for two socks. Montgomery walked, Grogan fanned, but Funck got his base on a fumble by the shortstop, and in the meanwhile Lambert trotted home. This tied the score and things began to look rather ominous for the locals, but Zalusky went out at first. Again Creighton could not make the coveted score and Essick of Knox ambled down to first on an error; Slattery drew a single, but was soon caught by Prendergast just far enough from first. Harry Welch Goes South. Harry Welch of the Creighton university

Harry Welch of the Creighton university ball team has signed to play right field for the Birmingham (Ala.) team and will leave for there at the close of the school year. Welch is one of the most promising amateurs in this section. In addition to being a good fielder and a fair hand with the stick, he can do a turn at twiring which is decidedly clever. His base ball experience comprises three years on the Originals of this city and three years with the Creightons. He should be amply able to make good in that company, and with a few years of professional experience bids inir to join fast company.
