delegates. Bixth Ward-First predict, county build-ing, Twenty-sixth street and Avenus B, eight delegates; Second predict, Sixth and Locust streets, one delegate. In each precinct, in addition to the naming of delegates to the county convention, the caucus will select a member of the county central committee for the ensuing year. The member so selected will also act as member of the city central committee

Hard fought contests are on for the support of the delegates to be thus selected for two of the places to be filled on the county ticket on June 9. For the nomination for sheriff L. B. Cousins, the present incumbent, and Edward Canning, his former deputy and chairman of the city central committee, are the contestants, while for treasurer Emil Leffert, now deputy treasurer, and L P. Greenshields, a party leader, are the candidates.

SERMON TO THE GRADUATES

Rev. W. S. Barnes Points Out the Source of Power in the World.

The commencement week program of the Council Bluffs High school was entered upon by the baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class by Rev. W. S. Barnes at the First Presbyterian church yesterday morning. The members of the class, the high school faculty and the members of the Board of Education met at the church a quarter of an hour before the hour for the service to begin and were seated in a body in the front part of the center section of the auditorium. Notwithstanding the disagreeable nature of the weather, many friends of the graduates attended and the church was well filled. The pulpit platform was beautifully decorated with flowers Rev. James Thomson of the First Congregational church assisted in the service by offering prayer.

formal charges upon which members of the bar in Henry county believe they will secure the disbarment of Messra. Finley and McCold, two well known lawyers of Mount Pleasant, have been filed with Judge Smyth, and they will be heard at the Sep tember term of the court. The accusations are most sensational in character and are the severest that have been filed against any lawyer of the state for many years. In fact, the charges grew out of a bar meeting where every member of the bar of the county except the two named was represented, and the bar is unanimous in desiring that the prosecution be pushed. The culmination of the trouble came on a recent trial involving a deal for the sale of a livery stable in which bold accusations other like offenses. But the most sensational part of the accusation related to an alleged attempt on the part of the lawyers to secure the forgery of a will for the late Senator Harlan. The accusation is that the firm of McCoid & Finley was attorney for one

J. C. Whitford, who made a large claim against the estate, which was in fact afterward compromised for $2,500. Senator Harlan died intestate, though he had fre-quently indicated his intention of making several bequests. The lawyers sought, it is alleged, to have Whitford forge a will and hide it away and afterward have it found; that the will should make some bequests similar to those the late senator was known to have had in mind; that Mvs.

Lincoln, wife of Robert T. Lincoln of Chicago, should be made executor of the will, and that Whitford was to be provided for liberally. Such a will might easily have been palmed off as genuine, but Mr. Whitford refused to enter into the scheme. Both of the men have long been conspicuous at the bar in southeastern Iowa and the filing of the charges prepared by a par committee at the head of which is L. A. Some-where in connection with the grace and knowledge of Christ is to be found the secret of real power in the modern world. The power of Jesus of Nazareth in our world today is unguestioned, and you will The power of Jesus of Nazareth in our world today is unquestioned, and you will agree with me that it is not His vast learning that explains this power, but the exaltedness of His views and of His life. It would seem clear, then, that the extent of one's learning has not nearly so much to do with his power among men as the plane of elevation on which he thinks and lives. It matters little what you have in your hands, or what you must win men's esteem for what you are before you can have influence with them. The thinking world is now sharply distinguishing between the man and his belongings-between the source of your power for good is in what your are.
