Boat Ride in Wheat Field.

Ex-State Senator Grimm of Wilber was here this morning with a story of boat rides over wheat fields. Out in his neighborhood the water had become so high as to cover the large wheat fields on the Zwonechek farm. Several of the residents of that vicinity had secured a steamboat with a capacity of twenty persons and had gone down the Blue, crossed the road and were steaming across the wheat field when he last heard of them.

The water was so high near the mills east of town that it ran over the wheel and the shafts that entered the mill. It was here several days ago that a little work by a man and a spade could have changed the channel of Blue river. Way back in the old days Blue river made a loop near the city of Wilber, around what is now known as Blue island. In later years, just when no one remembers, the course changed and the river made almost a direct shot cross east of the town. The only barrier that kept the river from changing back was a dike thrown up which leads into the mill. Senator Grimm said in fifteen minutes anyne could have thrown aside enough dirt to have caused the road to give way. And there are others here who wonder why the fifteen minutes' work was not done, because in the old channel nearly every summer the water becomes stagnant, which from a sanitary standpoint is very undesirable. A change back to its old course by the river would have remedied this.

E. G. Maggi, an Albion attorney, came in with another story of the high water. He arrived here this morning and thus concluded a trip that he has been trying to end ever since last Saturday night. Mr. Maggi went to Burchard last Saturday morning, at which place he delivered the address on Memorial day. It was on the road to Lincoln that he had his experiences. He went from Burchard to Table Rock on a hand car and from Table Rock to Lincoln on a wrecking train. The damage that has been done by the water in localities through which he passed, he said, could not be estimated. Nearly all

WASHINGTON, June 2.-Second Assistant Postmaster General Shallenbarger today removed Svend Schibsby of Kansas City, a railway postal clerk, on the charge of violating the postal laws. Schibsby is charged with leading a movement of railway postal clerks to secure payment for traveling expenses, a claim that never has been recognized by the government and which would involve payment of about $1,500,000 annually for the 800 odd clerks in the country.

The case has been investigated by Alexinder Grant, the assistant general superintendent of the railway mail service. Schibsby stated that his arrangements were made in good faith and that they were not made until he had notified the idle workers. Most of these were women chief clerk of his division of his intention and children employed in the hosiery mills to resign from the service.
