The rain storms and floods in the west have had the effect of hampering the railway mail service. The mails for Texas Indian Territory, Oklahoma, Arkansas and southern and eastern Kansas are now being forwarded by the Wabash for connections south of Kansas City. Mails were taker into Kaman City Monday night over the Milwaukee line, being the first that could be made to reach that city since the flood No effort is being made to get mails out of Kansas City to the south. The mails for Arizona and New Mexico, usually sent by vny of Kansas City, have to be forwarded by way of Denver. The mails to the north and west are eing conveyed by the usual railway channels. However, the bulk of the north bound mail is sent over the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolls & Omaha to Sloux City on the Nebraska side of the river. Malis are sent south by way of the Kansas City. St. Joseph & Council Bluffs to Pacific Junetion, and thence by way of Hamburg, In. This supplies Nebraska city with closed pouches from Omaha. This very desirable one is arranged to give a panel effect and also to obtain the least possible weight. As shown the material is canvas veiling stitched with silk and trimmed with braid. but all the season's skirting and sulting materials are equally appropriate.

The skirt is cut in nine gores and is laid in tucks which form groups of two and conceal all seams. The tucks are turned one forward and one backward, so giving the panel effect, and between these tucks the trimming is applied. The fullness at the back is laid in flat inverted plaits.
