

by the water promptly took possession and began clearing the mud from the floors. The following was issued by Mayor Reed and the Commercial club today: "Inquiries are being made respecting the effect of the flood upon the business of Kansas City; there is absolutely no ground for anxiety concerning the business and financial conditions of Kansas City, Mo., in which city the large business establishments are located. The wholesale houses situated on the lowlands have resumed business through branches already established up town. The waters are rapidly receding, and complete resumption of business in the institutions located on the lower lands is only a matter of hours. We expect to have our water works system in operation in twenty-four hours. "Our sister city, Kansas City, Kan., the place of residence of many people employed by our large establishments here, has suffered a very great loss, and we are informed will appreciate aid from other cities. "Kansas City, Mo., has many offers of assistance from outside sources, but she is taking care of her own people, and giving all possible aid to those needing help elsewhere. "The Clearing House association issued a statement to the same effect.

Communication by Steamers. "Communication by steamer with Kansas City, Kan., having been opened up permanently and the exact conditions there having become known, no further feeling of anxiety was felt for the sufferers in that locality.

Not that the lay of the land is known and the relief committees of both Kansas Cities are able to work together, they have mapped out and put into execution elaborate plans for relieving all distress, restoring order and returning business to its normal channels. These plans are being carried out today by an army of local men, reinforced by relief in the shape of food and boats sent in from St. Joseph and Leavenworth.

At 7 o'clock this morning the Missouri river registered 24 feet, fall of nearly 12 inches in as many hours, and the weather bureau predicts that from now on the water at this point will fall gradually but steadily. The Kansas river continues to fall at the rate of one-half inch an hour and the tops of submerged buildings are beginning to show above the water line. The sun shone today and this fact was for the good.

Lost Train is Safe. Chicago, Burlington & Quincy passenger train No. 3, from Chicago to Kansas City, due here at 4 o'clock Saturday, is known to be safe some north or east of here. The train arrived at Liberty, Mo., twenty-five miles northeast of Kansas City, late Sunday afternoon. The tracks into Kansas City being unsafe and train service in all directions being badly demoralized, the train was split into two parts and sent east and north to accommodate the new conditions.

Some of the passengers continued on to Kansas City by other means of transportation, while most of them remained on one of the two sections of the train and dropped off at different towns along the line east and north of Liberty, making connections with other roads. While the exact location of the train is not known, there is every reason to believe that all the passengers are safe.

Sixty-seven passengers from a St. Joseph & Grand Island train which arrived at the Milwaukee bridge five miles east of Kansas City Sunday night, were rescued by a steamer from the Randolph end of the bridge last night. Some of these were at first believed to be passengers from the stalled train, but this proved not to be the case.

Among the stranded passengers were a number of prominent residents of Kansas City. One of them, Judge W. P. Hall, said: "When we reached the Milwaukee bridge Sunday night the engineer and conductor feared to cross on account of the reported damage to the bridge and the train stalled there all night. Monday morning the train returned to St. Joseph, leaving about twenty-five of us at Randolph. We hoped to cross the river in boats. Sunday night we returned to the train and Monday night at some farm houses nearby. We had plenty to eat and suffered nothing but inconvenience. We could see the city in the distance, but could not get a word of news about the flood."

Missouri Pacific Bridge Stands. The report last night that the Missouri Pacific bridge had gone out proved this morning to be incorrect. The bridge which spans the Kaw is weighted down by seventeen engines, and as well as can be judged today by inspection made with the aid of a field glass from the bluff half a mile away the bridge is still safe. The water about the structure is lower and the current less strong than yesterday.

Situation in Kansas. Kansas flood news tonight is generally favorable. At Salina there is no loss of life and the damage to property is smaller than at first estimated. Telephone, telegraph and railroad service have partially been restored. At Minneapolis there was little damage except to crops and railroads. Abilene reports eight deaths in Geary county and one in Dickinson, and large damage to crops. ST. JOSEPH, Mo., June 3.—The rescuing party sent from here to Topeka, composed of seventy-five men with steam launches and row boats, have returned and their places will be taken by other volunteers.

The St. Joseph men rescued 200 school children from the Grant school, imprisoned there since last Friday. The children were in a half starved condition. The rescuers shot and killed a negro caught in the act of looting deserted houses. They brought back with them the names of thirty identified dead. The river fell one-tenth of a foot last night and remained standing today. A relief fund of $2,000 has been raised here for the flood sufferers at Topeka and Kansas City and several carloads of clothing and provisions have already been sent.

RAPIDLY FALLING AT TOPEKA Another Day is Expected to See Beginning of Rehabilitating of the City. TOPEKA, Kan., June 3.—The Kansas river is rapidly falling. At 6 p. m. tonight the flood had fallen four feet. In a few days the work of rehabilitating North Topeka may be begun. The situation tonight may be summarized thus: Total number of known dead, twenty-two; unidentified dead, five; reported dead, sixty-six. The depth of the river is yet twenty-three feet, which is seven feet above the highest ever-known in previous years. Governor Bailey has issued a proclamation calling for help, and asking that contributions be sent to William Sims, treasurer. The Topeka Commercial club will accept all offered contributions. The general relief fund has passed $14,000. The Elks passed $4,000. The fund in the hands of the governor now amounts to $3,500. It is expected that the city water supply will be resumed some time tonight. All who are held in buildings in North Topeka are safe and comfortable and no one in the flooded district is in danger. All the homeless are being well cared for. More than 100 deputies are guarding property in North Topeka.

The only railroads operating out of Topeka are the Missouri Pacific and the Santa Fe, west. The governor may call an extra session of the legislature to provide state relief for all sufferers from floods in Kansas, though Governor Bailey hopes his appeal for help will bring enough money to meet the emergency. If all, he says, he probably will ask members of the legislature to come here for a day without expense to the state and make the necessary appropriations.

ST. LOUIS GETTING A TASTE Crest of the Flood in Both the Big Rivers Nearing the Mound City. ST. LOUIS, June 3.—The Mississippi continues to rise, a stage of 2.2 feet being shown at 7 a. m. This is a rise of 1.3 feet during the last twenty-four hours. It is expected that thirty-two feet will be reached some time today. In the meantime people all along the river front, both here and in East St. Louis, are preparing for the big flood. The rivermen and government officials predict that the water will be over the levee railroad tracks by noon today and officials of the different roads affected are busy making arrangements to place their rolling stock where it will be safe. Weather Observer Bowie says of the situation: "The river at Kansas City is reported ten miles wide. Whatever the cause of delay in the arrival of the waters from that flood stage, the outlook here becomes more encouraging. The Mississippi below here is comparatively low, which means that the water at present in the St. Louis district will move out rapidly, thereby possibly permitting the Kansas City stage of water to reach here Friday or Saturday at a time when most of the flood from the Des Moines river and upper Mississippi will have passed here. At the northern end of St. Louis county the residents are moving their stock across the bluffs and are preparing to follow it with their household furniture if the river continues to rise. Hundreds of acres in St. Louis and St. Charles counties, near the Missouri's mouth, and thousands of additional acres are so situated that a few feet additional in rise would cover them. Vast crowds of spectators throng Eads bridge and line the levee. The water is slowly creeping higher, but unless there is a rise of four feet it will not enter the buildings fronting on the levee. St. Louis, being situated much lower, is in far more danger of heavy damage by a rise. Already large lakes have been formed in the low section. North of St. Louis, from Eads bridge, the water can be seen extending back over the lowlands between that place and Granite City and forming a veritable lake. The same condition prevails south of East St. Louis.

River Coming Up. Slowly the Mississippi crept up the levee today, inch by inch, the gauge marking a rise of six inches, and tonight at 1:30 o'clock stood at 31.7 feet. The surface of the swiftly flowing water was thickly strewn with drift, which seemed to increase as the day drew on, indicating that the crest of the flood is approaching. A number of small houses, submerged all but the roofs, passed St. Louis, and now and then a dead animal, but no human bodies were seen. Harbor department officials believe that tomorrow the river will rise more rapidly and they look for a thirty-five-foot stage by Saturday. If their forecast comes true the lower floors of buildings along the levee front will be flooded, but with all the preparation that has been made, such a rise cannot cause any great amount of damage to St. Louis. In North St. Louis employees of the lumber yards located along the river spent all day removing the piles of lumber from the proximity of danger. In South St. Louis several houses along the river's edge have been flooded, but the occupants have removed their property and vacated. Among those who will feel the losses most heavily are the truck farmers and gardeners all along the river. On the Illinois side there is a more serious prospect. At Venice, about twenty-seven feet of water being indicated at that place. At St. Louis a stage of 32.5 is indicated on Thursday and thirty-five feet on Saturday. The upper Mississippi will continue to rise slowly and a twenty-one-foot stage is indicated at Hannibal, Mo., during Thursday. Preparations should be made at that place for a twenty-two-foot stage in three days. From St. Louis to Cairo there will be a steady rise for three or four days. At Cairo a thirty-five-foot stage is indicated by Saturday, while at Memphis there will be between twenty-eight and thirty feet by the end of next week. The Arkansas is still above the danger line and is falling.

ROBBERS MURDER CONDUCTOR Tragedy Occurs on a Suburban Car in East St. Louis. ST. LOUIS, June 3.—Three masked men boarded the suburban car running east from East St. Louis early today, robbed J. B. Jones, the motorman, and killed the conductor, John N. Keith, who went to the motorman's rescue. There were only a few passengers in the car, but before they could interfere the robbers jumped from the car and escaped. Will Not Use Telephones. GOSHEN, Ind., June 3.—The old order of German Baptists, whose national convention closed at Goshen today, voted not to permit their members to use telephones in their homes. Five thousand people attended the conference.

GOOD WORD FOR PRESIDENT Senator Hanna Creates Intense Enthusiasm at Columbus. CONVENTION COMPLETELY HARMONIOUS Delegates Respond with Thunders of Applause to Hanna's "Keep on Letting Well Enough Alone" Keynote. COLUMBUS, O., June 3.—The feature of the opening session of the republican state convention here today was the speech of United States Senator Marcus A. Hanna, temporary chairman. In fact there was little else to the session, as the convention did nothing beyond effecting its organization. United States Senator Foraker was made permanent chairman and will preside at tomorrow's sessions. In the district conventions held this afternoon the so-called Hanna men had everything their own way in seventeen out of the twenty-one congressional districts. The closest contests were for members of the state central committee. From the result of these contests it is apparent that the Hanna men control the convention. The nominations, however, will not be made without a show of strife, for though Senator Hanna's friends centered their efforts for certain candidates, up to a late hour tonight, they were unable to get Senator Hanna "to give called the worst" even for Boothman for lieutenant governor, the place of contest and the one on which the lines were more distinctly drawn. It is generally known that Myron T. Herrick of Cleveland will be nominated for governor without opposition. He joins Mr. Hanna in the desire not to dictate the nominations for all the state offices. In former campaigns Senator Hanna has given terms for campaign songs and mottoes such as "We know our business," "Let well enough alone," "Stand pat," etc. Tonight his friends are quoting the words "Keep on letting well enough alone" which provoked tremendous applause in the convention today. J. B. Clingman, chairman of the state central committee, called the convention to order at 4 p. m. Ex-Governors Foster and Bushnell, members of congress and should a crack republican were in waiting on the stage where Governor Nash sat with the Franklin delegates. Ovarations were tendered leaders as they entered the hall, notably Senators Hanna and Foraker and Myron T. Herrick and when Senator Hanna was introduced as temporary chairman the demonstration was long and loud. Senator Hanna's Speech. After referring to the recent celebration of the 100th anniversary of Ohio's admission to statehood Senator Hanna spoke of the wonderful development of the state in recent years. While much of this was due to natural resources, he said, the state owed much of their prosperity to the fundamental principles of the republican party. The history of that party and the legislation enacted by it be reviewed at length. The administration of state affairs by the present republican administration, he said, had been all that could have been desired and in the approaching campaign the republicans need only to point back to their record. Continuing Senator Hanna said: "What can be said of Ohio can be said of our nation. Republicans today can congratulate themselves that in the direction of national affairs they have realized all they hoped for and all they expected in the administration of Theodore Roosevelt. (Great applause.) We look back but a few short months, when that heroic man, standing under the gloom of that awful tragedy, Buffalo, feeling and apprehending the responsibilities which had come upon him, and in the presence of the American people, made that sacred promise to them, that to the best of his ability, with his heart full of desire, he would do his aim to carry out the policies of President McKinley. (Long continued applause.) And now we have succeeded. We all know and we all feel—as this convention will express an appreciation of that administration. We all realize that to that young heroic president is due as coming from his heart, his mind, his strength, his fish and energetic devotion to the interests of the people and the principles of our party. (Long continued applause.) Praise for Roosevelt. Standing in the presence of the American people and hearing those words, the late Buffalo, feeling and apprehending the responsibilities which had come upon him, and in the presence of the American people, made that sacred promise to them, that to the best of his ability, with his heart full of desire, he would do his aim to carry out the policies of President McKinley. (Long continued applause.) And now we have succeeded. We all know and we all feel—as this convention will express an appreciation of that administration. We all realize that to that young heroic president is due as coming from his heart, his mind, his strength, his fish and energetic devotion to the interests of the people and the principles of our party. (Long continued applause.) Praise for Roosevelt. Standing in the presence of the American people and hearing those words, the late Buffalo, feeling and apprehending the responsibilities which had come upon him, and in the presence of the American people, made that sacred promise to them, that to the best of his ability, with his heart full of desire, he would do his aim to carry out the policies of President McKinley. (Long continued applause.) And now we have succeeded. We all know and we all feel—as this convention will express an appreciation of that administration. We all realize that to that young heroic president is due as coming from his heart, his mind, his strength, his fish and energetic devotion to the interests of the people and the principles of our party. (Long continued applause.) Praise for Roosevelt. Standing in the presence of the American people and hearing those words, the late Buffalo, feeling and apprehending the responsibilities which had come upon him, and in the presence of the American people, made that sacred promise to them, that to the best of his ability, with his heart full of desire, he would do his aim to carry out the policies of President McKinley. (Long continued applause.) And now we have succeeded. We all know and we all feel—as this convention will express an appreciation of that administration. We all realize that to that young heroic president is due as coming from his heart, his mind, his strength, his fish and energetic devotion to the interests of the people and the principles of our party. (Long continued applause.) Praise for Roosevelt. Standing in the presence of the American people and hearing those words, the late Buffalo, feeling and apprehending the responsibilities which had come upon him, and in the presence of the American people, made that sacred promise to them, that to the best of his ability, with his heart full of desire, he would do his aim to carry out the policies of President McKinley. (Long continued applause.) And now we have succeeded. We all know and we all feel—as this convention will express an appreciation of that administration. We all realize that to that young heroic president is due as coming from his heart, his mind, his strength, his fish and energetic devotion to the interests of the people and the principles of our party. (Long continued applause.) Praise for Roosevelt. Standing in the presence of the American people and hearing those words, the late Buffalo, feeling and apprehending the responsibilities which had come upon him, and in the presence of the American people, made that sacred promise to them, that to the best of his ability, with his heart full of desire, he would do his aim to carry out the policies of President McKinley. (Long continued applause.) And now we have succeeded. We all know and we all feel—as this convention will express an appreciation of that administration. We all realize that to that young heroic president is due as coming from his heart, his mind, his strength, his fish and energetic devotion to the interests of the people and the principles of our party. (Long continued applause.) Praise for Roosevelt. Standing in the presence of the American people and hearing those words, the late Buffalo, feeling and apprehending the responsibilities which had come upon him, and in the presence of the American people, made that sacred promise to them, that to the best of his ability, with his heart full of desire, he would do his aim to carry out the policies of President McKinley. (Long continued applause.) And now we have succeeded. We all know and we all feel—as this convention will express an appreciation of that administration. We all realize that to that young heroic president is due as coming from his heart, his mind, his strength, his fish and energetic devotion to the interests of the people and the principles of our party. (Long continued applause.) Praise for Roosevelt. Standing in the presence of the American people and hearing those words, the late Buffalo, feeling and apprehending the responsibilities which had come upon him, and in the presence of the American people, made that sacred promise to them, that to the best of his ability, with his heart full of desire, he would do his aim to carry out the policies of President McKinley. (Long continued applause.) And now we have succeeded. We all know and we all feel—as this convention will express an appreciation of that administration. We all realize that to that young heroic president is due as coming from his heart, his mind, his strength, his fish and energetic devotion to the interests of the people and the principles of our party. (Long continued applause.) Praise for Roosevelt. Standing in the presence of the American people and hearing those words, the late Buffalo, feeling and apprehending the responsibilities which had come upon him, and in the presence of the American people, made that sacred promise to them, that to the best of his ability, with his heart full of desire, he would do his aim to carry out the policies of President McKinley. (Long continued applause.) And now we have succeeded. We all know and we all feel—as this convention will express an appreciation of that administration. We all realize that to that young heroic president is due as coming from his heart, his mind, his strength, his fish and energetic devotion to the interests of the people and the principles of our party. (Long continued applause.) Praise for Roosevelt. Standing in the presence of the American people and hearing those words, the late Buffalo, feeling and apprehending the responsibilities which had come upon him, and in the presence of the American people, made that sacred promise to them, that to the best of his ability, with his heart full of desire, he would do his aim to carry out the policies of President McKinley. (Long continued applause.) And now we have succeeded. We all know and we all feel—as this convention will express an appreciation of that administration. We all realize that to that young heroic president is due as coming from his heart, his mind, his strength, his fish and energetic devotion to the interests of the people and the principles of our party. (Long continued applause.) Praise for Roosevelt. Standing in the presence of the American people and hearing those words, the late Buffalo, feeling and apprehending the responsibilities which had come upon him, and in the presence of the American people, made that sacred promise to them, that to the best of his ability, with his heart full of desire, he would do his aim to carry out the policies of President McKinley. (Long continued applause.) And now we have succeeded. We all know and we all feel—as this convention will express an appreciation of that administration. We all realize that to that young heroic president is due as coming from his heart, his mind, his strength, his fish and energetic devotion to the interests of the people and the principles of our party. (Long continued applause.) Praise for Roosevelt. Standing in the presence of the American people and hearing those words, the late Buffalo, feeling and apprehending the responsibilities which had come upon him, and in the presence of the American people, made that sacred promise to them, that to the best of his ability, with his heart full of desire, he would do his aim to carry out the policies of President McKinley. (Long continued applause.) And now we have succeeded. We all know and we all feel—as this convention will express an appreciation of that administration. We all realize that to that young heroic president is due as coming from his heart, his mind, his strength, his fish and energetic devotion to the interests of the people and the principles of our party. (Long continued applause.) Praise for Roosevelt. Standing in the presence of the American people and hearing those words, the late Buffalo, feeling and apprehending the responsibilities which had come upon him, and in the presence of the American people, made that sacred promise to them, that to the best of his ability, with his heart full of desire, he would do his aim to carry out the policies of President McKinley. (Long continued applause.) And now we have succeeded. We all know and we all feel—as this convention will express an appreciation of that administration. We all realize that to that young heroic president is due as coming from his heart, his mind, his strength, his fish and energetic devotion to the interests of the people and the principles of our party. (Long continued applause.) Praise for Roosevelt. Standing in the presence of the American people and hearing those words, the late Buffalo, feeling and apprehending the responsibilities which had come upon him, and in the presence of the American people, made that sacred promise to them, that to the best of his ability, with his heart full of desire, he would do his aim to carry out the policies of President McKinley. (Long continued applause.) And now we have succeeded. We all know and we all feel—as this convention will express an appreciation of that administration. We all realize that to that young heroic president is due as coming from his heart, his mind, his strength, his fish and energetic devotion to the interests of the people and the principles of our party. (Long continued applause.) Praise for Roosevelt. Standing in the presence of the American people and hearing those words, the late Buffalo, feeling and apprehending the responsibilities which had come upon him, and in the presence of the American people, made that sacred promise to them, that to the best of his ability, with his heart full of desire, he would do his aim to carry out the policies of President McKinley. (Long continued applause.) And now we have succeeded. We all know and we all feel—as this convention will express an appreciation of that administration. We all realize that to that young heroic president is due as coming from his heart, his mind, his strength, his fish and energetic devotion to the interests of the people and the principles of our party. (Long continued applause.) Praise for Roosevelt. Standing in the presence of the American people and hearing those words, the late Buffalo, feeling and apprehending the responsibilities which had come upon him, and in the presence of the American people, made that sacred promise to them, that to the best of his ability, with his heart full of desire, he would do his aim to carry out the policies of President McKinley. (Long continued applause.) And now we have succeeded. We all know and we all feel—as this convention will express an appreciation of that administration. We all realize that to that young heroic president is due as coming from his heart, his mind, his strength, his fish and energetic devotion to the interests of the people and the principles of our party. (Long continued applause.) Praise for Roosevelt. Standing in the presence of the American people and hearing those words, the late Buffalo, feeling and apprehending the responsibilities which had come upon him, and in the presence of the American people, made that sacred promise to them, that to the best of his ability, with his heart full of desire, he would do his aim to carry out the policies of President McKinley. (Long continued applause.) And now we have succeeded. We all know and we all feel—as this convention will express an appreciation of that administration. We all realize that to that young heroic president is due as coming from his heart, his mind, his strength, his fish and energetic devotion to the interests of the people and the principles of our party. (Long continued applause.) Praise for Roosevelt. Standing in the presence of the American people and hearing those words, the late Buffalo, feeling and apprehending the responsibilities which had come upon him, and in the presence of the American people, made that sacred promise to them, that to the best of his ability, with his heart full of desire, he would do his aim to carry out the policies of President McKinley. (Long continued applause.) And now we have succeeded. We all know and we all feel—as this convention will express an appreciation of that administration. We all realize that to that young heroic president is due as coming from his heart, his mind, his strength, his fish and energetic devotion to the interests of the people and the principles of our party. (Long continued applause.) Praise for Roosevelt. Standing in the presence of the American people and hearing those words, the late Buffalo, feeling and apprehending the responsibilities which had come upon him, and in the presence of the American people, made that sacred promise to them, that to the best of his ability, with his heart full of desire, he would do his aim to carry out the policies of President McKinley. (Long continued applause.) And now we have succeeded. We all know and we all feel—as this convention will express an appreciation of that administration. We all realize that to that young heroic president is due as coming from his heart, his mind, his strength, his fish and energetic devotion to the interests of the people and the principles of our party. (Long continued applause.) Praise for Roosevelt. Standing in the presence of the American people and hearing those words, the late Buffalo, feeling and apprehending the responsibilities which had come upon him, and in the presence of the American people, made that sacred promise to them, that to the best of his ability, with his heart full of desire, he would do his aim to carry out the policies of President McKinley. (Long continued applause.) And now we have succeeded. We all know and we all feel—as this convention will express an appreciation of that administration. We all realize that to that young heroic president is due as coming from his heart, his mind, his strength, his fish and energetic devotion to the interests of the people and the principles of our party. (Long continued applause.) Praise for Roosevelt. Standing in the presence of the American people and hearing those words, the late Buffalo, feeling and apprehending the responsibilities which had come upon him, and in the presence of the American people, made that sacred promise to them, that to the best of his ability, with his heart full of desire, he would do his aim to carry out the policies of President McKinley. (Long continued applause.) And now we have succeeded. We all know and we all feel—as this convention will express an appreciation of that administration. We all realize that to that young heroic president is due as coming from his heart, his mind, his strength, his fish and energetic devotion to the interests of the people and the principles of our party. (Long continued applause.) Praise for Roosevelt. Standing in the presence of the American people and hearing those words, the late Buffalo, feeling and apprehending the responsibilities which had come upon him, and in the presence of the American people, made that sacred promise to them, that to the best of his ability, with his heart full of desire, he would do his aim to carry out the policies of President McKinley. (Long continued applause.) And now we have succeeded. We all know and we all feel—as this convention will express an appreciation of that administration. We all realize that to that young heroic president is due as coming from his heart, his mind, his strength, his fish and energetic devotion to the interests of the people and the principles of our party. (Long continued applause.) Praise for Roosevelt. Standing in the presence of the American people and hearing those words, the late Buffalo, feeling and apprehending the responsibilities which had come upon him, and in the presence of the American people, made that sacred promise to them, that to the best of his ability, with his heart full of desire, he would do his aim to carry out the policies of President McKinley. (Long continued applause.) And now we have succeeded. We all know and we all feel—as this convention will express an appreciation of that administration. We all realize that to that young heroic president is due as coming from his heart, his mind, his strength, his fish and energetic devotion to the interests of the people and the principles of our party. (Long continued applause.) Praise for Roosevelt. Standing in the presence of the American people and hearing those words, the late Buffalo, feeling and apprehending the responsibilities which had come upon him, and in the presence of the American people, made that sacred promise to them, that to the best of his ability, with his heart full of desire, he would do his aim to carry out the policies of President McKinley. (Long continued applause.) And now we have succeeded. We all know and we all feel—as this convention will express an appreciation of that administration. We all realize that to that young heroic president is due as coming from his heart, his mind, his strength, his fish and energetic devotion to the interests of the people and the principles of our party. (Long continued applause.) Praise for Roosevelt. Standing in the presence of the American people and hearing those words, the late Buffalo, feeling and apprehending the responsibilities which had come upon him, and in the presence of the American people, made that sacred promise to them, that to the best of his ability, with his heart full of desire, he would do his aim to carry out the policies of President McKinley. (Long continued applause.) And now we have succeeded. We all know and we all feel—as this convention will express an appreciation of that administration. We all realize that to that young heroic president is due as coming from his heart, his mind, his strength, his fish and energetic devotion to the interests of the people and the principles of our party. (Long continued applause.) Praise for Roosevelt. Standing in the presence of the American people and hearing those words, the late Buffalo, feeling and apprehending the responsibilities which had come upon him, and in the presence of the American people, made that sacred promise to them, that to the best of his ability, with his heart full of desire, he would do his aim to carry out the policies of President McKinley. (Long continued applause.) And now we have succeeded. We all know and we all feel—as this convention will express an appreciation of that administration. We all realize that to that young heroic president is due as coming from his heart, his mind, his strength, his fish and energetic devotion to the interests of the people and the principles of our party. (Long continued applause.) Praise for Roosevelt. Standing in the presence of the American people and hearing those words, the late Buffalo, feeling and apprehending the responsibilities which had come upon him, and in the presence of the American people, made that sacred promise to them, that to the best of his ability, with his heart full of desire, he would do his aim to carry out the policies of President McKinley. (Long continued applause.) And now we have succeeded. We all know and we all feel—as this convention will express an appreciation of that administration. We all realize that to that young heroic president is due as coming from his heart, his mind, his strength, his fish and energetic devotion to the interests of the people and the principles of our party. (Long continued applause.) Praise for Roosevelt. Standing in the presence of the American people and hearing those words, the late Buffalo, feeling and apprehending the responsibilities which had come upon him, and in the presence of the American people, made that sacred promise to them, that to the best of his ability, with his heart full of desire, he would do his aim to carry out the policies of President McKinley. (Long continued applause.) And now we have succeeded. We all know and we all feel—as this convention will express an appreciation of that administration. We all realize that to that young heroic president is due as coming from his heart, his mind, his strength, his fish and energetic devotion to the interests of the people and the principles of our party. (Long continued applause.) Praise for Roosevelt. Standing in the presence of the American people and hearing those words, the late Buffalo, feeling and apprehending the responsibilities which had come upon him, and in the presence of the American people, made that sacred promise to them, that to the best of his ability, with his heart full of desire, he would do his aim to carry out the policies of President McKinley. (Long continued applause.) And now we have succeeded. We all know and we all feel—as this convention will express an appreciation of that administration. We all realize that to that young heroic president is due as coming from his heart, his mind, his strength, his fish and energetic devotion to the interests of the people and the principles of our party. (Long continued applause.) Praise for Roosevelt. Standing in the presence of the American people and hearing those words, the late Buffalo, feeling and apprehending the responsibilities which had come upon him, and in the presence of the American people, made that sacred promise to them, that to the best of his ability, with his heart full of desire, he would do his aim to carry out the policies of President McKinley. (Long continued applause.) And now we have succeeded. We all know and we all feel—as this convention will express an appreciation of that administration. We all realize that to that young heroic president is due as coming from his heart, his mind, his strength, his fish and energetic devotion to the interests of the people and the principles of our party. (Long continued applause.) Praise for Roosevelt. Standing in the presence of the American people and hearing those words, the late Buffalo, feeling and apprehending the responsibilities which had come upon him, and in the presence of the American people, made that sacred promise to them, that to the best of his ability, with his heart full of desire, he would do his aim to carry out the policies of President McKinley. (Long continued applause.) And now we have succeeded. We all know and we all feel—as this convention will express an appreciation of that administration. We all realize that to that young heroic president is due as coming from his heart, his mind, his strength, his fish and energetic devotion to the interests of the people and the principles of our party. (Long continued applause.) Praise for Roosevelt. Standing in the presence of the American people and hearing those words, the late Buffalo, feeling and apprehending the responsibilities which had come upon him, and in the presence of the American people, made that sacred promise to them, that to the best of his ability, with his heart full of desire, he would do his aim to carry out the policies of President McKinley. (Long continued applause.) And now we have succeeded. We all know and we all feel—as this convention will express an appreciation of that administration. We all realize that to that young heroic president is due as coming from his heart, his mind, his strength, his fish and energetic devotion to the interests of the people and the principles of our party. (Long continued applause.) Praise for Roosevelt. Standing in the presence of the American people and hearing those words, the late Buffalo, feeling and apprehending the responsibilities which had come upon him, and in the presence of the American people, made that sacred promise to them, that to the best of his ability, with his heart full of desire, he would do his aim to carry out the policies of President McKinley. (Long continued applause.) And now we have succeeded. We all know and we all feel—as this convention will express an appreciation of that administration. We all realize that to that young heroic president is due as coming from his heart, his mind, his strength, his fish and energetic devotion to the interests of the people and the principles of our party. (Long continued applause.) Praise for Roosevelt. Standing in the presence of the American people and hearing those words, the late Buffalo, feeling and apprehending the responsibilities which had come upon him, and in the presence of the American people, made that sacred promise to them, that to the best of his ability, with his heart full of desire, he would do his aim to carry out the policies of President McKinley. (Long continued applause.) And now we have succeeded. We all know and we all feel—as this convention will express an appreciation of that administration. We all realize that to that young heroic president is due as coming from his heart, his mind, his strength, his fish and energetic devotion to the interests of the people and the principles of our party. (Long continued applause.) Praise for Roosevelt. Standing in the presence of the American people and hearing those words, the late Buffalo, feeling and apprehending the responsibilities which had come upon him, and in the presence of the American people, made that sacred promise to them, that to the best of his ability, with his heart full of desire, he would do his aim to carry out the policies of President McKinley. (Long continued applause.) And now we have succeeded. We all know and we all feel—as this convention will express an appreciation of that administration. We all realize that to that young heroic president is due as coming from his heart, his mind, his strength, his fish and energetic devotion to the interests of the people and the principles of our party. (Long continued applause.) Praise for Roosevelt. Standing in the presence of the American people and hearing those words, the late Buffalo, feeling and apprehending the responsibilities which had come upon him, and in the presence of the American people, made that sacred promise to them, that to the best of his ability, with his heart full of desire, he would do his aim to carry out the policies of President McKinley. (Long continued applause.) And now we have succeeded. We all know and we all feel—as this convention will express an appreciation of that administration. We all realize that to that young heroic president is due as coming from his heart, his mind, his strength, his fish and energetic devotion to the interests of the people and the principles of our party. (Long continued applause.) Praise for Roosevelt. Standing in the presence of the American people and hearing those words, the late Buffalo, feeling and apprehending the responsibilities which had come upon him, and in the presence of the American people, made that sacred promise to them, that to the best of his ability, with his heart full of desire, he would do his aim to carry out the policies of President McKinley. (Long continued applause.) And now we have succeeded. We all know and we all feel—as this convention will express an appreciation of that administration. We all realize that to that young heroic president is due as coming from his heart, his mind, his strength, his fish and energetic devotion to the interests of the people and the principles of our party. (Long continued applause.) Praise for Roosevelt. Standing in the presence of the American people and hearing those words, the late Buffalo, feeling and apprehending the responsibilities which had come upon him, and in the presence of the American people, made that sacred promise to them, that to the best of his ability, with his heart full of desire, he would do his aim to carry out the policies of President McKinley. (Long continued applause.) And now we have succeeded. We all know and we all feel—as this convention will express an appreciation of that administration. We all realize that to that young heroic president is due as coming from his heart, his mind, his strength, his fish and energetic devotion to the interests of the people and the principles of our party. (Long continued applause.) Praise for Roosevelt. Standing in the presence of the American people and hearing those words, the late Buffalo, feeling and apprehending the responsibilities which had come upon him, and in the presence of the American people, made that sacred promise to them, that to the best of his ability, with his heart full of desire, he would do his aim to carry out the policies of President McKinley. (Long continued applause.) And now we have succeeded. We all know and we all feel—as this convention will express an appreciation of that administration. We all realize that to that young heroic president is due as coming from his heart, his mind, his strength, his fish and energetic devotion to the interests of the people and the principles of our party. (Long continued applause.) Praise for Roosevelt. Standing in the presence of the American people and hearing those words, the late Buffalo, feeling and apprehending the responsibilities which had come upon him, and in the presence of the American people, made that sacred promise to them, that to the best of his ability, with his heart full of desire, he would do his aim to carry out the policies of President McKinley. (Long continued applause.) And now we have succeeded. We all know and we all feel—as this convention will express an appreciation of that administration. We all realize that to that young heroic president is due as coming from his heart, his mind, his strength, his fish and energetic devotion to the interests of the people and the principles of our party. (Long continued applause.) Praise for Roosevelt. Standing in the presence of the American people and hearing those words, the late Buffalo, feeling and apprehending the responsibilities which had come upon him, and in the presence of the American people, made that sacred promise to them, that to the best of his ability, with his heart full of desire, he would do his aim to carry out the policies of President McKinley. (Long continued applause.) And now we have succeeded. We all know and we all feel—as this convention will express an appreciation of that administration. We all realize that to that young heroic president is due as coming from his heart, his mind, his strength, his fish and energetic devotion to the interests of the people and the principles of our party. (Long continued applause.) Praise for Roosevelt. Standing in the presence of the American people and hearing those words, the late Buffalo, feeling and apprehending the responsibilities which had come upon him, and in the presence of the American people, made that sacred promise to them, that to the best of his ability, with his heart full of desire, he would do his aim to carry out the policies of President McKinley. (Long continued applause.) And now we have succeeded. We all know and we all feel—as this convention will express an appreciation of that administration. We all realize that to that young heroic president is due as coming from his heart, his mind, his strength, his fish and energetic devotion to the interests of the people and the principles of our party. (Long continued applause.) Praise for Roosevelt. Standing in the presence of the American people and hearing those words, the late Buffalo, feeling and apprehending the responsibilities which had come upon him, and in the presence of the American people, made that sacred promise to them, that to the best of his ability, with his heart full of desire, he would do his aim to carry out the policies of President McKinley. (Long continued applause.) And now we have succeeded. We all know and we all feel—as this convention will express an appreciation of that administration. We all realize that to that young heroic president is due as coming from his heart, his mind, his strength, his fish and energetic devotion to the interests of the people and the principles of our party. (Long continued applause.) Praise for Roosevelt. Standing in the presence of the American people and hearing those words, the late Buffalo, feeling and apprehending the responsibilities which had come upon him, and in the presence of the American people, made that sacred promise to them, that to the best of his ability, with his heart full of desire, he would do his aim to carry out the policies of President McKinley. (Long continued applause.) And now we have succeeded. We all know and we all feel—as this convention will express an appreciation of that administration. We all realize that to that young heroic president is due as coming from his heart, his mind, his strength, his fish and energetic devotion to the interests of the people and the principles of our party. (Long continued applause.) Praise for Roosevelt. Standing in the presence of the American people and hearing those words, the late Buffalo, feeling and apprehending the responsibilities which had come upon him, and in the presence of the American people, made that sacred promise to them, that to the best of his ability, with his heart full of desire, he would do his aim to carry out the policies of President McKinley. (Long continued applause.) And now we have succeeded. We all know and we all feel—as this convention will express an appreciation of that administration. We all realize that to that young heroic president is due as coming from his heart, his mind, his strength, his fish and energetic devotion to the interests of the people and the principles of our party. (Long continued applause.) Praise for Roosevelt. Standing in the presence of the American people and hearing those words, the late Buffalo, feeling and apprehending the responsibilities which had come upon him, and in the presence of the American people, made that sacred promise to them, that to the best of his ability, with his heart full of desire, he would do his aim to carry out the policies of President McKinley. (Long continued applause.) And now we have succeeded. We all know and we all feel—as this convention will express an appreciation of that administration. We all realize that to that young heroic president is due as coming from his heart, his mind, his strength, his fish and energetic devotion to the interests of the people and the principles of our party. (Long continued applause.) Praise for Roosevelt. Standing in the presence of the American people and hearing those words, the late Buffalo, feeling and apprehending the responsibilities which had come upon him, and in the presence of the American people, made that sacred promise to them, that to the best of his ability, with his heart full of desire, he would do his aim to carry out the policies of President McKinley. (Long continued applause.) And now we have succeeded. We all know and we all feel—as this convention will express an appreciation of that administration. We all realize that to that young heroic president is due as coming from his heart, his mind, his strength, his fish and energetic devotion to the interests of the people and the principles of our party. (Long continued applause.) Praise for Roosevelt. Standing in the presence of the American people and hearing those words, the late Buffalo, feeling and apprehending the responsibilities which had come upon him, and in the presence of the American people, made that sacred promise to them, that to the best of his ability, with his heart full of desire, he would do his aim to carry out the policies of President McKinley. (Long continued applause.) And now we have succeeded. We all know and we all feel—as this convention will express an appreciation of that administration. We all realize that to that young heroic president is due as coming from his heart, his mind, his strength, his fish and energetic devotion to the interests of the people and the principles of our party. (Long continued applause.) Praise for Roosevelt. Standing in the presence of the American people and hearing those words, the late Buffalo, feeling and apprehending the responsibilities which had come upon him, and in the presence of the American people, made that sacred promise to them, that to the best of his ability, with his heart full of desire, he would do his aim to carry out the policies of President McKinley. (Long continued applause.) And now we have succeeded. We all know and we all feel—as this convention will express an appreciation of that administration. We all realize that to that young heroic president is due as coming from his heart, his mind, his strength, his fish and energetic devotion to the interests of the people and the principles of our party. (Long continued applause.) Praise for Roosevelt. Standing in the presence of the American people and hearing those words, the late Buffalo, feeling and apprehending the responsibilities which had come upon him, and in the presence of the American people, made that sacred promise to them, that to the best of his ability, with his heart full of desire, he would do his aim to carry out the policies of President McKinley. (Long continued applause.) And now we have succeeded. We all know and we all feel—as this convention will express an appreciation of that administration. We all realize that to that young heroic president is due as coming from his heart, his mind, his strength, his fish and energetic devotion to the interests of the people and the principles of our party. (Long continued applause.) Praise for Roosevelt. Standing in the presence of the American people and hearing those words, the late Buffalo, feeling and apprehending the responsibilities which had come upon him, and in the presence of the American people, made that sacred promise to them, that to the best of his ability, with his heart full of desire, he would do his aim to carry out the policies of President McKinley. (Long continued applause.) And now we have succeeded. We all know and we all feel—as this convention will express an appreciation of that administration. We all realize that to that young heroic president is due as coming from his heart, his mind, his strength, his fish and energetic devotion to the interests of the people and the principles of our party. (Long continued applause.) Praise for Roosevelt. Standing in the presence of the American people and hearing those words, the late Buffalo, feeling and apprehending the responsibilities which had come upon him, and in the presence of the American people, made that sacred promise to them, that to the best of his ability, with his heart full of desire, he would do his aim to carry out the policies of President McKinley. (Long continued applause.) And now we have succeeded. We all know and we all feel—as this convention will express an appreciation of that administration. We all realize that to that young heroic president is due as coming from his heart, his mind, his strength, his fish and energetic devotion to the interests of the people and the principles of our party. (Long continued applause.) Praise for Roosevelt. Standing in the presence of the American people and hearing those words, the late Buffalo, feeling and apprehending the responsibilities which had come upon him, and in the presence of the American people, made that sacred promise to them, that to the best of his ability, with his heart full of desire, he would do his aim to carry out the policies of President McKinley. (Long continued applause.) And now we have succeeded. We all know and we all feel—as this convention will express an appreciation of that administration. We all realize that to that young heroic president is due as coming from his heart, his mind, his strength, his fish and energetic devotion to the interests of the people and the principles of our party. (Long continued applause.) Praise for Roosevelt. Standing in the presence of the American people and hearing those words, the late Buffalo, feeling and apprehending the responsibilities which had come upon him, and in the presence of the American people, made that sacred promise to them, that to the best of his ability, with his heart full of desire, he would do his aim to carry out the policies of President McKinley. (Long continued applause.) And now we have succeeded. We all know and we all feel—as this convention will express an appreciation of that administration. We all realize that to that young heroic president is due as coming from his heart, his mind, his strength, his fish and energetic devotion to the interests of the people and the principles of our party. (Long continued applause.) Praise for Roosevelt. Standing in the presence of the American people and hearing those words, the late Buffalo, feeling and apprehending the responsibilities which had come upon him, and in the presence of the American people, made that sacred promise to them, that to the best of his ability, with his heart full of desire, he would do his aim to carry out the policies of President McKinley. (Long continued applause.) And now we have succeeded. We all know and we all feel—as this convention will express an appreciation of that administration. We all realize that to that young heroic president is due as coming from his heart, his mind, his strength, his fish and energetic devotion to the interests of the people and the principles of our party. (Long continued applause.) Praise for Roosevelt. Standing in the presence of the American people and hearing those words, the late Buffalo, feeling and apprehending the responsibilities which had come upon him, and in the presence of the American people, made that sacred promise to them, that to the best of his ability, with his heart full of desire, he would do his aim to carry out the policies