PULLING FOR THE POSTOFFICE

Candidates for Postmaster Crow's Share Are Getting Busy.

PLUM HANGS HIGH YET TILL DECEMBER

Although the plum is not expected to be pulled until next December, activity is already being manifested by aspirants to be crowned for appointment to succeed Hon. Joseph Crow as postmaster for Omaha.

Postmaster Crow, however, is not at all anxious to abdicate his official title and perquisites even then, but would be willing to sacrifice himself for another four years on the same terms.

Assistant Postmaster James Woodward will press his claims to promotion, having served in his present capacity through successive administrations and virtually run the business of the office for the benefit of the public.

Another prospective postmaster is Mel Uhl, now in charge of the business management of the News and who as a member of the legislature that treated with the senatorial deadlock two years ago.
