The river fell two inches between 6 yes-termay morning and midnight, when the guage read 37 :-10 feet.

ST. LOUIS, June 11 .- The situation in East St. Louis remains about the same as last night. The flood on the south is still being held back at Missouri avenue, where the levee is watched unceasingly, as elsewhere, by thousands of workers ready with hars of sand to close any break that may occur.

A decline in the river's stage of a fraction of an inch since last night does not make any apparent difference in the height of the flood, but shows that the river has a tendency to fall,

The stage at 7 a. m. was 37.9 feet. This may relieve the situation greatly if the fall continues, but until there is a decided de cline the city will be at the mercy of the wall of water that surrounds it on three

FAIR COMMISSION HAS PLAN REVOLUTIONISTS PROCLAIM NEW MONARCH

Proposes to Swell State Appropria tion for St. Louis Show by Private Subscription.

The Nebraska commission to the St. Louis exposition will make an effort to have the state's appropriation of $35,000 supplemented by private subscriptions, in pretentious than the commission thinks possible with the funds afforded by the recent legislative action.

This was decided at an all-afternoon session of the commission at its rooms in the McCague block Thursday, at which were discussed also other ways and means by which the field of work may be covered so as to send the best possible exhibition from the state to the fair.

Little action leading to immediate work was taken A decision was reached, however, that letters be sent to the presidents of the various agricultural societies throughout Nebraska, with a view to employing collectors of sheaf grains at a small ompensation. It is the intention to offer premiums for these samples so that the commission may secure the best grain poscompetent collectors of grasses so that a fitting show of the state's wealth in this

The commission received a committee from the Improved Corn Growers' association, which holds a corn show in Lincoln each January. The corn growers wish the commission to assist them by offering extra premiums as exhibitors. They urge that the samples of corn will as a result of this action be much more carefully selected and of larger number and can be sent intact to St. Louis. The matter was taken under consideration by the commission.

BELGRADE, Servia, June 11 .- (New York World Cablegram-Special Telegram.)-The king and queen of Servia, her brothers, one of whom was to have been designated as heir presumptive, and those of their party who were leaders, have been assassinated. At one blow the Obrenovitch dynasty has been crushed to the earth and a new king, descendant of the swineherd, Black George, who gained Servia's freedom, has been proclaimed king by the conspirators. They were murdered in their palace, this king and queen of evil stars, murdered in the dead of night. For a week the young king and the older queen had not dared to put foot outside the Konak palace. They were kept prisoners by their fears. The very air of the capital was heavy with foreboding. Conspiracy was in the air. The growing discontent was crystalizing. The headstrong king had quarreled bitterly with the woman who added much to his misfortunes-the woman whom he had made his queen and who had influenced him since he was a boy of 15 and she a weman of 10. All their lives they had lived in an atmosphere of intrigue and could not know how serious was the danger that threatened. Still each day during the last week they had awakened in the morning thankful that the blow had not fallen. Yesterday, however, the queen began to take fresh heart and even ordered a new gown are drinking heavily for the king. They are making the band play Queen Draga's march over and over again, and making it play it vigorously." Surely with such a loyal dis play in the barracks the threatened ones might rest in peace. When the king and quoen retired a little after midnight there was nothing to disturb the quiet of Belgrade save only the officers at the bar racks cheering the march.

FOR MORTON MONUMENT FUND and Panajovics, the faithful captain of the guards, were on duty in the palace when a cannon boomed at 2 in the morn ing. It was the sign for murder. The sleepy sentinels whom it aroused grumbled and went to sleep again. In the palace it brought the blanch of fear to those espectively chairman and secretary of the loyal to the king. It made Alexander himself spring from his bed. It made Queen Draga shrivel with fear. The fears of the week came back a hundred fold. King Alexander ran to the window, the palace being built directly on the street, and found it surrounded by men in uniform. He could see the swords of officers, the rifles braska City, the home of the late Mr. Mor- of the men. He heard the conspirators battering at the gates and the crash as they purpose of providing a suitable monument gave way. He heard an explosion as an to the late distinguished Nebraskan. Lib- encrance was forced with dynamite. He rushed to the doors to make sure they but $4,000 are said yet to be required. Con- were securely fastened and then back to the window to call for help. No answering reply came. There were only shots in The contract for erecting the monument the palace, cries of excited men and the Die in Each Other's Arms.

The king knew he was lost; he knew they had come to murder him and his queen and he forgot his bitter quarrels, went to her and placing his arms about her awaited his assassins.

In the first chamber the conspirators met Adjutant Naumovics and killed him before he could raise his weapon. Panajowics, captain of the guard, was riddled by a dozen bullets. Then the conspirators burst into the second ante-chamber, where Adjutant General Petrovics fired at them ing the Fowler case today returned a ver- and missed. Then they slew him and thus cleared the way to the royal chambers which are scarce twenty yards from the en-

They burst open the door leading to the the young millionaire would be appointed queen's apartments and poured into the room like a flood. The king was standing there, with the queen in her white night robe, clasped in his arms, facing them waiting to be murdered, knowing there was no escape.

The shots rattled like a skirmish fire and death was in those first bullets, and the royal couple fell still clasped in each other's arms. Still even then the avengers were not satisfied, but fired half a dozen shots at the queen as she was lying there dead and slashed her with their swords and blood of the victims scaked the rugs of the royal chamber. It flowed over the inlaid

The lust for destruction was strong upon the assassins. Not content with wholesale murder, not content with slaying a defenceless man and woman who were their rulers, they smashed the breakable objects of art, slashed the pictures, tore down the hangings, trampled them under foot and broke the windows.

Dead Thrown to Earth.

They would not even permit the dead to remain in the palace, but drew the linea from the bed, wrapped the bodies in it and threw them from the window into the garden, where they were placed in an arbor until a hearse carried them away at daybreak. While the bodies of the king and queen were being wrapped in these winding sheets the officers who had killed them embraced each other, congratulating each other on the success of the plot and shouted joy-
