The Choicest of Wash Fabrics

It is very hard to sell undesirable wash goods, or goods that were in vogue one or two seasons ago; therefore, the merchant that finds himself stocked with such goods is glad to sell them at a reduced price. Do you wonder at this?

Nobody wants large, sprawly designs, when neat figures or stripes are fashionable. No well dressed lady would wear colors that have been "passe" for several seasons.

Now our point is this:

We never carry wash goods from one season to the other, and buy only the choicest of this season's styles; therefore, have none but the very choicest of wash goods to offer you.

ground is being exposed in the flooded districts. The four companies of militia which have for almost a week been assisting the police were released today.

Long lines of refugees were formed again today in front of relief headquarters, waiting for food and clothing. Eastern railroad traffic is gradually being resumed from St. Louis.

The water has fallen to a depth of six inches at the relay station in East St. Louis, through which all east bound trains must pass, and several lines were able to run through from the St. Louis union station today.

The coroner's jury that has been investigating the death of Clifford Hamby, a member of the St. Louis naval reserve, who was killed in a levee riot at East St. Louis Saturday evening, today rendered a verdict holding John S. Bratton, W. A. Brown, S. J. Allen, E. Colliver and Frank Hale responsible. Bratton is a noted horseman and the others named are employes.

John S. Bratton on the stand, told of a party of forty men and women who came to the levee and attempted to cut it.

"We warned them away," he said, "and they would not go until we threatened them with the shotguns we carried. Soon after we commanded some one to halt. A shot was fired and we returned it. I did not think they were guards, as Mayor Cook had told me that he could not send us any."

Albuquerque Is in Danger.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., June 15.—This section has just been visited by the heaviest rain of the year, accompanied by what almost amount to a cloudburst in the Jemez mountains, north of here.

A sudden rise came in the Rio Grande and Albuquerque is again in imminent danger of being submerged. Los Cenitos, eight miles up the river, is completely under water and the people have fled to the hills, taking such of their household goods as they could load into wagons.

Alameda, where the levee that protects Albuquerque is located, is under water and people are leaving their homes to the mercy of the flood.

A break forty feet wide is reported in the levee north of the railroad and directly above the city and a large force of men has been hurried there. It is reported here that the bridge at Galisteo, on the main line of the Santa Fe, has been washed away.

HUMAN BRUTE MURDERS TWO

Waits in Ambush and Fires Upon Farmer in Pasture.

HE THEN SHOOTS HIS STEPMOTHER

Flees to a Deserted House, Where Mob is Attempting to Lynch and Sheriff to Make Him Prisoner.

PITTSFIELD, Ill., June 15.—As the result of a double killing, committed yesterday, Fred Mink, 21 years of age, is besieged in a deserted house on the edge of town while a mob and a sheriff's posse are seeking to effect his capture.

The members of the mob declare they will lynch him and the sheriff and his deputies are trying to make him a prisoner and take him to jail.

Mink shot and killed Newton W. Harris, a farmer living near town, and then killed his stepmother. Rage over the refusal of Harris to allow him to pay attentions to his daughter is thought to have inspired one killing, but the death of Mrs. Mink is not explained.

Mink recently returned from the state of Washington. Before leaving home for the west he paid attentions to Beaulah, the daughter of Mr. Harris, and his suit had been discouraged by the father. Since his return Mink has declared that he intended to even up scores.

Mr. Harris was in his pasture lot yesterday afternoon when Mink crept up behind him. He was armed with a rifle and from the shelter of a fence he fired on the unsuspecting farmer, who fell. Mink then ran to the prostrate man and shot him four times in the back and side as he lay on the ground.

Murders His Stepmother.

Alarmed by the firing, Mrs. Harris ran from the house a short distance away and started toward her husband. Mink drew a revolver as she approached and fired one shot, missing her. He then ran from the field and disappeared in the woods.

A search was instituted and a number of people went to his home. Forcing an entrance, they discovered the body of Mrs. Mink lying on the floor. She had been shot a number of times and was dead when found. The citizens organized a posse, fully armed, to search for Mink, and at length he was found hiding in a deserted house in the edge of the town.

As the crowd approached he showed himself at a window and told his pursuers that he would kill the first man that approached the house. He showed his rifle and revolver and fired a shot at one man who tried to run around a corner of the house to get at him from behind. The sheriff insists that he will make every effort to prevent a lynching.

that showed the depth of their feeling in the matter.

It was promised that everything that the executive could do without violating the principles of international comity, would be done, but neither President Roosevelt nor Secretary Hay were able to make any definite promise beyond this, which was accepted as satisfactory.

Prussian Minister at Treasury.

Freiheer von Rheinbade, the Prussian minister of finance, called at the Treasury department today. He expressed much interest in the laws and regulations relating to the assessment and collection of internal revenue taxes in general, but most especially as to tobacco. Commissioner Yerkes of the internal revenue bureau spent a part of the morning in explaining the details of the revenue system in this country. The minister said the question of increasing the taxes on tobacco was now before the Prussian Parliament.

FINDS NO TOBACCO TRUST

Missouri Court Declares Continental Company Empowered to Buy Competitors.

ALSO REFUSES TO OUST RAILROADS

Thirteen Lines Overcome Attorney General's Arguments and Persuade Judges to Refuse Writs Asked for Against Them.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., June 15.—The supreme court decided against Attorney Crow in his suit for a decree in ouster against the Continental Tobacco company, brought for violation of Missouri anti-trust laws, and dismissed the case.

In brief the court holds that a corporation acting in good faith and in the legitimate pursuit of its business can buy up all the assets of other similar corporations it has the money to pay for. The law prohibiting the formation of a trust or combination to control prices does not prohibit the purchase of one corporation by another.

The evidence taken before the commissioners fails to show a combination or trust. The authority to buy, manufacture and sell tobacco and the authority to erect, maintain and operate such plants, all of which is granted the company by its charter, clearly gives the power to purchase the assets of other companies in a smaller business.

The order of the court therefore is that the report of the commissioner be confirmed and the Continental and other tobacco companies against whom the proceeding was instituted be discharged.

Railroads Also Win.

The same court also decided in favor of thirteen railroads against whom Attorney General Crow had instituted suits of ouster for violation of laws relating to reconsignment charges.

Judge Burgess wrote the opinion, in which his associates all concurred. It is a victory for the railroads, in that the court sustains their plea that the action was prosecuted solely for the vindication of private rights and the redress of private grievances, and therefore ordered the writ quashed.

The court holds a wrong to an individual or individuals cannot be corrected by quo warranto proceeding, declaring that the statutes provide ample relief for such private wrongs as are complained of in this case.

Continuing, the court says that quo warranto is not a remedy to determine disputes between private persons and a corporation, but is to determine by what right a corporation exercises wrongful or illegally a certain franchise or to oust it from the right to be a corporation, for an abuse or nonuse of a franchise granted.

HAIL PETER AS KING

to resume the normal conditions of their duties.

King Peter probably will start for Belgrade Thursday evening by way of Vienna, accompanied by his Swiss attendants. His residence is watched by private detectives. The many callers are rapidly filling up the new king's visitor's book with their congratulations.

The new king was informed by telegraph this afternoon from Belgrade that a sharp fight had taken place in the streets between his partisans and those of Milan, the legitimatized son of the former King Milan, father of the murdered King Alexander.

Young Milan has recently been living in Constantinople. His partisans posted a proclamation on the walls of Belgrade which was torn down by Prince Peter's supporters after a free fight.

Takes Only Fifteen Minutes.

SEMLIN, Hungary, June 15.—The Skupshtina and Senate of Servia met in joint session precisely at noon today and within fifteen minutes had elected Prince Peter Karageorgevitch as king of Servia.

Long conferences were held between the ministers and deputies on Sunday night and all this morning. These resulted in a cut and dried program which went through without a hitch.

The parliamentary gathering was held in the white and gold ball room in the new wing of the palace, within a few yards of the spot where King Alexander and Queen Draga's bodies were thrown from the window. Not the slightest reference was made to Thursday's tragedy.

The ministers of the provisional government sat at a table at the top of the hall, the prominent figure among them being the chief of the conspirators, Colonel Mischich, Queen Draga's brother-in-law, who was resplendent in his full army uniform. The members entered the hall and took their seats informally.

Republic with a King.

President Avakumovics rose and immediately began speaking amid breathless silence. He said the national assembly had met to elect a king of the fatherland, having already agreed upon the principles of the new constitution.

Immediately the whole assemblage rose and shouted, "Long live Karageorgevitch." The roll call followed, each member rising quietly in his place and saying: "Peter Karageorgevitch."

There was no dissenting vote and the proceedings closed with brief speeches delivered by the president and premier congratulating the assembly upon its day's work, which it was hoped, foretold better days for Servia.

Directly afterward the soldiers on the outside took the oath of allegiance to the new king, the late Queen Draga's regiment being the first to do so.

The inhabitants of Belgrade are remarkably quiet and apparently unconcerned. The cafes are filled with people reading the newspapers and playing cards or chess, the shops are open and there is little to indicate that the nation has been engaged in the selection of a new sovereign. The constitution is described as making Servia virtually a republic with the king at its head.

Poor Opinion of Assassins.

LONDON, June 15.—The Geneva correspondent of the Daily Express asserts that Prince Karageorgevitch in an interview declared emphatically that the nation ought to avenge the assassination of the king and queen of Servia.

"A king," he said, "who could receive a crown from the hands of assassins would be their accomplice."

Asked if he would punish the assassins, he replied, "I have no power."

In reply to the question, "But when you are king?" Prince Peter gave as answer: "That may never be."

POWERS ACCEPT POSITION

Prepared to Recognise Peter, but Have Decided Nothing as to Assassins.

PARIS, June 15.—It is said in official quarters that official action between the powers regarding their attitude toward Servia has now eventuated in an agreement that ministers of the various powers shall remain in Belgrade in order to look after the current interests of their governments, each minister receiving practically identical instructions to recognize the decision of the Servian Parliament, if the latter has full liberty of action during the choice of a king.

The agreement to retain the ministers at Belgrade appears to have met with strong objection on the part of some of the powers.

The British government first made known its decision to withdraw the British minister from Belgrade, but later concurred with the other powers. The ministers, however, will not be considered to have relations with the present Servian regime until the Parliament at Belgrade freely expresses its will.

The French Foreign office considered that the selection of Prince Peter Karageorgevitch as king was practically certain; the agreement of the powers to accept the decision appears to assume in advance the powers' recognition of King Peter. The officials say the agreement did not include any conditions relating to the punishment of the parties responsible for the assassinations.

King Legally Elected.

ROME, June 15.—A telegram received here from Belgrade announcing the election of King Peter says it occurred in a perfectly legal manner and that he was enthusiastically received by the people.

LONDON, June 15.—Premier Balfour announced in the House of Commons today that the future diplomatic relations between Great Britain and Servia were under consideration.

The subject was brought up by a question of Gibson Bowles, conservative, who inquired if the government proposed to continue diplomatic relations with those concerned in the assassination of the king and queen of Servia, who had now assumed the government.

Mr. Balfour replied that he could only say at present that the matter was under consideration. So far as diplomatic relations were concerned, these came to an end with the death of King Alexander, because the British representative was only accredited to the late king. The premier added that his answer would probably be considered inadequate, and intimated that if Mr. Bowles placed his question on paper in the regular way he might be able to give additional information tomorrow.

The Servian minister in London this afternoon received official notification of the election of King Peter. The telegram was signed by M. Kalievics, foreign minister in the provisional cabinet, and said:

The Skupshtina and Senate, meeting together in joint congress, have unanimously proclaimed Peter Karageorgevitch king of Servia.

The telegram instructed the minister to announce the fact to the British Foreign office.

The British Foreign office received the first news of the election of King Peter from the Associated Press. The officials said that before taking definite action they will await King Peter's assumption of the throne and the completion of the new cabinet.

It was frankly added that if the new king's cabinet included those who were in the assassinations it would be impossible for Great Britain to continue diplomatic relations with it. The question of King Peter's enforcement of the punishment of the murderers was left in abeyance.

Germany Does Not Object.

BERLIN, June 15.—The election of Prince Peter to the throne of Servia will not cause any difficulty on the part of Germany. The Foreign office today, answering a direct question on the subject, replied that Germany, having less interest than Austria and Russia, was leaving those powers to take the initiative. The Vienna and St. Petersburg governments had agreed that the situation at Belgrade did not call for interference and that therefore their policy was to await developments without any action recognizing the provincial government. But the German Foreign office believes that the recognition of King Peter will not create any difficulty anywhere and that it will follow duly after the necessary formalities have been discharged.

VIENNA, June 15.—King Alexander's former private secretary, M. Petronovitch, who was regarded as being one of the most faithful of the late king's adherents, has caused a sensation by telegraphing in the name of the entire Petronovitch family their desire to render homage to King Peter, assuring him that they will serve him as faithfully as they served King Alexander.

It is said that King Peter will refuse to receive Colonel Mischich, the chief of the conspirators, on his entry into Belgrade. This, if true, threatens to cause difficulties, as the presence of Colonel Mischich is regarded as indispensable at the reception, and pressure is being brought to bear on the new king to induce him to yield.

Foreign Minister Hopeful.

PARIS, June 15.—The Temps, in a dispatch from Belgrade, prints an interview with the new minister for foreign affairs, M. Kalievics, in which he is quoted as saying:

"The powers at first hesitated concerning their attitudes, but on receiving fuller information as to the causes leading up to the tragedies, they have manifested no intention of interfering in Servia's affairs. Vienna and St. Petersburg give satisfactory assurances. Berlin is more reserved because Germany is less directly concerned, but I am sure it will not oppose us. Servia is tranquil and now resumes its normal conditions."

The minister also gave a detailed version of the tragedies, declaring that King Alexander's course was responsible, and adding:

"The post-mortem examination of the king's remains reveals the secret of his incompetency. I mention only one detail. The doctors found that the bones of his skull were three times the thickness of those of an ordinary man."

The foreign minister further asserted that history would record that the sufferings of Servia under recent reigns were chiefly due to the intriguas of women.

UNION FINES A FOREMAN

He is Charged with Attempting to Extort Money from Employes in Factory.

NEW YORK, June 15.—Accused of attempts to extort money from employes in a Newark hat factory, David Rishman has been fined $999.99 by the Hatmakers' union.

About eight months ago similar charges were made against Rishman and he was fined $99.99. He was then foreman of a department in the factory.

Although he declared at the time that the charges were trumped up, it is said he has since been paying the fine in weekly installments out of his wages. He declares that the new charges are trumped up and that he will not pay the second fine.

GRAND JURY PROBES EWEN HOTEL FIRE

Judge Declares All Legitimate Means Must Be Used to Indict Incendiaries and Bring Them to Justice.

JACKSON, Ky., June 15.—Interest in the trial of Curtis Jett and Thomas White for the alleged murder of J. B. Marcum was secondary today to the preliminary hearing of the teamsters of Hargis Bros., arrested by the soldiers on the charge of burning the hotel yesterday morning of B. L. Ewen, the principal witness of the commonwealth against Jett and White.

Although this place has become accustomed to assassinations and to incendiary fires during the feud of the last three years, it never had such a night of terror as that of last night.

Many spent a sleepless night, not as members of any vigilance committee patrolling the streets, but within their own doors, as many are expecting the torch to be applied to their homes next.

Soldiers of Little Benefit.

Since the burning of Ewen's large hotel and the rally of the Hargis faction to the aid of the men suspected of having burned it, the citizens, hopeful that when the militia arrived the intimidation would cease, now shake their heads and say today the state received no relief.

The Ewen hotel had 400 rooms, and it was greatly needed. It is pointed out that of the fourteen incendiary fires here during the past two and a half years ten of them have taken place in the day time. The Ewen family, including seven children, have been taken care of by the militia. The family presented a pitiable spectacle today. Ewen tried to console his heart-broken wife and daughters, but their distress was great. Kind-hearted citizens, although feeling that in doing so they are risking their lives and property, have sent them clothing and bedding. They were breakfasted by the soldiers. Scores of people gathered to look at them.

Major Allan, in charge of the troops, ordered the crowds dispersed and the guard line set back so that the distressed family might not be annoyed. The jail last night was under a heavy guard. The prisoners suspected with burning Ewen's house were detained in the camp. They were kept in the camp guardhouse, manacled, so they would have no opportunity to escape. They were greatly frightened during the night, fearing a mob would come to release them and that the soldiers would shoot them.

Spends Night in Tears.

Crawford cried during the night and repeated: "What a fool; what a fool I am." It is believed that these men will be released because the members of the grand jury are residents of Breathitt and fear vengeance similar to that wrought upon Ewen if they indict the men.

Joe Crawford and Ed Tharp were brought before Judge Redwine this morning and testimony heard on the writ of habeas corpus for their release. Gray Haddicks and Jerry Lunsford identified Crawford as one of the men seen coming from the Ewen hotel just before the fire was discovered and A. P. Short said he saw Crawford and Tharp crossing the bridge before the fire.

The prisoners told conflicting stories of their whereabouts before their detention yesterday. Judge Hargis and the attorneys he employed to defend Jett and White represented the prisoners. Judge Redwine decided to hold them to the grand jury, which was reconvened.

After the habeas corpus proceedings of Crawford and Tharp were disposed of the trial of Jett and White was called. The prisoners, who have been greatly alarmed over the arrest of Crawford on the charge of burning the Ewen hotel, were brought in court by the militia and turned over to Elisor Jones. The witnesses were in court, as was Miss Sarah Hargis, the young daughter of Hargis. There was much excitement about the court and those entering the court room were not only searched, but also closely watched.

Wants Incendiaries Indicted.

In his address to the grand jury Judge Redwine charged them to investigate the burning of Ewen's hotel. He was forceful in his charge, denouncing arson next to assassination and instructing the jurors to resort to every fair means to indict the men who were guilty of setting fire to the hotel. He doubted if life and property were ever so insecure in a civilized country as in Breathitt county today. Judge Redwine intimated that a special term of court would be held to try incendiary cases if indictments were found.

The defense in the murder case opened with a statement that it would prove an alibi and called both Jett and White as witnesses on their own behalf to prove that they did not enter the court house till after Marcum had fallen. Both prisoners made exceptionally good witnesses for themselves. Jett was especially cool and confident and apparently unconcerned.

Jett was asked what he had said to Mrs. Johnson on meeting her after Marcum was killed. He replied: "I said to her that she could not lay this on me; that every time a man was killed they said I did it."

Mrs. Johnson's version was: "Hargis' money killed him; I fired the shots."

Jett said at the time of the shooting his right hand was so badly swollen he could not have pulled a trigger.

White, for his part declared that when the shots were fired he was one-third of the way across the street. He looked back and saw Marcum fall and Ewen run away. He saw a figure in the hall, but did not know who it was.

HOSTS OUTNUMBER GUESTS

Old Friends Tender Mr. and Mrs. J. H. McIntosh a Farewell Dinner.

At a banquet at the Omaha club last night the hosts and hostesses numbered sixty-two persons and the guests were Attorney James H. McIntosh and Mrs. McIntosh. The occasion was a farewell banquet and reception given in honor of the guests who on next Friday will leave for New York, there to make their home.

The toasts were full of mirth and happiness, affection and sadness, and were well timed. General Manderson was toastmaster. T. J. In response to this Mr. McIntosh thanked the speaker and his hosts, and told of his affections for Omaha and Omaha people. The other speakers and their subjects were: Carl C. Wright, "The Bar;" Hon. G. M. Hitchcock, "The Press;" F. A. Brogan, "The Ladies;" C. J. Greene, "New York against Omaha."

Those who gave the reception were: General and Mrs. Manderson, Senator and Miss Millard, Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Hitchcock, J. M. Woolworth, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Lyman, Mr. and Mrs. H. W.
