ROUND ABOUT NEW YORK.

Ripples on the Current of Life in the Metropolls.

A mysterious stranger, well dressed and correct in Sartorial get-up, has been playing "angel" to the human waifs of New York. Every night between 11 and midnight he appears in Bryant park and distributes silver dollars among the tramps who crowd the benches there. Once or twice he gave away over 100 of these coins. "It will do them more good than it is doing me," he said to a policeman whom he asked to ac company him. The tramps have been multiplying so fast that the stranger is expected to stop his lavish distribution as suddenly as it was begun.

Russell Sage boarded a Sixth avenue elevated train at Rector street one day last week. He carried under one arm a sample brick wrapped in a newspaper. It was one that the builder of the Emma Willard sem inary had taken to the financier's office. Repairs to Sage hall are to be made, and Mr. Sage wanted to see the brick that is to be used. It was worth perhaps 2 cents. At Twenty-eighth street a sporty looking youth, who evidently knew the great man, reached down, seized the brick, dashed to the door and was down the stairs and away before Mr. Sage, much annoyed, could get to the door and breathlessly explain to
