Along with the rest of the June wedding announcements comes that of the marriage of man in town, Prof. N. Hill Nesbitt. Some time late last winter society was apprised of the arrival of the professor by of a method of teaching French conversa-Nesbitt that, by the way, scarcely did him justice. Accompanying the announcement was an invitation to all interested to attend the first meeting of his class, and that meeting marks the beginning of a season from which radiates incidents and doings galore. The class was replete with promise from the start, for the sample was interesting if nothing more. The membership included half the feminine half of the smart set-and some others-and last, but by no means least, was the professor himself. Within a week the "French class" was as much an institution in town as the cotillion, the Woman's club or even the morning musicales. In fact it took precedence over these in the estimation of the members, for with three classes a day daughters were kept out of school to attend, while everything else dependent upon the society women went begging. It was quite out of the question to find women at home mornings or afternoons and when evening came they might as well have been away, for unless one spoke French or charm of the versatile professor he soon found he had little of interest to My Lady. Pink and white luncheons were given the professor, and progressive luncheons, too, where, it is said, the women progressed in turn to the chairs at the side of the

But through all the professor maintained a courteous, impartial mind that but added to his pop plarity, and when the five weeks at last ame to an end, as all things must, before an outing at Okoboji and Spirit lakes. taking his departure he gave each of his parting souvenir. When the French class guest of Mrs. W. H. McCord. opened in Lincoln a week later several Omaha women found it convenient to visit for Portland, Me., Monday, these and, of course, went into the class. Feeling sure he had not worn his welcome n Omaha out, the professor returned to give an advanced course in French. This time the class was not quite so large, but its members were quite as enthusiastic as ever. In fact, one woman, whose misfortune it was to be seated at the rear of the room, described those ahead of her as "sitting with their ears hanging over the back of the seat in front of them." By this time the class was working in composition and the students vied with each other in poetical efforts, many of them addressed to their instructor. DON'T SWELTER IN THE CITY.

Is the Advice Given by the Management of Courtland Beach and Lake Manaws-These Resorts Are Promised to Be Cool and

Delightful. The week just closed at Courtland Beach, and Lake Manawa has been an exceptionally good one considering that the greater part of the week, especially the nights, have been unseasonable. The prospects for the coming week appear to be bright for a big susiness, as the weather indications are that the week will show a daily high temperature. The street car officials and the park management expect a big exodus to the parks today and are preparing for it All the cars available will be put on the runs to the resorts and a five-minute schedule will be established. The round trip fare to Manawa is but 25 cents. Tickets may be purchased at Moritz Meyers', Fourteenth and Farnam streets; Kiplinger's, Thirteenth and Farnam streets: Black The Hatter's, Sixteenth and Dodge streets; Bal duff's, Sixteenth and Farnam streets; Beaton's drug store, Fifteenth and Far nam streets.

A splendid amusement program has been arranged for each resort. At Courtland Beach the Vaughn Leer trio of acrobats and aerial ladder artists will make their initial appearance. This act is a sensa tional one and the work done is little short of marvelous. Vaughn Leer does a high dive into a net from a seventy-fivefoot elevation that is truly death-defying. Sam Murphy will put on a balloon ractoday, the contestants being Miss Broadwick, the plucky little woman who had such a narrow escape from death last Sunday because her parachute falled to open, and J. A. Cummings. The switchback, Ferris wheel, merry-go-rounds and all the other amusement devices are in good shape to care for the crowds. The bathing beaches at both resorts are all ready for any demand that may be made upon them At Manawa John Rogers, the daring neronaut, will make his customary parachute jump. Covalt's band of thirty-five pieces will render the following program: March—The Steel King. F J St. Clair Overture—Lurline (original, from the opera). William V. Wallace Waltz—Espana E.
