The abolition of the sophomores' societies has been followed by a growth of public spirit and a better feeling between the dif-ferent parts of the college community. The chief danger that menaces the solidarity of Yale college life comes from the formation of influential groups of students who live outside the college buildings. If we can make the college buildings. If we can hind him big enough to be the réally im-portant thing in the institution, we can dis-regard diseased spots which might other-wise be dangerous, because we may be sure that the general strength will be sufficient to eliminate the danger and react against the evil.

evil at which they would bid us strike? In what respect do we Americans of today in our personal and national life fall short of the Americans of the day of Jefferson and Jackson? The answer must come spontaneously to the mind of every man present Within the last few years we have all be-Within the last few years we have all be-come conscious of a great and ominous change in the conditions under which we live, a change which fills every thoughtful man with regret and foreboding, a change which has crept across the spirit of Ameri-can institutions and cast over all a sinister shade of doubt and fear, dimming the bright sunlight of freedom which we once regarded as our inalienable birthright.

Usurpation Brings Change.

This change has not come about by vio-lence and bloody revolution, but by the insidious advances, the secret usurpations of a class of powerful men, a class con-stantly narrowing until it is now scarcely startly marrowing until it is now scarcely more than a group. It has not been accomplished by open and avowed attacks upon the right of suffrage, of freedom of speech or of the press, or upon any of the express rights upon which we have been taught to look as the safeguards of liberty, but it has come with the gradual cornering of our mines, our coal and oil fields, our highways, the great original sources of production, the means of transportation, the avenues of employment, until the time has arrived when the once free born American is born into a monopolized and fenced-up world, in which he must walk in the mighty shadow of the owners of his country and ask of them the right to labor, to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

Must Meet the Issue.

Here lies the wrong at which the spirits of Jefferson and Jackson bid us strike. This issue we must meet. If the democratic party has any mission today, that mission is to set itself in battle array against these new masters of our people, these industrial Caesars for whom we have coined a new name—the trusts. If the with you, my friends, to make this Cassars for whom we have coined a new name-the trusts. It lies with you, my friends, to make this day great. You may do so by a brave recognition of the stupendous questions to which I have referred, and an intrepid at-tempt to do the utmost thing needful. As a party we have marched far, but we must march on. There will beset us the tempta-tions to retreat to pleasant fields long since passed over, but we must march on. To some it may seem best to linger on last night's camping ground, but if we are true to our duty, we must march on. To halt is forward march is not only the road of honor, but the way of safety.

We are unalterable opposed to the policy of imperialism by this government, insti-tuted, fostered and maintained by the re-publican party, and we demand that our government shall declare it to be its pur-pose, and without delay, to adopt such measures as shall give to the people of the Philippine islands and Ports Rice their inalenable right of self-government. We conderm the republican party for its financial policies which would foist upon the country an unstable currency based upon uncertain private securities. We protest against the plan presented in the Aldrich bill recently before the United States senate by which the money of the nation shall be loaned to capitalists upon the bonds and securities of private corporations, as an effort to give value and stability to watered bonds and securities of corporations and trusts, many of which are maintaining monopolies in definice of law and public sentiment. We insist that the integrity of the money of the nation be guarded with zenous situation. CHICAGO, June 34 .-- A general strike of Little Liver Pills. all freight handlers employed by the railroads centering in Chicago may follow the calling out of the Chicago & Alton men today. According to President Curran of the Freight Handlers' union unless the management of the Alton road recedes from the stand taken, it will be necessary for him to extend the strike to the other lines to suforce the demands of the union. The freight handlers employed by the Alton quit today because two union men had been discharged. No question of wages is involved, as less than a month ago all the roads signed a new wage scale granting the freight handlers a substantial increase.
