not in the association. One of the most important matters to be adjusted is the devising of means to prevent wholesalers from shipping coal direct to individuals within the retailers' district. They say that they are getting ground between two millstones. They must buy for cash during the summer a lot of coal to be sold later, thus putting their before the retailer has a chance to realize on it, and yet a big individual consumer can, when he wants it, send direct to the capital furnished by them, and they object son in the basement, "where he belongs." to the practice of selling to consumers after they have had their capital tied up for months.

The railroad demurrage problem is another vexatious one. The roads will delay shipments for days at a time, and compel the shipper to wait their convenience, but if he delays over twenty-four hours in undemurrage whereby the average time consumed in emptying cars is taken as the basis of charge.
