City Engineer Rosewater Discusses the Matter Before the Southwest Improvement Club and Explains Some Points.

At the meeting of the Southwest Improvement club last night City Engineer Rosebusiness of the club was transacted, spoke of city affairs. He told of the difficulty of securing competent men under the present system and said the new method of employing laborers is both inadequate and expensive, involving extra work in all of the offices in the city hall and causing much delay in work. On the general topic of public work he said:

There never was such vicious legislation as that which requires the confirmation and approval of laborers in street work. There are Bfty names of foremen, about thirty inspectors and maybe 500 inhorers, and I know hot how many teams. We can use but eight foremen and a corresponding number of others. These names are on the eligible roll, but are not on the payroll.

number of others. These names are on the eligible roll, but are not on the payroll. The publication of these names led to a misunderstanding, for people think they have a job when they have not.

You are going to be disappointed in the matter of lights, water and similar things. The city council ignored the estimates of the heads of departments and when I came to take up the estimates I found the general fund to be $10,000 short in place of $25,000 surplus. The present levy was made for political purposes and we are 40 per cent short of what we had last year for all purposes. The city can really do nothing purposes. The city can really do nothing but earry out absolutely necessary work. We can create an overlap where work is made necessary by acts of nature and we can therefore, probably fill the washouts. Get at the Facts.

It would increase taxes about I per cent. The question is can we not afford to make the increase and have our city clean and beautiful?

Omaha is not tax-ridden. Our taxes amount to about I per cent of actual value. The loss in value was nearly 70 per cent on Omaha real estate from 1888 to 1892. The men who lost were injured, but it was not taxes that did it, and we should not advertise a falsebood.

Two Kinds of Advertising.

The additional tax would make the city beautiful and visitors would be pleased to come. As it is newspapers decry the officials as disponent, the city as tax ridden and the streats full of holes. Is there anything in this to attract people—to increase thing in this to attract people—to increase real estate values in Omaha? We expended you can possibly get better men. If the best men are not willing to serve on the council they should not complain of those who do, at least unless they have investigated the facts and know that published charges are true.

Some City Necessities.

Cities, like individuals, are judged from Cities, like individuals, are judged from the outside—by their appearances. If the streets are filled with filth and rubbish it is believed to be a city scarcely worth going to. If you allow one part of a city to become filthy it may contaminate the town. You do not know how many indirect ways you may bring disease into your family, and for this reason it is the duty of all persons to belp keep the city clean and to see that all disease breeding places are abated. Milk and food inspection are necessary and must be paid for. No city the size of Omaha has a better sewer system, yet we need plumbing inspection for pet we need plumbing inspection for plumbing will breed disease and dissarried in one house will enter anore, so the matter is not a personal one city should hiew out hydrants in orto make pure the water in the "dead other, so the matter is not a personal one. The city should blow out hydrants in order to make pure the water in the "dead ends," for the water service is a great cause of disease. Yet if you talk of inspection there are some people who will say that a soft snap is being made for some ene. The public money spent is well worth the expenditure.

I believe in a civil service system. In private business you raise the salaries of the men who are longest with the firm, but in public life you do not do this. You cut down salaries through assinine legislators who seek public applicates. It is always cheap to pay well for first-class service, but it is not well to hire men who are not needed and this is one trouble with our minicipalities.

Y., which was solemnized at $130 o'clock last evening at the Macomber home, 2021 Emmet street Among all the June weddings none have been prettier. It was a green and white affair, and throughout the house white blossoms were combined with asparagus fern and other greens in simple but effective decoration. Out in the rear parlor the bay window had been arched over with white carnations and asparagus fern and banked below with palms, and it was here that the marriage service was read by Rev. Dr. Saunderson of Fremont. With the opening of the "Bridal Chorus" from "Lohengrin," played by Miss Fawcett, Mrs. Frederick Cuscaden, a sister of the bride, gowned in white embroidered chiffon with trimmings of silk applique and carrying a huge bunch of white carnations, led the bridal procession down the stairway. Foilowing, walking two by two, came sixteen young women members of the Delta Archibald MacDonald, principal of the Gumma society, of which the bride is also Sioux Falls High school, and Miss Dorothy a member. As the party took their places the sixteen fraternity girls closed about them with their greens, standing while the service was read. The group included: Misses Mona Martin and Mabel Stone of Hastings, Abba Bowen and Lillian Bobison, Louise Tukey and Blanche Garten of Lincoln, Loraine Comstock and Marie Harris, Mary Stearns and Edith Dumont, Hallie Wilson of Ashland and Hortense Clarke, Ethel Tukey and Fannie Cole. Mrs. Paul Hongland and Mrs. William Brace Fonds.

Pollowing the wedding an informal reception was held, cards having been issued to about 300 guests. Mr. and Mrs. Robinson left for the east last evening and after a brief wedding trip will be at home in Fiatbush, N. Y. Miss Macomber has been for the last year director of physical cuiture in the high school, and many friends in school and social circles will regret her departure from Omaha.
