District Court Says Legislators are Not Entitled to Increased Pay.

TROUBLE WAITS ALL MANUFACTURERS

Likely to Have a Lawsuit Before They Secure Pay for Work Done at the State Penitentiary.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, June 36 .- (Special.) -- Should the ecision of Judge Holmes of the Lancaster county district court be affirmed by the supreme court, whence it will be immediately appealed, legislative sessions in Nebraska will hereafter be limited to forty days and the pay of members $3 a day instead of $5. This decision was rendered in a suit brought by former Supreme Court Commisioner Ryan against the auditor to prevent the payment of claims of members. The suit was begun during the last session, but the legislators were permitted to draw their money before the order of injunction was served. Mr. Ryan says he wants to show that the legislature cannot amend the constitution by special act, and neither will it be permitted to disregard the statutes and the written constitution and count in any constitutional amendment a majority of its members desire carried. The amendment extending the length of sessions and increasing the pay was submitted in 1886. The first returns as collected by the secretary of state showed its defeat by several thousand. When the legislature met and canvassed the returns it met in joint session and declared this amendment lost. Later a scheme was worked up by which a recount was ordered by a special act, and it was this act which Ryan attacked on the ground that it was special legislation and sought to amend for one specific purpose a general law to which was contradictory in terms. In passing upon the question Judge Holmes said:

Cell Makers May Have Trouble

It is hinted in statehouse circles that when the VanDoran company of Cleveland, O., attempts to draw or market the warrants it expects to receive in exchange for the steel cells furnished the state pen itentiary it will find it has run into a big lawsuit. The last legislature appropriated $80,000 for 240 cells and sewage. When the board let the contract some three weeks ago the VanDoran people got the contract for building 146 cells for $69,000. Just what authority the auditor will have to draw a warrant for $69,000 in payment for 146 cells, buy 240 cells, is what will cause trouble. Under the law as heretofore construed the purchase of a specific number of ar- a large attendance. ticles at a specified cost there could be no valid agreement to buy them at an en-

His Wandering Boy.

Representative Deles Dernier of Elmwood, Cass county, was in Lincoln today enroute home from a trip to San Francisco whither he went to visit his son, Chester who is an enlisted sailor on the battleship New York, which is in dry dock there. The boy is only 18 years old. He left home last year with a railroad surveying party and, drifting into the state of Washington, he took advantage of an opportunity to enlist in the navy. He wrote his father that something of the world.

After having thoroughly inquired into the boy's position and opportunities, Mr. Deles Dernier is convinced that there is not a favorable opening for his boy in the navy and proposes to take the matter up with the Navy department in an endeavor to secure his release, as he was under age at the time of his enlistment last November.

Snub Demurrage Man.

Before adjourning their convention here the coal dealers of Nebraska and Iowa declared their objection to a system that compels them to deal with representatives of the demurrage bureau instead of with the railroad companies direct.

Another resolution demanded that railway companies furnish scales at central points for the weighing of coal near its destination, so that dealers may have a check upon shortages, which now cause them great loss and grief. It was claimed that it is not uncommon for a dealer to find a car of coal a ton short from leakage or shrinkage, due largely to the freedom with which people along railroad lines avoid the embarrassments of meeting the coal man face to face. This is especially true of the better classes of coal, for which reason some dealers endeavor to confine their trade as nearly as possible to steam coal and the cheaper grades.

It was stated at the close of the convention that the grievance of dealers will be presented to the railways with an appeal for relief, and if it brings no response ar application will probably be made to the legislature.

Liquor Dealers Not Active.

One of the ardent advocates of the com mutation of the sentence of Rhea has stated that it is the conviction of the prison reform association officers that the liquor dealers' organization in this state has pressed the prosecution and conviction of Rhea because his victim was a saloonkeeper and that organization is now exerting itself covertly to prevent a commutation. There was no intimation that this organization was supposed to have any very reliable pull with the governor.

Local members of the association of liquor dealers deny that that organization has ever taken any part in the prosecution or exerted itself in any way, unless possibly some of the members may as individuals have signed the petitions that have been in circulation asking the governor to let the law take its course. Lincoln members did not even know that any liquor dealers had even done that.

There has been agitation toward this movement for years, but never before has anything definite been done. Peculiar and Painful Accident. HUMBOLDT, Neb., June 26 .- (Special.)-Miss Ollie Wilson last night suffered a painful accident robbing her of the use of one of her hands. When the rainstorm came up she arose to shut down a window, and as she loosened the catch placed her hand on the window pane to steady the sash in its descent, The fact that a hole had been broken in the lower pane slipped her mind and she did not notice that instead of her hand resting against that pane it had passed through the hole in the sash and was resting against the pane in the upper sash. When the catch was released the heavy sash fell, the jagged edge of the glass striking her hand across the back and almost severing it. The tendons and bones were laid bare and it is feared that permanent injury may have been done to the former.
