The Ladies' Turners society from Omaha, with its natty uniforms, splendid physique and ladylike demeanor, was the object of much favorable comment. No serious mishap or unpleasant incident happened while the visitors were here. The next state tournament will be held in Omaha.

NEBRASKAN IN REVOLUTION

Central American Uprisings Simply a Politic Name for Brigandage.

FREMONT, Neb., June 28.—(Special.)—Lester Green, who left this city about three years ago for Central America, is back here after a rather exciting experience in Guatemalan revolutions. On his arrival there on account of his ability to speak Spanish fluently he got a position with a surveying corps doing railroad work. An insurrection broke out and he joined the insurgents, remaining with them for a long time. It seems that they received no regular pay, but looted a bank or town when short of funds and divided the proceeds, principally among the brigadier general and colonels who composed the force, and the cook, who was an important functionary. Green says that he had in this way accumulated about $800, when the army that he was with was captured by the government forces and his money taken from him. Most of the brigadiers and colonels were shot by Green, though protesting and demanding his rights as an American citizen, was thrown into jail and remained there for some time. He was unable to communicate with the American consul and was finally told that he had been sentenced to be banished from the country and to be given fifty lashes on the bare back, well laid on. The sentence was carried out and Green shipped to San Francisco. Green says that he was cook at headquarters during the greater part of his services with the insurgents.

KNOCKS PAINTER INTO RIVER

Workman on Plattsmouth Bridge Has Close Call for His Life.

PLATTSBOUTH, Neb., June 28.—(Special.)—John Butala, a painter, employed on the new Burlington bridge which spans the Missouri river at this point, had an accident yesterday afternoon, which came very nearly costing him his life. He and several other men were at work on a scaffold painting the bottom cord of the bridge at the time the accident occurred. A plank which was being on the ties above was jarred loose in some manner and as it fell it struck one of the iron crosspieces and bounded against Butala's head, stunning the latter and causing him to fall from the scaffold into the swiftly-flowing current below, a distance of about thirty feet. Fortunately, upon striking the water he was able to keep afloat and after swimming for about thirty yards he was rescued by other workmen, who went out in a skiff.

Bert Briggs, another workman, while fighting away from the wreckage track yesterday, fell the wrench slip and strike him near the left eye. It required several stitches to close the gash.

All the hydraulic well machinery was working perfectly, the water coming up on the outside of the casing, as usual, when all at once the well came up and ran to fifteen feet. PULPIT DEFENDS LYNCHING

Simply Violent Evidence of a Sentiment that is Commendable in Man.

COURTS LARGELY TO BLAME FOR PRACTICE

Men Who So Readily Condemn Practice Lose Sight of the Terrible Crime Which is Often the Incentive to Outbreak.

CHICAGO, June 28.—"I am no advocate of lynching or of mob law, but I would rather see a community wrought to the highest pitch over crimes that would seem impossible this side of hell than to remain apathetic," was the opening of Rev. Dr. W. A. Bartlett at the First Congregational church today in a prelude on "Lynching from Another Point of View." Dr. Bartlett said among other things: "I have seen so many sermons, editorials and reasons denouncing lynching and mob law that one gets the impression that the citizens who hang or burn the destroyer of life homes and all that is held sacred by womanhood, are the race offenders rather than the monster whom they destroy." "We should think of the majesty of the law, the majesty of the state, the majesty of the nation, and the real criminals are those who do not wait for legal process, and the violator of woman is the abused party."

Pat Yourself in His Place.

The indignant uprising of a community, and some of the best men in it to avenge a wrong, is a natural and commendable thing, but it is technically unjust, but the spirit which caused the uprising is the reflection of a healthy civilization. There are crimes so dreadful that the pure and chivalrous, and the strong and the well-meaning, should pollute the earth by his presence. It is easy to theorize about things and to preach about things, but when it comes to the actual doing of things, the man who is called upon to do them is often a man who is called upon to do them in a way which makes him a man of blood. It is not in the nature of things that a man should be called upon to do things which are so repulsive to his nature, but when it comes to the actual doing of things, the man who is called upon to do them is often a man who is called upon to do them in a way which makes him a man of blood. (Continued from First Page.) The president does not care particularly for the formal dinners of state, which he is expected to give every so often to his cabinet. He is more interested in the social life of his friends, who are selected with a scrupulous regard for the proprieties, and with these as his guests the president is invited to the man and his dinner and lunch parties, which are long and pleasant. The president enjoys game dinners. He is fond of terrapin, hugely enjoys a blue wing teal, a mallard or a canvasback, and now and then when he likes to get back into the old life of the woods he goes to the White House with game and meats.

Plans Western Game Dinners.

The president enjoys game dinners. He is fond of terrapin, hugely enjoys a blue wing teal, a mallard or a canvasback, and now and then when he likes to get back into the old life of the woods he goes to the White House with game and meats. From this same source it is learned that the president contemplates a series of unique dinners next winter to which will be invited the men with whom he was associated not only on his hunting trips in the west, but when he was a plainsman in South Dakota and Wyoming. The dinners will be made up largely of game from the sections with which the president became familiar in his younger days. To the game courses will be added other features of the sections which he visited in his recent tour of the western states. And the resources of the West are not limited to the game. During his recent swing around the circle he told many of the prominent men with whom he touched elbows that the White House next winter would be wide open, and that he proposed his first dinner party to be given to the men who had followed him in his recent tour. There would have similar attentions shown them in the capital city of the nation.

GOOD GROWING WEATHER.

When the New Scarp Antiseptic is Used. A good head of hair is as much a "crown of glory" for man as it is for woman, notwithstanding all the poetry on the subject applied. The hair is the glory of the man, the season when flies it, the bald-headed man can sympathize with the Egyptians who were so sorely plagued on account of the children of Israel. Why not try Newbro's Herpicid? Others have been benefited and are loud in their praise. It cleanses the scalp, kills the germ at the root of the hair and by keeping the scalp sweet, pure and wholesome, the hair is bound to grow as nature intended, regardless of the temperature. Try it and be convinced. Sold by leading druggists. In St. Joseph, Mo., Mich. Sherman & McConnell Drug Co., special agents.

AFFAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA

Bi-Centennial of Birth of John Wesley Observed at Four Service

GOVERNOR MICKY ATTENDS AND SPEAKS

Tells in Detail of the Early Life and Struggles and the Great Work of the Founder of Methodism.

The bi-centennial anniversary of John Wesley, the founder of Methodism, was appropriately observed in South Omaha yesterday. Four well attended services were held at the First Methodist Episcopal church, Twenty-third and N streets, and each was attended by Hon. J. H. Mickey, governor of Nebraska. At the forenoon service Governor Mickey conducted the Bible class and delivered a short address on the topic of the day, "John Wesley."

At 11 o'clock the usual services were held in the church. Every seat was occupied and chairs filled the aisles. In place of the regular sermon Governor Mickey read an address dwelling particularly on the life of Wesley. The governor was extremely humorous, but this did not detract from the attention the large congregation paid to his remarks. In commenting Governor Mickey said that Wesley was not only a great preacher, but also a great man. He was a man of great character, a man of great courage, a man of great faith, a man of great love, a man of great hope, a man of great charity, a man of great kindness, a man of great gentleness, a
