Chief Taylor Says His Department Will Have Great Exhibits

NEBRASKA WILL HAVE A BUILDING

Commissioners Determined to Expend $10,000 in the Erection of a Small State Headquarters at the Grounds.

Frederic W. Taylor, chief of the department of agriculture and horticulture at the Louisiana Purchase exposition, was in the city a short time yesterday, going to Lincoln to interview Commissioner Morrill. He will return to Omaha Tuesday to consult with Commissioner Wattles before going back to St. Louis. Mr. Taylor has been absent from St. Louis for some five or six days on personal business and missed the Nebraska commissioners when they made their visit to the fair grounds.

Speaking of the prospects in his department, Mr. Taylor says the space, which is twenty acres larger than ever set aside for the purpose before, is over-applied for by 25 per cent now, and the requests are not all in. Twenty-three states have made application for allotments and fifteen other states and territories have appointed commissioners, but have not yet asked for an allotment of space for agricultural purposes. An unusually heavy demand has been made by implement dealers and food product manufacturers.

"All we can say as certain yet," said Mr. Taylor, "is that the agricultural and horticultural exhibits will exceed in extent and interest any ever made. All the states west of Ohio are taking a great deal of interest in this phase of the exposition, and will contribute to its success. In corn more interest is manifest than in any other single article. I can say now that corn will be shown as it never was shown before. We have made no definite allotments yet, but will when we have determined the ability and merits of the various applicants. It is too early to decide exactly how much each is to be allowed. No one will be allotted all the space asked for, however, for that is a physical impossibility."

Nebraska to Have a Building.

The Nebraska commission to the Louisiana Purchase exposition returned Sunday from St. Louis. The commissioners were royally entertained at St. Louis by the exposition officials. The object of the visit of the commission to St. Louis was to determine the expediency of erecting a small building for Nebraska on the exposition grounds or to depend for exhibition space upon the general buildings. Architect Thomas Kimball returned with the party. Assistant Secretary Shedd, in speaking of the conclusions of the commission, said: "It has been decided to erect a Nebraska building at a cost of $10,000. A beautiful site was selected just off the main avenue where the state buildings are to be. Mr. Kimball will be the architect of the structure. It will not be large, but will be a gem of architectural beauty. The purpose will be to make it a Nebraska club house, a place of meeting for visiting Nebraskans, a home, so to speak. No exhibits will be placed in the building. There will all be located in the various large buildings devoted to exhibition purposes.

"The commission was entertained at luncheon one day by the officers of the exposition, who seemed to take especial delight in extending us every courtesy. We were shown over the grounds and were surprised to observe how nearly completed all the large buildings are. The walks, driveways and lawns are being finished up with great rapidity, and the grounds are exceptionally beautiful. Mr. Kimball, as you know, is the architect of the great electrical building, and this structure is now almost completed and is probably the most beautiful on the grounds. Mr. Kimball is also one of the best of the visionary architects of the exposition to pass upon the buildings.

Grounds Are Magnificent.

"The location of the exposition grounds is in the magnificent Forest park of 1,200 acres, filled with noble trees, and is far more attractive and beautiful than the Chicago exposition grounds, which covered but 420 acres. The location of the Nebraska building will be on the second of the main avenues, and it will be completed in time for the Nebraska commission to occupy it the January 1 next, at which time the commission headquarters will be removed to St. Louis."

President Wilson returned with the commission Sunday, but was called to Iowa on business yesterday.

Secretary Matt Miller left yesterday for Mexico City, Mexico, on private business. Assistant Secretary Shedd will go to Lincoln Tuesday, returning Wednesday. Replies have been received from all quarters of the state in response to circulars sent out by the commission regarding the various agricultural and horticultural, manufacturing and other exhibits, and all indicate a hearty and enthusiastic interest. The work of the commission is progressing most encouragingly and everything promises that Nebraska will be most worthily represented at the great exposition and its magnificent resources shown to the none of the Louisiana purchase states.

SCIENCE PREVENTS BALDNESS.

The Fatal Germ and Its Remedy Now Facts of Science.

It is the rarest thing in the world for a man to be bald. No man whose hair is not dead at the roots, need be bald if he will use Herpicide, the new scalp antiseptic. Herpicide destroys the germ that cuts the hair off at the root, and cleans the scalp of dandruff and leaves it in a perfectly healthy condition. Mr. Manetti, in the Maryland Block, Butte, Mont., was entirely bald. In less than a month Herpicide had removed the enemies of hair growth, and nature did its work by covering his head with thick hair an inch long, and in six weeks he had a normal suit of hair. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Sherman & McConnell Drug Co., special agents.

GEORGE W. GRAY PASSES AWAY

Old Time Omahan Dies in New York After Illness of Several Months.

George W. Gray, one of Omaha's early settlers, died June 25 at the Red Swan Inn, Warwick, N. Y., after an illness of several months. His daughter, Mrs. J. D. Diller, now living in New York state, has gone to Warwick, where the funeral arrangements have been deferred pending the arrival of Mr. Gray, who left this city twenty-five years ago, was in the printing business and proprietor of one of the early establishments here. He still owned considerable real estate in the city and had visited Omaha almost yearly.

Superintendent Davidson of the Topoka, Kan., schools wired that he could not come to Omaha and his place on the program was taken by Architect John Latenser, who spoke on the heating, lighting and ventilation of school houses, illustrating his talk with drawings and answers to questions were asked him and the members expressed themselves greatly interested in the sub-

Transmississippi Summer School of Superintendence Has Novel Experience.

PLAIN CRITICISM OF THEM AND THEIR WORK

Too Few Boys and Girls of the Right Kind, or Acceptable in Business World, Being Turned Out by Schools.

J. Frank Carpenter of the Carpenter Paper company yesterday morning made the first of the series of talks by business men to be given this week before the Transmississippi Summer School of Superintendence.

In introducing Mr. Carpenter Superintendent Pearce said that teachers and school people were constantly getting together and looking at each other, and at their work, through their own eyes. It would probably be of benefit to them to look at themselves and their work, through the eyes of the people who footed the bills and who furnished the children to attend the schools, and without whom the schools would cease to exist. Therefore the series of talks by business men had been arranged.

With as much fear and trembling as when in jeans and hickory shirt he stood before his school teacher, another boy having been sent for a stout hazel switch, Mr. Carpenter said he came before the assembly of teachers. But, viewed as a man, the first essential to the success of a business concern was absolute harmony from the highest to the lowest, and the same rule, he believed, applied to schools.

It should not be necessary for young women to come to business men and ask them to see this or that member of the Board of Education for them. When a young woman was employed it should be as in a business house, to remain just so long as she gave entire satisfaction. If the best possible results were to be obtained politics and wire pulling must be taken out of the public schools. (Applause.)

It should not be necessary for a county superintendent to begin laying plans immediately after his election to secure a reelection, making promises which he was afterward called on to carry out, to the detriment of the schools.

Absolute Honesty Essential.

Absolute honesty on the part of superintendents, principals and teachers was required if they were to make the most possible out of the boys and girls. Mr. Carpenter related an instance where the president of a Nebraska school board had handed out a boy a diploma on the understanding that he would make up during the summer the studies in which he was deficient, and in which he had failed to pass.

The people had been deceived, and that boy, when he entered a business house, would do so with the idea that it was smooth and sharp to deceive. And teachers, and those who had allowed the deception, had taught him the lesson. There were plenty of bad boys naturally without having them taught dishonesty in the schools. Too few boys and girls of the proper spirit and character, Mr. Carpenter declared emphatically, were being received from the public schools. Too few of the "I can" and "I will" and of the thorough and thoroughly reliable kind were turned out, and upon the right kind were found in the business world. Upon the teachers, as well as parents, rested a great responsibility, and only by stamping out deception, by insisting on absolute honesty, both by precept and the example of upright living, could the right kind of boys and girls be obtained.

Superintendent Davidson of the Topoka, Kan., schools wired that he could not come to Omaha and his place on the program was taken by Architect John Latenser, who spoke on the heating, lighting and ventilation of school houses, illustrating his talk with drawings and answers to questions were asked him and the members expressed themselves greatly interested in the subject. Tuesday morning Mr. Latenser will talk on the planning and construction of school buildings.

After an address by Superintendent Stetson yesterday afternoon all the members of the schools started for a tour of the jobbing houses.

Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets Better Than Pills.

The question has been asked, in what way are Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets easier to pills? Our answer is—They are easier and more pleasant to take, more gentle and mild in their action and more reliable, as they can always be depended upon. Then they cleanse and invigorate the stomach and leave the bowels in a natural condition, while pills are more harsh in effect and their use is often followed by constipation.
