Hundreds of persons witnessed yesterday 500 worth of liquor into the gutters on quor, which came from the saloon conwas performed by Sheriff Cousins and Dep- to a uty Groneweg under an order from Judge Wheeler of the district court.

The destruction of the liquor was the reult of County Attorney Killpack's determination to enforce his Sunday closing order. It was reported that the drunken erawl on South Main street last Sunday fternoon, resulting in the arrest of two others named McNiller and Robert Stack. was due to the fact of the participants havng secured liquor at Bunting's saloon. The report was investigated by Mr. Killpack and he at once decided to close the saloon. Last February the county attorney secured a temporary injunction against the saloon and yesterday morning he went before Judge Wheeler and had the restraining order made permanent. After the liquor was destroyed Deputy Knox was placed in posession of the saloon fixtures until the costs of the action are paid.

The saloon is owned by the Krug Brewing ompany and it is understood when the costs are paid the company will be permitted to reopen it under different management. Bunting, however, will not be permitted under the injunction to again enter the saloon business within the Fifteenth judicial district of this state.

Bunting denies that the men engaged in the brawl Sunday afternoon secured any drink from his place. He says they asked for it and were refused and that when later they again attempted to enter the place he put them out. RURAL ROUTES IN ADAMS Telegram.)-Charles K. Fillmore, cashler of Inspector Liewellyn Establishing

What is Known as a Model System.

HASTINGS, Neb., July 3 .- (Special.)-Uness Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Bristow adheres to a rule recently made department some time ago assigned C. E. Liewellyn, special agent of the rural free delivery service, to put in a model system for Adams county. Mr. Liewellyn has been here about two weeks and will have his work completed soon. There will be five routes from Hast ings, and other postoffices in the county will Except in a very few cases under the service as arranged by Mr. Liewellyn a man cannot be more than half a mile away from a route, and there will be comparatively few even that far. The service will, in all respects, be of the most improved and complete in the country. Only a few of these model systems have been inaugurated by the department and only one in Nebraska. which is in Cass county. These county systerns are very expensive adjuncts to the postal service and the department has been oth to inaugurate them except in very thickly settled communities.

As one of the results of the recent investigations in the Postoffice department the rural free delivery system was transferred from the first assistant postmaster general to the fourth assistant, J. L. Bristow, A. W. Muchen, who, by the way, was appointed under the Cleveland administration and who was recently indicted for various frauds upon the government, was chief of the rural free delivery system under the first assistant postmaster general. The change in the jurisdiction of the service has been followed by a thorough renovation of the methods employed by that official and it is asserted that from now on routes established must be in strict accordance with the rules and regulations, which have also een strengthened and made more exacting. Bristow has given instructions that hereafter all routes must be from twenty to twenty-five miles long and include 100 families. It will be practically impossible to meet such requirements in Adams county or anywhere in the state except possibly in the eastern and southeastern sections. It is hoped, however, that arrangements may be made for the installation of the service in Adams county. Mr. Liewellyn is doing the best he can to meet Mr. Bristow's demands and will seen subject his report to the department.

Mr. Llewellyn went to Omaha last Saturday and returned Tuesday evening, accompanied by Mrs. Liewellyn, who will remain here until he finishes his work.
