Dr. Laponni, who is supported by Dr Mazzoni, indignantly repudiated the idea, both declaring that barely five days have elapsed since the pope became ill, and they ering, neither was it prudent, considering the age and weakness of the pontiff, to risk a test puncture before having almost certainly detected the presence of serum.

Consultation is Arranged

However, the criticising cardinals not only maintained their view, but succeeded in reaching the ear of Cardinal Rampolla. Besides this, the pope's relatives proposed that a consultation be held with the most Illustrious physicians, naming Dr. Antonio Carderella and Dr. Guido Baccelli.

Apart from the question of hurting Dr. Laponni's feelings, further difficulty arose owing to the existing relations between church and state. Dr. Carderella was a member of the Chamber of Deputies for sixteen years, and is now a member-that is to say, he fills a position which has necessitated his not only taking the oath of allegiance to the king, but also to obey the Italian laws, including the papal guaranties, which regulate the position of the papacy in regard to the Italian state, thus making him obnoxious to the papal party. Dr. Baccelli's position is even more difficult. In addition to having been a member of the Chamber of Deputies for thirty years, he is actually a minister of the Italian crown, being minister of commerce industry and agriculture.

Dr. Baccelli occupies such a high position in medical science that, notwithstanding his political principles, he was even consulted during the last illness of Pope Pius never been one.

In spite of all this, the wishes of the Pecci family were granted, and it was amounced that Dr. Laponni and Dr. Mazzoni would hsult Dr. Carderella temorrow morning.

Anxiety in United States.

The intense anxiety regarding the pontiff's condition which is felt throughout the United States is shown by the receipt of a very large number of telegrams from eminent American prelates and lay Catholics in America making anxious inquiries and expressing the hope that the prayers for his recovery will be answered. Dr. Mazzoni, speaking about the pope this afternoon, remarked:

this afternoon, remarked:

It has always been said that Pope Leo has shown powers of extraordinary resistance to diseases of the constitution, enjoys the absolute harmony of all his organis and of his physical, moral and intellectual qualities, which is the real cause of his great resistance to filness.

Notwithstanding his advanced age and his present illness, the pope has a constitution capable of enabling him to recover. The difficulties and delicacy of the moment are created by the personality of the pope. He is a very sensitive man and a person to whom a simple injection of caffeine causes great suffering for about three hours.

caffeine causes great suffering for about three hours.

Three years ago, when I operated on him for a cyst, it was said he did not suffer, but in reality he did suffer intensely.

The liquid taken yesterday from the pleura may gather again and another operation may be necessary, but I hope not. Some of the liquid may remain, and often the little that is left is spontaneously absorbed, which may be the case with the pontiff.

CALLS WORK THE BEST MORAL POWER

Amherst Read Tells Teachers Differences in Religion Must Be Tolerated, but Studenta Elevated by Labor.

BOSTON, July 8.-The National Educa tional association convention practically reached high tide today with a maximum attendance, a dozen meetings, at which nearly eighty interesting papers on special topics were read; almost a score of receptions in and about the city in the afternoon and the usual general session and oncert in the evening.

Again today the morning was devoted to departmental meetings, no less than ten separate sessions being held, counting the joint meeting of the art, elementary and annual training sections as one, Work Best Moral Power,

The general topic in the department of higher education was "Shall the University Concern Itself More Directly with the Morals and Manners of the Students?" President Harris of Amherst, said:

The college should concern itself with the morals and manners of students, but I do not think by specific methods and ideas. The college must make requirements as to studies, and, for the most part, trust to influence. Work itself is the best moral power. power.

Athletics promote morals. Should foot ball, basket ball, field athletics cease, the moral tone of the college would be lowered; sports come more and more upon a moral tone of the college would be lowered.

Dasis.

There is more genuine religion in the college today than in any period of our history. Cant and pretense are tolerated. Irrational doctrine is discarded. But faith, hope, love, character, are exaited. The college should encourage sane, healthy, trustful, God-loving, man-serving religion. President William J. Tucker of Dartouth said in part;

mouth said in part:

The American college or university stands for social advancement, as well as for intellectual discipline. The university is that gateway through which democracy passes to the refinement of its strength.

Scholarship is not the first end of the college or even of the university. The common product of each is not the scholar by distinction, but the man who is fitted for the largest uses of society and the state. In view of these considerations it becomes a matter of direct concern for the college and university to take account of morals and manners.

Loubet Reviews Troops. King Edward, Queen Alexandra, President Loubet, the prince and princess of Wales, the duke and duchess of Connaught, Foreign Minister Delcasse, Ambassado Cambon and others proceeded to Aldershot this afternoon to review the First army

On their arrival at Fonsborough the party drove to the review plain, where King Edward, in a field marshal's uniform and wearing the ribbon of the Legion of Honor, mounted a charger and, preceded by a carriage in which President Loubet and Queen Alexandra were seated, drove to the pavillon. From this point they witnessed the review of 16,000 troops of all arms, which, in the bright sunshine, formed an effective picture. After the king had inspected the troops the infantry marched past in celumns, the cavairy and artillery galloped by and the review closed with a royal salute. Following this the massed bands played "God Save the King" and the "Marsiellaise. On returning to the railroad station the party traversed a long avenue formed of 116 field and slege guns.

The review attracted great crowds of spectators, who gave the members of the party a splendid reception. The royal train was late in returning from Aldershot and M. Loubet scarcely had time to rest before he was driven to Lord Lansdowne's house. The house was magnificently decorated with palms and lilies and was brilliantly illuminated.
