LONDON SOCIETY DOINGS

Mrs. Perry Belmont Outshines All at Gai's Performance of Opera. GREAT OCCASION FOR DISPLAY OF GEMS

Lady Londerry Also Scintillates with a Million Dollars Worth of Precious Stones on That Occasion.

Superb jewels were worn also by Mrs. Henry J. Duveen, who was in the stalls with her husband and son. Gladys Deacon wore no jewels, and so did not make so effective an appearance as the others mentioned.

Lady Yarmouth was there with her husband, wearing the Hartford jewels, and was much admired. Archie Huntington also was there. Mrs. F. J. Mackey had a box with Lady Newborough.

The American colony made a brave show on Thursday night, when another big charity fancy dress ball was given in Albert hall for the benefit of the Charing Cross hospital. The perceres quadrille was a superb sight, the sixteen titled women wearing lustrous dresses.

Mrs. Chatfield Taylor, who is now in London staying with Mrs. F. J. Mackey, danced in Mrs. Tree's minuet. Being very fat, flabby and greatly disfigured, she has had an especially gay time this week, having attended most of the festivities for President Loube.

Miss Van Wart took two boxes at $50 each. She had a cousin, Miss Huntington, with her, and several well known people. Mrs. Bradley-Martin had a supper box for all her friends.

Princess Hatzfeldt wore the magnificent gown she had on at Mrs. Adair's big ball. Countess Fabricotti was with her. At the last moment Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey M. Dreyfus and the senator's son and Mr. and Mrs. Perry Belmont turned up at the ball.

The duchess of Marlborough goes about very little of late, being again much troubled with deafness. She probably will go to the United States again in the fall, she enjoyed her latest visit so greatly. The duke will not accompany her.

Mrs. and Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt have left London again. They did not go to Bienenheim, and the Marlboroughs have no house for all her friends.
