Denies War Department Corruption During His Administration and

If there was any corruption in the War department during the time I was secretary or if there was any reason for thinking there might be such corruption I knew nothing about it, and I do not believe there was any. The assertion here made is a broad one, and the men who make the charges and the paper which publishes them will be held to strict accountability. I hope the matter will be investigated to the bottom in order that the facts may be demonstrated. I did not know that any glove contracts demonstrated. I did not know that any glove contracts had been made. Matters of detail of that kind were left to subordinate officials and I suppose that many minor contracts were made without being submitted to the head of the department during the time the army was being mobilized, and when there was a great mass of business to be attended to. However, I believe the men who purchased supplies during my administration were as honest, conscientious and efficient as any set of officials who ever served in the War department.
