An Unfortunate Tendency More Conspicuous in New York Than

Elsewhere.

Building reports of the city of New York for the last year are to the effect that the average cost of the private dwelling erected on Manhattan Island was in the neighborhood of $100,008. display that can be obtained in a well regulated apartment house or flat. So America is on the move and although it is moving slowly the progress is steady. While the rich are maintaihing private houses they can hardly be said to be maintaining homes. They have a town house and a country house, a villa by the sca and a lodge in the mountains. From one to the other of these they filt as the seasons change and fashion dictates. In neither place do they make a true home. Such seems to be the general rule with the rich of New York. It is not so bad elsewhere at present, but New York leads and the country follows, so perhaps the time is not far distant when a similar condition of things will prevail even in California, where nature offers every inducement to home making and where nothing except application was prepared which will be artificial conditions tempt men to live Artemus Ward once scored a great hit with the American people by saying "a man will fight for his home, but he won't fight for his boarding house." Were the humorist alive today he would have to change that saying or stand charged with being a pessimist. We are becoming a nation of "apartment dwellers," but our the business interests, with a capital of patriotism and our pugnacity have not diminished. We know not the story of the cliff dwellers of the Arizona and the Colorado mountains, but doubtless they fought heroically for the preservation of their lofty abodes high up on the precipices, and so we shall fight for our elevated flats and rooms way up in the top stories of huge buildings. It will be a homeless age perhaps, but love and patriotism will live with indiminished vigor in our hearts. It may be that such prognostications are not wholly called for. California at any rate can show an increasing number of homes in all its cities and in all its counties. Still it is a notable and remarkable Gates to other employes. The Employers' fact that in an American city during the association voted to stand by Gates and course of a whole year not a single house was erected to serve as the home of a man who is not rich enough to be rated as a millionaire.-San Francisco Call.

> CRIME TO BUY WATER WORKS Treasurer Hennings So Declares Proposed Purchase of Plant

> > This Year.

"It will be a crime for the city of Omaha to purchase the waterworks this year. The plant should either have been purchased a number of years ago or puchasing it should be postponed for a number of

City Treasurer Hennings made the above statement yesterday when the subject of the purchase of the waterworks came up to the respective locals by Secretary Denny in his office, incidental to the redemption soon. At the conclusion of the session, of several hundred thousand dollars worth of warrants at this time, and city finances in general. Continuing Treasurer Hennings

The city is now getting out of the woods and if nothing is done to prevent it will soon be in as good financial condition as any city or town in the whole country.

"But just as everything is going along smoothly comes this water works purchase and I repeat that in my opinion to buy the plant this year will be a crime. Those who know anything at all about the matter agree that the estimate of the appraisers At present the city of Omaha, or any other city in the country, big or little, cannot sell bonds which bear less than 5 per cent interest, and it is a question whether we can sell even 5 per cent bonds next fall.

"The daily reports in the financial papers show that a number of cities which advertised for bids for bonds, to be opened during the last ten days, did not receive a single bid. At 5 per cent $6,000,000 of bonds would mean a $300,000 interest charge a year. Then add to this $75,000 to $100,000 per year for operating the plant and making everyday, ordinary repairs. The company now pays the city and county $65,000 a year in taxes, and is paid $96,000 a year for water rent. Here the city will gain $40,000, for while it will lose the taxes it will save the rent, so far as the bookkeeping part of it is concerned.

"But at the very best figuring there will atill be between $325,000 and $350,000 a year for the city to pay in interest and operating expenses-and unless the income of the company is much larger than is generally now known, however, that the remedy for a considerable sum every year out of the supposed the city at large will have to pay general fund, or some other fund, to make up the difference. That is, unless water year, and if the bonds bore only 3 per cent a difference of $120,000 per year or an issue of $6,000,000. I think the best thing for the city to do under the circumstances SIGNS OF A HOMELESS AGE is to go just as slow as possible in taking possession of the water works plant, in the hope that conditions in the money market and in the bond market will improve. On bonds running for a long term of years it will make a great deal of differ ence whether the interest charge is $300,000. or $340,000, or $180,000 a year."

Demand for Structures in the Wholesale District Goes Unheeded.

NEW FIRMS CANNOT FIND QUARTERS Sentiment at Commercial Club is That Many Jobbers Would Locate in

Omaha if the Capitalists

Would Only Build. "If we had proper buildings for them, I believe that thirty new jobbing houses would locate in Omaha during the next twelve months," said W. S. Wright a day or two ago in the Commercial club, when several business men were talking over the general business conditions. "Yes," assented Secretary Utt of the club. "I could find five or six of them right now I have had several letters from important firms who wish to locate in this city and their representatives have been here from time to time and looked the situation over, but we can't find them suitable buildings. There isn't a single large building in the wholesale district that is not occupied." "I know of several jobbing houses," said

This seemed to be the general opinion of the jobbers present and they deplored the inertness of those having the necessary ing servant of the human body so fre- capital. There is a very large amount of money lying in Omaha banks, drawing at most 2 per cent, that could be well invested in large buildings in the wholesale and manufacturing district. The condition which now exists will become aggrevated as time goes on. Several firms during 1902 sent representatives to Omaha with an idea of locating here, but could find no buildings fit for the purposes they intended. This year, according to Secretary Utt and others, these attempts have been more numerous. There are unoccupled only a few small buildings in not the best locations.

Business is Growing.

During the last few years, with the growth of the jobbing business here, several firms that occupied small store buildings have so increased their trade that they have taken large blocks. Others have out-eight-story building.

"The present condition is directly a result of the hard times following 1890," said a prominent grocery jobber. "About that time a number of large buildings were put up and afterward were difficult to rent and were leased to houses on long terms at very low rates. This in itself was a discouragment and people have not recognized that the conditions have changed. Then men who own pieces of ground in the jobbing district usually bought it at a much greater figure than they could now dispose of it. When they are considering the erection of s. building they wish to figure in the ground at its original cost, which it would not now bring. This makes the per cent so high that jobbers are not willing to pay it, and, on the other hand, the owners do not seem willing to figure in the land at its present value." Poor Richard Junior's Philosophy. No man takes a vacation who takes his work with him. A second is lost every time a lazy man
