PAIR OF DARING ROBBERIES

One Lincoln Man is Held Up While He is Taking a Bath.

PAWNEE CITY DOCTOR ON THE CARPET

James D. Delsell of Lexington Named as Member of Board Which Will Locate the New Normal School.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, July 24.—(Special.)—O. E. Houck, proprietor of the Brunswick restaurant, took a bath this morning, and had the novel experience of emerging from the bathroom into the presence of a big gun behind which was a bigger man in the act of searching the trousers that Mr. Houck was wearing. The man in the bathing costume, which wasn't much, the burglar commanded him to "hold up his hands," and the man proceeded to take $7.50 from his trousers. The man then commanded Houck to keep quiet, and he backed to the stairs and down them he went, the thief and his gun following him.

At the time of the robbery Mrs. Houck and a number of women friends were in the front room of the house watching the circus parade, and it was impossible for Houck to go to them owing to his scant attire, and it was impossible for him to call the police until he had some clothes. Consequently the thief had time to commit another robbery before the police even knew of the Houck affair, and he did it.

The robber went direct from Houck's to the Rehlander drug store, where the clerks and proprietor were watching the parade. He went through the rear door, after first breaking a bolt, then to the safe, where he stole the cash drawer, containing $25, and made his escape.

At the Houck home the robber, before coming in contact with Houck, ransacked the rear rooms of the house. Houck heard him and opened the bathroom door in time to look in the muzzle of the revolver.

The robber was described as being tall, smooth-faced, weight about 160 pounds and is about 25 years of age. He wore a brown suit of clothes and a black sash hat.

Doctor May Explain.

Charged with placing a new-born babe in a freight car, where it was found dead, Dr. Finley, a prominent physician of Pawnee City, will in all probability be cited to appear before the State Board of Health at its next regular meeting.

The case was one of the most sensational of the kind in the history of the state, and as a sequel a judge has declared that on the statutes of Nebraska there is no law to punish a woman for an unnatural crime.

The mother of the child was Edna Wilson, aged 15 years, the daughter of a veteran soldier of the Civil War, and the aged widow of Pawnee City, and it was claimed by the prosecutor of Pawnee county that she had caused the premature birth of the child. About the time the child was born Dr. Finley was called to attend the young woman. He pronounced it dead.

At the solicitation of the mother, it was reported, the doctor strapped the child in a newspaper, which was in the room and agreed to bury it. The address on the newspaper was the cause of the discovery of the identity of the mother of the child. The doctor, enroute home, placed the baby in a freight car, where it was found dead, and was in readiness to be pulled, when a strange freak of fortune this one car was cut out of the train and left on the sidetrack.

The next morning parties passing the car in question showed that the baby still lived. On the paper that was used to wrap the mother, by another strange freak of fortune the parties carried the baby to the office of Dr. Finley for treatment. The doctor admitted that the mother of the child was Miss Wilson. The afternoon child was Miss Wilson, presumably the child died, presumably from exposure.

Girl Goes Free.

Miss Wilson was then arrested and the preliminary hearing was held before County Judge Barton. The latter spent considerable time in Lincoln looking up authorities and finally released the woman, holding that there was no law to punish a woman.

In the meantime a young man named Highfrits admitted that he was the father of the child and he and Miss Wilson were married.

The death of the babe occurred some three weeks ago and the first newspaper accounts sent out from Pawnee City did not contain the name of the mother of the child. So far nothing has been done with Dr. Finley in the way of prosecution.

At the time of the occurrence the attention of the State Board of Health was called to the matter and since then it is reported that the board has decided to have Dr. Finley appear before it and give an explanation of his action. Secretary Brash, who is the proper man to give out information, could not be seen, but a member of the board stated that the board would act. He could not speak authoritatively, but he said the matter had been discussed and that at the next meeting, to be held August 4, he understood the matter would come up.

Dr. Finley has offered no explanation, but his friends claim that he had no criminal motives. To substantiate this claim, they point to the fact that the doctor wrapped the child in a paper, upon which was the name of the mother of the woman. They think that Dr. Finley actually thought the babe dead, and seeing the freight train preparing to pull out, thought it a good plan to get rid of the body with as little trouble as possible.

Delsell on Normal Board.

James D. Delsell of Lexington, superintendent of schools of that city, was this morning appointed a member of the State Normal School board to take the place of W. L. Stephens, whose term of office expired on the 1st of the month. Mr. Delsell is an old-time friend of Governor Mickey and years ago attended a school taught by him in Iowa. For six years he has been superintendent of the Lexington schools and at present is an instructor in the junior normal school at North Platte. He is a graduate of the State Normal school.

This appointment has been expected for many days and much speculation has been indulged in as to who would be the man, the interest being much more intense because of the loss of the new normal school. The bid to be made by the various towns that are trying to secure the school will be opened next Tuesday, though one of the bids have as yet been received. It is expected that each of the towns interested will send a committee of one or more citizens with the bids either Monday or Tuesday, in order to be certain that proper representation is made to the board.

From the interest being taken and the work being done to secure the school it is very evident that the town that secures it expects the normal school to be the making of the town. One enthusiastic Eastman paper, which reached the office of the state superintendent has "normal school" in nearly every advertisement and nearly every news item. This paper figures that the school will have an attendance of at least 2,000 to start with and that each stu-
