CHEAP SILVER, DEAR TRAVEL Mexican Government Allows Railroads to Boost Tariffs to Offset Depreciation.

MEXICO CITY, July 28.-The government has issued a decree granting the railroads such an increase in their passenger and freight rates as will practically put them on the same basis as though receipts were in 50-cent dollars. The decree was issued in response to a request from the Mexican Central and the Mexican and International railroads that they be permitted to increase their rates on account of the continued depreciation of the silver.

The decree says that during the remainder of the present year railroad companies shall be authorized to make a 15 per cent increase in their tariffs, except upon corn, wheat, cotton, firewood, charcoal, coal and all articles of export, it being understood that insamuch as this authority is granted in favor of the present rate of exchange, it will be suspended should exchange fall to 220 or less.

The government's action is praised as an indication of its desire to do justice to corporations, having gold interests to meet abroad and which have to buy heavily in the United States and elsewhere at gold would be no necessity for remark or reply. The Smith's Letter Incorrect.

Under the circumstances there are cer Under the circumstances there are certain parts of Mr. Smith's letter which is maind attention. The relevancy of a polition of the commission's letter has been denied by Mr. Smith, although the essential facts it contained have not been controverted. Concerning the question relevancy, it may be stated that the present postmaster general requested the control of th relevancy, it may be stated that the present postmaster general requested the commission to investigate and report whether the civil service law and rules had seen and were being compiled with in the Washington postoffice, and that as the investigation showed that the postoffice occupied to a considerable extent, the position of bureau to the department in the matter of appointments and other changes, som of the departmental affairs accessarily came within its scope. This was especially true with regard to persons appointed to outside offices for the purpose of classification and afterward transferred to the Washington postoffice and later to the defication and afterward transferred to the Washington postoffice and later to the department, as well as in the cases of persons appointed as laborers, but irregularly assigned to classified duty in the Washington postoffice who were afterward appointed in the rural free delivery service just before its classification.

Mr. Smith says the one-third of Mr. Proctor's letter which immediately concerns the Washington postoffice may properly be left to the answer of the postmaster, whom it directly concerns.

The facts as disclosed by the investigation show that the department and not the postmaster was responsible for most of the violations and evasions of the civil services law and rules in the Washington postoffice. It is therefore an evasion and not refutation of parts recited in this letter, to say that it may be more properly left to the answer of the postmaster. The answer of the postmaster is already recorded in the report of the investigation in the statements signed by him. When questioned as to the responsibility for the infractions of the civil service rules in the Washington postoffice, he said:

Wishes Blame Transferred.

Wishes Blame Transferred.

The postmaster also stated that in his opinion his office could have been run with the same degree of efficiency, but with much greater economy. If the department had lett the personnel of the force to his and was found lying in the tender on top had left the personnel of the force to his own selection.

In commenting on that part of the commission's letter which deals with the classification transfer method adopted by the department to evade the rules, he avoids by a safe margin the facts disclosed by the investigation. He says:

It is the statute, not the department, that puts the cierks of the new free delivery offices into the classified zervice. Their classification is a matter of law. Their transfer is a matter of rule.

This statement begs the question. It is a civil service rule promulgated by the president and provides for the classification of clerks at free delivery offices, and the commission construes this rule as recognizing only bonafide employes as acquiring a classified status. It was the department and not the statute or the rules that these the same of eightless readents.

The department, in making these ap-pointments without doubt, reverted to the practice which the civil service act was designed to prevent and to this extent Mr. Smith says in reference to the same

This assertion ignores the fact that section s of Civil Service rule if forbids the classification of any employe in any of the offices which is to be consolidated with a classified office, unless he has actually classified office, unless he has actually served therein during the sixty days next preceding the consolidation or was appointed through competitive examination. He also quotes his letter of December 27, 1990, to the commission, in which he agreed that admissions to the service should, as far as practicable, he made on examination and said directions had been given which would represent the sixty of the service should be sufficient to the service should be made on examination and said directions had been given which would represent the sixty of the service should be serviced to the ser which would remove all just ground of complaint. above letter, but one case of this kind has occurred."

The letter of December 27, 1989, was a declaration of intention on the part of the department to observe the intent of the law, after six written appeals from the commission, ranging from May 16, 1888, to May 14, 1890, two references of the matter to the president and the appointment and transfer of 124 employes by the objectionable method.

Says Smith Packed Office.

Mr. Smith resents the statement that the I free delivery service was packed with loyes in the interests of individuals before classification just before classification, as indicated by the fact that fifty-six were appointed in the twenty-six days just preceding classifica-tion in November, 1901, while only seven-teen were appointed between that date and May, 180. He attributes the large number of appointments just before classification to the great increase of work, as indicated by the fact that the appropriation for the rural free service for the year ended June 30, 1902, was double the amount for the pre-ceding year.
