MADE THE CYMKHANA BUSY

Country Club Tack the New Name Onto a Good Time.

ALL SORTS OF SPORTS ON THE LAWN

Afternoon Spent in Egg Races, Spoon Races and Such Like Things, with Burleaque Base Ball to Finish.

Whatever a Gymkhana is it certainly is quite sufficient to bring out the Country club members on a bright afternoon, for they flocked around the clubbouse on the sward in front of the veranda in beauteous confusion yesterday afternoon. In the annals of Angio-Indian life there is a time when the English army officers tire of their social duties and to distract themselves they do many fool stunts on their polo ponies and the natives have yelept it "Gymkhana." Why they should call it that name nobody knows, so it stands because no one can give a reason for changing it. There wasn't much of the polo pony to be seen at the Country club yesterday afternoon, but the stunts were quite up to the standard of any well regulated Gmykhana, and the gowns were distracting, so that it was certainly a success.

The stunts were eight in number, besides the base ball game, which was peculiar unto itself. It opened with a potato race which was fairly normal and was won by Robert Burns in marvelous time, considering the handicaps which the other racers placed in his path. Then E. H. Sprague was first in the bottle race, which consisted in covering a short but precarious distance with a bottle balanced on his head. All of which being done, the women were given a chance and started in a plate and egg race. Everyone went into ft apparently and it looked easy to carry an egg around on a plate from place to place, but there were several serious mishaps before Miss Lydla Moore crossed the finish line ahead.

Something More Sedate.

Things seemed to reach a more sedate level when the women's putting contest came and the jollity changed to expectation and attention when the contest started. Miss Mercer won with seven strokes, and Mrs. Gulou, Mrs. C. Kountze and Mrs. Will Redick tied for second place with eight strokes each. In playing the tie off for second place Mrs. Kountze made the hole in seven strokes and won out. The score for the contest was: Mrs. Gulou, 8; Miss Mercer, 7; Miss Gore, 10; Miss Moore, 9 Mrs. Isaac Coles, 12; Miss Ida Sharp, 1 Mrs. E. H. Sprague, 11; Miss Margaret Preston, 10; Mrs. Will Burns, 9; Mrs. C. Kountze, 8; Miss Brady, 10; Miss Dewey, 11; Mrs. D. H. Wheeler, 10; Miss Cotton, 9; Mrs. W. Redick, S, and Mrs. A. Remington, R.

Then came the three-legged race of the caddles and they were started out with various handicaps around the track. At the first post the red got tangled with the blue and there was a serious fall of four of the contestants. Running from scratch Ed Hanson and John McNamara passed the fallen pairs and rushed on. On the last stretch they gained the pole and sent the last pair in front of them recting as they caught hubs. It was a hot finish though, as one of the upset pairs was close upon them again and they won their greenback prize fairly.

In the thread-the-needle and umbrella race the feminine and sturdler sides combined and half way round the girls stood with needle and thread, which had to be threaded before the race could be finished. While there are some who think that needles were clandestinely threaded for some of the runners, it was a close race, anyhow, and Bob Burns won by a neck. with Fred Nash close in the rear.

Miss Lewis won the spoon and olive race readily enough, and then came the baseball of the Bachelors against the Benedicts, and the Bachelors were the victors by a score of 3 to 1. The arrival of Mr. Colpetzer with his automobile broke up the game at the end of the second inning. Dash of the Bachelors.

The Benedicts had been on the field waiting for the opponents when there broke from the cover of the club house a wild herd of nondescriptly costumed heathens, which proved to be the Bachelors. Frank Haskell led, mounted astride a papier mache horse and flourishing a vicious club. He were his face behind a mask of red fringy whiskers and sported a policeman's star and uniform. Then followed the team itself. Straggling along in the rear was Ben Cetton with the family washerwoman's clethes on upside down and hindside before. It was a delicious costume, and matched the lavender hair worn by Ross Towle.

The Bachelors were exuberant and strong and it was several minutes before Umpire Guiou extricated himself from their tender caresses and arguments and got the game under way. The bat and ball were for the indoor game and the rules were home made and badly warped, but they went when no one objected. It was a truly flerce game, and the way the Bachelors tackled the Benedicts was something to tackled the Benedicts was something to make loving wives weep. Every touch and twist known to the football tackler was brought into play, and the Bachelors lost their switches and rats and had their back hair down like Mary's on wash day haif of the time. Then their skirts—all bachelors wear skirts to play baseball—were in the way semewhat, but they kept the ball inside of the diamond. Just when the scores came in or how is not known and never will be, as only the scorer owns that they really were no.
