Wiseman was much excited and that the Gard girl positively identified him. Charles B. Dodson testified that he was awakened by screams and went out, when a man he could not see told him he had "better keep his face out of here."

Theodore Gallagher was the last witness, but told nothing new or important. The state rested its case and the defense did not place any witnesses on the stand.

County Attorney English closed the case for the state, saying that the discrepancies noted by Mr. Thomas only showed that the testimony was true. Justice King said that there seemed no doubt that a crime had been committed and that he thought the evidence sufficient to hold the prisoner to the district court.

The American Cartoonist, "the official horn of newspaper artists—newspaper writers," is one of the creations that has come with the glorious month of the Cassara, Anno Domini 1903. It is a pretentious publication, gotten out at Denver, and thus it tells its story: "Now, to the world a word—maybe two—concerning the American Cartoonist. It is a magazine conceived, owned and operated, absolutely, by the newspaper artists and newspaper writers."

Other Features of the Affair. In addition to this particular spectacular presentation the week will be filled with an interesting series of programs. These will include special drills by the two companies, for which they have been carefully preparing, prior to the sham battle.

Another Chapter of Filipino Uprising Part Played by Thurston Rifles in the Important Capture of the Pumping Station to Be Illustrated.

The Thurston Rifles and the Omaha Guards are kept very busy these days preparing for the spectacular presentation of "The Defense of the Pump House of the Manila Water Works," which they propose to give at Vinton Street Park the evening of August 4, 5, 6, 7 and 8.

The fact that the Thurston Rifles, then Company I, First Nebraska Volunteers, participated in the real thing on that momentous evening of February 6, 1899, adds additional interest to the affair. The Thurston Rifles will hold the fort as they did in Luzon four and a half years ago, and the Omaha Guards will undertake the assault on the pump house, representing the Filipino members of the Thurston Rifles.

Work for the Nebraska Boys. The importance of seizing and holding the water supply of Manila was obtained, was manifest at once, and Colonel Stotsenburg and the First Nebraska were entrusted with that very important duty.

Witness Against Jett and White Admits Killing His Man.

Freeman swore that while they were drinking Jett said: "I had to get ahead of him some way and I did it the best I could."

Freeman was disconnected in his evidence, but the examination brought out many points. Edward Marcus, a brother of the deceased, corroborated the statement of his sister, Mrs. Johnson, about armed men being placed in a rock quarry near Marcus's house and also concerning a warning of the threat by his brother, and that his brother remained in his home for at least a year before his death on account of these threats.
