MINISTER WARNS CHURCH AGAINST HIM

Ohio Divine Preaches at Kountze Memorial, but Disclaims Object of Seeking Call to that Church.

"The most despised man in the world is the hypocrite. He is the woolly wolf seeking to confuse, criticize and misinterpret the Christian faith and doctrine, and in so doing he is daming more souls than all the blasphemers."

Thus spoke Dr. S. P. Long of Mansfield, O., who preached at Kountze Memorial church yesterday. Towards the close of his sermon he announced that he was not seeking a call to that particular pulpit and was in Omaha merely to have a change from very laborious work at Mansfield. He spoke yesterday morning of hypocrites, calling them "the woolly wolves."

"The most despised man in the world is the hypocrite," said the minister. "He is despised by his God, by the world and ultimately by himself. Of course, there are hypocrites in the churches, and it is a compliment to the church to have this fact asserted, as it does the real use and worth and goodness of the church, Of all things that Christ despises the one that He despises the most is the false prophetthe woolly wolf. He is a monster whose correct appellation is 'hell's emissary.'

Beware of False Prophets.

"Beware the false prophets that cry to the false prophet.

Whenever you see a man holding a will find the wolf. Sometimes he has deceived himself; he usually deceives hundreds and thousands and he tries to dea he is destructive. Nothing is harming the church today more than the woolly wolves. They are always diligent, seeking to throw confusion into Christian ranks, picking out parts of the Bible here and there to criticize, to interpret and to hold up to disbelief. They are damning more souls than all the blasphemers in the world. But you may never know the wolf unless you know the truth. If you know the true word of God you will understand the false."

MOB LAW BAD AS FIRST OFFENSE

It was eviscience. He took for his text the words, "And herein do I exercise myself, to have sentially the gospel for the church. He always a conscience void of offense toward God and toward men."

"Character is a measure of conscience, he said. 'Life can never rise higher than as his god's. We must show our faith by our works. Live toward your ideals and not up to them, or rather place your ideals above your present standard of righteousness, for we must work up. If the goal is already reached, no one will work on trying to reach higher. The incentive to progress is gone. Lax ethics are a millstone about a nation's neck.

"To many the conscience is something to be debauched by indulgence. It is ruled by likes and distikes. This should not be. One should do what he believes to be right, whether he feels like doing it or not.

"In this country there is mob law. This passionate impatience, which demands immediate punishment by burning at the stake or by hanging of negroes guilty of "The New Testament is comprised of twenty-seven books and they are all classified, as they must be to give a comprehensive idea of them," said the minister, "and are divided into four parts. Budweiser for Purity and Nourishment. The Budweiser advertisement which appears in another portion of this paper draws an interesting comparison between water and beer in these words:

"Pure water is better than poor beer Pure beer is more wholesome than pure water because of the nourishing qualities of malt and the tonic properties of hops." This is obviously true despite the conten tions of cold water enthusiasts and explains why so many physicians prescribe Budweiser for anemic patients, not only because of its refreshing and invigorating effects, but as a delicate and effectual means of administering nourishment, The extreme care used in selection of ma-

Every chieftain of the club was present with his following, and this made up a crowd the like of which has not been brought together since the last picnic of the organization. As trains ran every fifteen minutes the crowds did not come as early as when one train carried the whole push, and only those who brought luncheon came before noon, while the larger part of the crowd came after that The early arrivals had the better of the day, for they wandered through the rather attractive natural woods of the park and went into boats upon the lake

The proposed road when built will be of great importance to the Snake river valley, and will furnish communication be tween a number of mining districts and the Among the latter is the Seven Devils district, in which former Senator Allen is interested, being president of the Inca Mining company. Among the stockholders of this company are a number of Union Pacific and Oregon Railway & Navigation company officials, but whether they are officially, or directly, interested in the proposed road has not yet developed. For a number of years efforts have been nade to build a road to tap the Seven Devils district, and follow about the same oute now proposed. The Northwest Raiload company started such a road from Huntington down the Snake river, but after doing some grading abandoned it. The new company, of which former Senator Allen, it is presumed, will be an official, has bought the right-of-way and grade of the Northwest road, and the people who would be served by it believe the road will now be completed.

The return today of the battalion of the Twenty-second infantry from a three weeks' target practice at Bancroft to Fort Crook suggests the query among army officers and others as to why a target range another in which he feeds a single egg to could not be found nearer Omaha. Manawa and Courtland Beach Have Big Crowds of Pleasure Seekers.

Lake Manawa and Courtland Beach were especially favored yesterday in the matter of attendance. Of the two resorts Courtland Beach received a little the best patronage. In handling this big crowd of people both ways not a mishap occurred and little or no inconvenience was felt by any one. The bathing beaches at both were the goal of 30 per cent of the attendance and the bathing suits, and incidentally the bath house keepers, were hard worked all day. At Lake Manawa the Floyd Briggs company filled the big airy Casino to overflowing at night and at the matinee had a big house. The company gave a spiendid performance of "Forgiven."

Thomas Hughes of Council Bluffs started in to conduct affairs in the Third ward last night and finished in jail. The first place he undertook to manage was 117 North Ninth street. A new feature greatly appreciated by patrons is the orchestra at the Kursaal. It not only enlivens the visitors to this delightfully cool place, but is enjoyable to the bathers at the beach adjoining, Covalt's band gave the usual lengthy program in the usual artistic way. At Courtland Beach Oscar Norin gave an exhibition of high diving from various altitudes into a four-foot tank of water, finally finishing at 120 feet. At night he gave the same exhibitions enveloped in a flaming suit of clothes. His wife, a slender little woman, also gave exhibitions afternoon and night. She refrained from the 120-foot drop. The Tennessee jubilee singers warbled sweetly in rag time and gave selections of old southern songs. The bathing beach was crowded all day, as was the children's delight, the switchback railway and the Ferris wheel. Prof. Sam Murphy did his accustomed balloon ascension and parachute jump. Nordin's orchestra in the pavilion rendered a select program and Dodson's military band kept everybody in good spirits on the pavilion.
