Those who are superstitious are saying that as the copelave opened on St. Ignatius Layola day, it will probably close tomorrow, the day of St. Dominic, one of the fighting saints in the calendar, thus fulfilling the prophesy of St. Malachal, who predicted that the motto of the next pope ould be "Ignis Ardens."

There are those who profess tonight to believe that a pope has been already elected, but the fact is being kept secret. They recall that in August, 1840, Cardinal Lamberti, Benedict XIV, was elected pope in the evening, but that the conciave postponed the notification of his election all night, keeping the election secret even from the conclavists, -...

On that occasion the head that was to wear the crown was unessy. Cardinal Lamberti could not sleep and his conclavist hearing him moving inquired the cause of his nervousness. At last the cardinal, no longer able to contain himself .. shouted: "I am pope, now can you sleep, just try."

(3.) To determine whether any officer of the army who was concerned in making the contract was culpable within the true intent of the law.

On this I find no evidence that the facts known to the officers of the quartermaster's department indicated any other relation between the firm of Littauer Enothers and the furnishing of gloves to the government than the lawful relation described at the beginning of this memorandum. The contracts were all made in compliance with the requirements of law on public advertisement, upon awards to the lowest responsible bidder and each contained a declaration by the contractor that no member of congress was interested, the prices appear to have been reasonable, the government appears to have got full value for its money, the inspection appears to have been enforced. President Roosevelt sent the following etter to President Minahan: OYSTER BAY, N. Y., July 77, 1903—My Dear Sir: I have received your letter and also have spoken personally about the matter with Bishop McFaul. I regret greatly that it is out of my power to accept your kind invitation. I believe most heartily in the work you are doing in your American Federation of Catholic societies and it would have been a peculiar pleasure to have accepted your invitation. I am well aware of what your society has accomplished for the social betterment not only of Catholics, but of all our people, in promoting the unification and naturalization of our countrymen, and in working for in promoting the unification and naturaliza-tion of our countrymen and in working for morality and decency, especially in the in-timate home relations, upon which rest-the ultimate well being of the entire coun-try. My people love their children well and want them to have good, strong bodies, but they also want them to have good souls. They want to have good lives here and also hereafter, and we do want more schools and want more "black robes" to teach our children? While bathing in Lake Manawa late yesterday afternoon a young man named Highstreet came very near drowning. He was rescued with great difficulty by the manager of the bath house and others. He resides at Arcadia, In-Highstreet's distress was first noticed by George Munro and Hugh Murphy and others, who were crossing the lake on a steam launch. At that time only a portion of the man's head was visible above the water. They called for help, but, according to Mr. Munro, no one seemed to comprehend that the man was drowning. The head gradually sank and then disappeared. After the man had been under water several minutes, said Mr. Munro, Bay, Wis., was the celebrant and Vicar the keeper of the bath house and one other party went into the water after him. With much difficulty they succeeded in bringing him to land.

To all appearances Highstreet was dead when taken from the water. His face had begun to turn black and his breath had stopped. He was rolled over a barrel and after an hour's hard work he was resuscitated Several parties were in bathing close to the man, but none attempted to save him, and there were no facilities at the bath house for saving the man. At the beach with Highstreet was a sister and a Mrs. Brady, both of whom Highstreet asked for as soon as he was brought back to life. He is about 25 years of age and could not swim.
