The market was not very active, but still on anything de-sirable the prices paid looked about steady with yesterday's quotations. There were only a few corn fed steers in the yards this morning and the better grades sold without much trouble at steady prices. The same as was mentioned yes-terday, however, the part fat kinds are neglected in favor of the western grassers and as a result the tendency of prices on all but the well finished corn feds is down-ward. After the big slump in cow prices yester-day the market today held just about steady. There were fully eighty cars on sale, but buyers took hold quite freely of the better grades in particular and the market held about steady. The common and medium grades were slow, but gener-ally unchanged. It was hate before a clear-ance was made, but still the bulk of the arrivals was disposed of in good season. Bulls, yeal caives and feeder market also showed very little change. Anything show-ing any quality was in good demand and while the common stuff was not much of any lower, still that class was neglected and rather hard to dispose of at satisfac-tory prices.
