LOOK FOR FENCES TO FALL FOX

Federal Officials Believe That Cattlemen Are at Last Yielding to Judiciary.

DO NOT ACT UNTIL THE ELEVENTH HOUR

Box Butte County Man Tells How Some Rangers Have Managed to Evade Law and Avoid Removing Fences.

It is the general opinion at the federal building that the so-called illegal cattle fences in Nebraska, against which the government has been waging war, will about all be taken down by the middle of

By agreement between the cattlemen who have been charged with unlawfully fencing the public domain and the government, the former was given until July 1, 1903, to remove their fences, on the ground that they would in the meanwhile invoke the aid of the legislative branch of the government to secure a modification of the order requiring the removal of the fences, as it was evident that the judicial branch had no other recourse than to compel a rigid enforcement of the order."

Up to within a very short time there was no evident disposition on the part of the cattle men to comply with the order, nor had there been any legislative interference with the original order.

A few weeks ago the cattle men were notified that no further colays would be tolerated and that the fences must come down at once. Since that time there has been a lively zeal on the part of the cattle men to remove the fences, and the district attorney's office is being flooded with letters and affidavits to the effect that the offending fences are being removed with every possible facility.

Agents Confirm Report. Special agents sent out by the judiciary department confirm the rapid removal of the fences. The judiciary department has given notice that no more triffing will be Econodius this matter a resident of Box Butto county, stopping at the St. James hotel, said:

"It is true that the fences are coming down in many instances, but still there are great tracts of lands where they will not be removed. This is because some of cattle companies have secured men, and in some instances soldiers' widows, to flie on alternate continuous claims and then as a matter of philanthropy the cattle companies run continuous lines of fencing along and between these claims, thus securing great tracts of land within their enclosures, either doing or having done for the homesteaders enough plowing on their claims to enable a tacit compliance with the laws, and if their little patches of corn are destroyed by the range cattle pay them nominal damages.

'Others of these claims are merely hay claims, and the cattle have free access to them, unless it should happen to be to the CATALOGUE OF CANDIDATES interest of the cattlemen to fence off the hay tracts. A number of these homesteaders are given nominal employment by the cattle companies, and hence it is going to be extremely difficult to secure a rigid enforcement of the fence removal order.'

POLITICS IN THE MOVEMENT

shareholders of the Nebraska Home the office of Eimer E. Thomas for the purpose of discussing means of collecting unreturned moneys seems to be opportune from a populistic standpoint," declared mittee yesterday. 'Judge Baxter is in the east for his vacation, Mr. Nott in Europe and Mr. Rich in California, so that the employes of the World-Herald whose names are appended to the notice have no opposition in giving full vent to their imagination, there being no one here to contradict anything they may say. The popogratic judicial convention meets next Baturday and undoubtedly whatever may be said or done at the stockholders' meeting called for the night previous will be published in their organ with a flourish of trumpets Saturday, purely as a matter of nows, and not with any intent to influence the action of the popocratic judicial convention. The decision of the supreme court in the case of the State ex rel. Prout against the Nebraska Home company was handed down on November 11, 1902, and why these men have delayed so long in calling a meeting for the purpose outlined in the notice referred to can only be conjectured. But it seems a little peculia that it should be called so close to both the popocratic and democratic judicial con-

UNDER EXAMINATION

Federal Building Fireman is Attended by Sanity Board, Which Will Pass on Case.

Frank Fox, the fireman at the federal building, was arraigned before the insanity board yesterday to ascertain his sanity. He has been employed at the federal building for two or more years past and has always been regarded as reliable and competent. However, for some months past he has been subject to various hallucinations which tended to show a sort of de-

A vile epithet was applied to him several weeks ago by one Vandergraft, so Fox alleges, and he produced a gun and compelled Vandergraft to sign a retraction. Among Fox's other hallucinations was his frequent tendency to hear birds twittering in the engine room, and upon calling the attention of some of his fellow workmen to the noise, would become badly worked up over their admission of falling to hear the warblings of the birds.

He voluntarily relinquished his job this week, and thus his peculiarities came out, including the gun play episode and his arrest on the charge of insanity.

Fox is an old soldler and has a home near Ft. Crook. According to Commissione Tilden, Fox has hallucinations, believing that there is a conspiracy against him to deprive him of his position. It is likely that he will be sent either to the state hospital or to St. Bernard's in Council Bluffs for treatment. It is not thought that the suspected mental abberration is of a character that will be permanent.

Compendium of Information Regarding Political Aspirants with Photos Being Prepared.

A catalogue containing the faces and such things as each candidate cares to say about himself probably will be one of the time and money saving devices resultant from the new republican primary rules, which require each aspirant to present his candidacy to the county at large. Such a compendium of information is now being pre-"The advertisement calling upon the pared. It is said 25,000 copies will be printed, 15,000 to be sent to the voters in uilders' company to attend a meeting at Omaha and South Omaha and the remainder to be used for the country and private distribution.
