FRANK EBERHARDT WINNER

Defeats Sanderson for Middle West Tennis Singles Championship.

HOLDER OF CUP UNABLE TO DEFEND IT

Match Prettiest of the Week, but the Kansas Man Proved Too Strong for the Galesburg Champion and Wore Him Out,

The annual tennis tournament for the championship of the middle west reached its close on the courts of the Field club Saturday afternoon, and already the players are scattered, as many of them left immediately after the close of the tournament. The contests for the championships in doubles and singles were played off during the day as well as the finals in the consolations. In the championship matches the holders of the challenge cups, in both instances, were defeated by the winners of the finals in some of the prettiest play the week has brought forth.

With each succeeding day the tournament grew in favor with the spectators, and the shifting scene of many colors, dainty gowns, handsome women and strong men that filled the veranda of the club house and overflowed onto the slopes behind the courts was a fitting background for the playing of the matches. Enthu- of the visitors who had not already left steam was strong and applause, good-natured guying and friendly rooting followed the quick plays of the men. The successes esses of the players had been watched during the week and there were favorites in every match, although generally the feeling was divided between the players.

Eberhardt Wins His Glory. The greatest interest was centered in the playing off of the championship in singles. This was the main event of the tournament and the fact that Frank Eberhardt, an almost unknown player from Abilene, Kan., had defeated the favorite of the tournament, Reuben B. Hunt, in the finals, added more to the interest than if the match had been between Sanderson and Hunt. It was the last match of the day and Sanderson had already played four hard sets during the morning in the doubles' championship. But the first set, which went to Eberhardt love, settled the crowd's belief in Eberhardt and they cheered him to the echo whenever he made a good play. Sanderson took the second set and kept on in a plucky uphill fight, but the one set was all that he could do and the next two sets went to Eberhardt. giving him the match and possession of the challenge cup for a year. It was a story of Eberhardt's endurance against all of the cleverness of Sanderson and the endurance won. Sanderson placed the ball and drove it down the side lines, but he could not tire his opponent out, and mean-while was losing his own strength. Each man played a clever game and tried to play at the net, but Eberhardt drove his opponent back from the net almost at will by lobbing. In the fine points of the game this was probably the only place he excelled Sanderson. Sanderson cut the ball a new treaty with the Rosebud Indians for cross-court at the net and smashed backhand returns occasionally, but as he tired in this city this evening. The major is he was passed at the net more and more making slow but steady progress in his and he only took a brace in the last set which he drove to deuce and six all before he was stopped after its having been 3-1 ing to the treaty of 1883. He is not sanguine No one realized how close Sanderson was superb rally in the last set, but he could has unlimited time and is making the best scarcely reach the club house afterward endeavors. He says there will be absolutely and his muscles stiffened and weakened no question of the passage of the bill in on him so that he could not walk. It was then that all of the good-fellowship and triendly feeling that the tournament has produced was shown. Winners and losers alike all were anxious to do what they could for the plucky defeated champion and he soon was put on his feet again, somewhat weak but all right in every way.

Score of the Match. The points for the match are:

Galesburg Men Win Doubles. The championship in doubles was Sanderson and Holland Galesburg, Ill., from Raymond and Farnsworth. It was not an unexpected victory, but one that was regretted by many of the spectators as the holders of the championship cups were both Nebraska meu. But they were simply outplayed. Their team work was excelled and they played unsteadily and netted and knocked out many balls. At the same time Sanderson and Holland played a careful game, lobbed somewhat, and played the ball for place rather than attempting to kill it except occasionally.

It was the very same kind of team work that Sanderson and Holland displayed on Friday that won them the match on Satur-They knew just who was to take the ball, they did not smash rackets together or drive out balls by taking them from the other man. On the other hand Farnsworth and Raymond had not played together until Thursday in this year and their team work was not very good when compared with their opponents. Farnsworth had not even played any tennis all year until Thurs-For what they did the Field club and the players have been very glad as they feel that few persons would have come as they did to defend their title with little expectation of being successful.

During the day they had been on exhibition in the ounging room of the clubbouse and until the time of their taking away there was a group of interested people gathered about the array of cups, cut glass and sliver-

The younger Eberhardt boys, Fred and Frank, received two sterling silver bread trays as runners-up in the doubles, and Frank the challenge cup to hold for a year, eside a permanent cup for winning the finals in the singles. The second contingent to carry prizes away was the Galesburg players. For winning the finals in the doubles they received a cut glass punch bowl and a decanter and glasses, also cut glass. In defeating Raymond and Farnsworth in the doubles they became the champions of the middle west and are given the custody of the two challenge cups. Green and Fletcher, who were second in the consolation doubles, received gold scarf

The remainder of the prizes of the tournament were held in Omaha. Young became the owner of a cut glass decanter and F. J. Hill of a carving set, for first and second place in the consolation singles. Towle and Haskell were given silver soup ladles for winning first place in the consolation

And the prizes having been given to the winners, the tournament was declared officially finished for another year and those for home or other tournaments finished the week with the dance in the clubbouse.

Many Going to Atchison. The players have gone home mostly, but the entire Kansas contingent and Dr. Sheldon of Kansas City, along with some of the local players, will go from here to Atchison to enter the Missouri Valley tournament, which begins there next Tuesday. The outside players who go from here there will number eight, while probably Young, Caldwell, Scribner, Hopkins and Will Woods will make up the contingent from Omaha. Hunt had expected to enter in the Wisconsin state tournament at Milwaukee next week with Holland as a partner, but Holland's change of mind in the matter will probably turn Hunt to Atchison

The scores for the last day's play are: In the championship for the singles: Frank Eberhardt beat Sanderson, 6-0, 2-6, 5-4, 8-6. In the championship for the doubles:

Holland and Sänderson beat Eberhardt brothers, 6-4, 6-1, 6-8, 6-1. In the finals in the consolation singles: C. H. Young beat F. S. Hill, 4-6, 6-3, 6-2, In the finals in the consolation doubles: Towle and Haskell beat Fletcher and Green, 2-6, 6-4, 6-3.
