The tenth annual convention of the Christian Endeavor union of the presbytery of Council Bluffs, the sessions of which were held in the Second Presby terian church, closed vesterday afternoor after what was pronounced a most suc cessful meeting. The attendance from out of town showed decided improvement over that of last year's convention. The con vention was presided over by Rev. D. D. Buchanan of Casey. At the close the visting delegates were entertained last evening by the local members at Lake Manaws with a basket picnic supper.

The program for both of yesterday's essions was carried out as published, with a few changes. At the morning meeting Rev. W. S. Seeks to Enjoin Saloon. County Attorney Killpack began suft in the district court yesterday to enjoin Mithen & Kroll, proprietors of a saloon at illi West Broadway, from continuing in the business. In the original notice of suit filed yesterday Mr. Kilipack states that he will ask for a temporary and permanent injunction. The hearing on the application for a temporary restraining order will be held before Judge Wheeler next Saturday. The hearing for a permanent injunction cannot be had before the November term of district court. Mr. Killpack stated that the injunction against Mithen Kroll was asked because among other things they had violated his Sunday closing regulation. His order that the saloons be kept closed on Sundays. Mr. Killpack stated yesterday, would be enforced, and that any saloen keeper violating it would be put out of the saloon business in short order by the court. Dur- St. ing Mr. Killpack's absence in Utah it was reported that the Sunday closing order had been rescinded, but yesterday Mr. Killpack stated there was absolutely no foundation for the report, and that any Galveston, partly cloudy saloon keeper who ventured to do business on Bunday would come to griof. DES MOINES, Aug. 25 .- (Special.)-The veterans of the civil war were the guests of the state fair management today and thousands of the soldiers and their famwere wet, a heavy rain falling during the ing. But there was no rain today and conditions were favorable for a good day at the fair with exhibitors and with visitors. Some of the flimsy tents and temporary buildings at the fair were blown down or torn by the wind last night, but repairs were soon made and there was no substantial damage to the fair. None of the main buildings were injured in the least and none of the exhibits harmed in the buildings. All the live stock was perfectly

The program for the soldiers was in the packed full of the veterans. R. T. St. John of Riceville called the meeting to order and Chaplain D. R. Lucas of Indianola W. V. Wilcox responded. Addresses were made by Major John F. Lacey, congressman from the Sixth district of Iowa; N. E. Kendall of Albia, member of the Iowa house; ex-Senator William V. Allen of Madison, Neb., formerly of the Thirty-second Iowa infantry, and Governor John H. Mickey of Nebraska of the Eighth Iowa cavalry. They all spoke eloquently of the results of the war and the blessings of a reunited country, told stories pleasing to the veterans and enlivened the meeting by many ways. Later there were reunions of the two regiments to which the two visitors from Nebraska belonged and the afternoon was spent in songs, music and speech making.
