CONDITION OF OMAHA'S TRADE

Trade Very Heavy Early Last Week, but Rains Interferred the Latter Part.

PRICES FIRM ON PRACTICALLY ALL LINES

More Buyers of Fall Goods Arrived on the Market Last Week Than Have Been Seen in Omaha In Many Months.

Fall trade with Omaha jobbers and manufacturers is now in full swing and judging from the orders piaced go rar it looks as though more goods would be sold this season than ever before. Trade the first half of last week was especially good, but the heavy rains the latter half kept the majority of merchants at home. Taking the week as a whole, however, jobbers in all lines did a very satisfactory business. Merchants placed heavier orders than usual and seemed to feel confident of doing a big business throughout the fall and winter season. They are not carrying over more stock than usual, so their trade on summer, lines came well up to their expectations. With anything like favorable weather this coming week jobbers look for business than they did last week.

Jobbers are still shipping their advance orders, but the majority of them hope to have those out of the way in the near future. The orippied condition of the railroads for the last few days has interfered to quite an extent with shipments and has caused considerable trouble, especially with shippers of perishable goods. This week, however, it is expected that freight will be moving as freely as usual.

The markets have fluctuated to some ex-Fall trade with Omaha jobbers and man moving as freely as usual. The markets have fluctuated to some ex-

The markets have fluctuated to some ex-tend during the week under review, but at the same time there have been very few important changes. It may safely be said that prices on the great majority of goods handled in Omaha are firm, with every indication of their remaining that way for some time to come. Collections continue in very satisfactory condition and merchants seem to be meet-ing their obligations with more than their usual amount of promptness. Sugar Market Strong and Active. The sugar market is still quoted as being in a very strong position, with every indication of an advance in the near future. The demand is very heavy and some grades are being sold subject to long delays in shipment.

The oatmeal market is even stronger than it was a week ago and it is more than probable that opening prices which will be quoted by manufacturers September 1 will show an advance over present prices.

The demand for dried fruits continues very brisk and the continued heavy consumption of apricots has given holders an excuse for advancing prices, which they have done to the extent of 1484c on different grades. There has also been a heavy movement of peaches and many large purchases have recently been made, still the market is quoted the same as it was a week ago. Well informed buyers, however, look for higher prices at most any time. Prunes are being firmly held at full prices, while evaporated raspherries are lower and are now being offered at as low prices as have been known in several years. California evaporated pears are being offered at prices about it per pound higher than the opening prices a year ago.

In the canned goods market it is reported that California canneries have experienced a beavier demand this season than has ever been known before. In spite of the fact that they have crowded the work to the utmost the demand has been heavier than they could care for and many canneries have withdrawn from the market entirely until they catch up withdrawing on certain lines. Pears in particular are in short supply, as are also the cheaper grades of peaches, plums and apricots. Extra standard peaches have advanced for per dozen, with a greater advance on gallon goods of different kinds. There has been no change on canned corn or tomatoes.

Syrups, laundry soap and tobaccos are selling in just about the same is true of fish, wooden ware and fancy groceries. The demand for all these lines and in fact for all staple groceries is very satisfactory and even better than could be expected at this season of the year.

Dry Goods Very Active.

House trade with Omaha dry goods jobbers was exceptionally heavy the early part of last week. On Monday and Tuesday in particular there were merchants in the city from practically every state tributary to this market. One jobber, in speaking of the number of buyers that arrived on Monday, said that he never saw a better trade in his life, even during the rush which has always accompanied the Ak-Sar-Ben festivities. Not only that, but everyone came prepared to make liberal purchases and they all left heavier orders than they placed last year or at any previous time. That being the case. Omaha jobers naturally feel confident that stably are going to do a big business throughout the season.

There is nothing particularly new to be said of the market, as prices on all staple lines of cotton goods are firm, the same as they have been for some time past, with every indication of their remaining that way indefinitely. Every week there are a few advances reported, but since last week there have been none of much importance. The whole situation is described by simply calling the market very strong and active. The same as has been previously mentioned through these columns, those who are in a position to know say with a good deal of confidence that cotton goods at present prices are good property in spite of the fact that ruiling prices may look high.

Fall Hardware in Demand.

Hardware in Demand.

Fall Hardware in Demand.

Fall Hardware in Demand.

Hardware jobbers report fail business as opening up in very satisfactory manner. All such lines as stoves, stove boards, stovepipe, elbows, coal scuttles and all kinds of cold weather goods are in good demand and promise to sell more freely even than they did a year ago. The demand for summer lines is of course practically at an end, but staple goods which sell the year around are moving as well as could be expected. Taking the trade as a whole jobbers say they have no cause for complaint, but on the contrary have every reason for being well satisfied.

There have been no market changes since has report that are worthy of mention. Prices on practically all staple lines of hardware are in the same position they were a week ago, and the general market is in a good, health; condition, with prices firm all along the line.

Implement dealers report the demand for farm wagons as being rather light for this season. Farmers seem to be waiting until they learn how much corn they are going to have to haul before they buy a new wagon, and as a result trade is light and backward. Should a good corn crop be harvested there would undoubtedly be a brisk demand for wagons a little later. Plows are moving out very freely, however, and the demand for that line is very satisfactory.

Other Goods Moving Preely,

Other Goods Moving Freely.

There were more buyers of leather goods in Omaha last week than have been seen here in some little time. Their orders were liberal and they all had a good word to say regarding the trade they have been experiencing and the prospects for the future. Traveling salesmen also picked up a good many orders last week and advised their houses that there will be a large number of buyers in the city this coming week. week.
Jobbers are still shipping their advance orders on both rubber and leather goods as rapidly as possible, but it will take some little time yet to complete the work.

Fruits and Vegetables. There was a good brisk demand for fruits last week and as there is a large assortiment on the market, sales were heavy. Callfornia fruits still continue very popular, but at the same time grapes are now taking a prominent place. Home grown stock is being offered at 35c per 3-pound baskets, and the supply from this time on will be liberal.

Cranberries are expected on the market September 10, at which time they will be ready for shipment at $7.00 per barrel.

Vegetables are selling in about the same notches they have been for some time past and the quotations on the different lines will be found in another column.

Eggs were not so plentiful last week and itrmed up under the influence of a good demand. Foultry, however, and especially spring chickens, essed off a little. The demand for oysters is reported as being very good for this season of the year.

Wheat and Oats Close at a Slight Decline and Provisions Are Unchanged, with Shorts Baying September Lard.

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—Wheat closed steady at a decline of %c, on September and %2%c on December. Corn was steady and unchanged for September, with December a shade higher. September oats closed %c lower; December was unchanged. Provisions were unchanged.

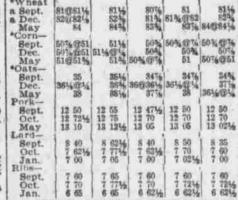

The wheat market was duit and uninteresting. The opening was steady on the cables and the opening prices showed a small advance. Local selling quickly brought about a reaction. September opened a shade lower to a shade higher at $1251%c. There were reports of heavy receipts for Monday and this, together with more favorable weather indications in the wheat beit, induced the selling which carried the nearer months down to 80%c and December to 81%c. Toward the end of the session sales lessened and the close was steady at a loss of %c for September and %2%c for December, at 81%c. There was but little export demand and receipts were fair, Minneapolis, and Duluth reporting $97 cars, which, with local receipts of 130 cars, 15 of contract grade, made a total for the three points of 500 cars, against $14 last week and 504 a year ago. Clearances of wheat and four were equal to 496,300 bushels.

Corn was a little firmer on the cooler weather in the west and there was good demand from pit traders and commission houses. September closed unchanged at $60%,050%c, after ranging 50%,250%c, with December a shade higher at 50%c, having seld 50% and 51%gGlyc. Local receipts were 311 cars, with 40 of contract grade.

Oats ruled steady with small and feature-less trade. The leading bulls continued to sell, but in no influential way. The close was steady at 1%c loss for September at 34%c, and with December at 38%,030%c. Local receipts were 186 cars.

September lard led the provision list and imparted some strength to them. Shorts were the best buyers of lard, but trade was small throughout. September pork closed unchanged at $1.50, which lard up 15% 17c at $5.50, and ribs unchanged at $1.60. Estimated receipts for Monday: Wheat, 130 cars; corn, 450 cars; oats, 185 cars; hogs, 31,000 hea

NEW YORK STOCKS AND BONDS.

Close of Week Marked by Extreme Dullness and Professional Trading.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—No significance can be attached to today's dealings in stocks by a handful of professional room traders. Very few prominent stocks covered an extreme average as much as a point, and the market fluctuated uncertainly in the interval. There were a few advances at the opening which may have been due to the contradiction of the first reports that the vice consul at Beyroot had been murdered. No outside response came to this movement and traders sold the market off on an early depression that the bank statement would not be as good as the forecasts indicated. As a consequence the poor bank statement was followed by hardening in the market due to covering by early short sellers and the market closed firm but practically lifeless and at a level slightly higher than last night. The banks show an increase in cash of only $1,266,100, where a gain of upwards of $2,000,000 was expected and the loan account was again expanded to the extent of upwards of $5,000,000. This loan increase is in reality a measure of the inactivity of the money market as it is supposed to be due to the putting out at unremunerative call loan rates by the banks of funds deposited by the trust companies to take advantage of the rate paid by the banks on deposits.

Besides this, sentiment on the money market outlook has taken on a tone of assurance since the announcement of the secretary of the treasury's plan to increase the government deposits in the banks to the extent of $45,000,000 if necessary. This plan comes in for a good deal of discussion in Wall street by reason of the new contention involved that internal revenue receipts, if distinguished in the bonks even though they have been considered available for deposit in the banks only as the payments were made. But the knowledge of resources in reserve for the money market overrides other considerations.

The usual talk is heard in some quarters that the western banking institutions are so well fortified that the needs for currency to move the crops may be met out of their own resources without calling upon eastern banks. It is pointed out that some western banks, even in the heart of the wheat belt are now lending money at this center and are freer buyers of mercanille paper here than the New York banks themselves. But experience shows that, whether resources of western banks are loaned here directly or by the local banks which have them on deposit, the result of the fall demand for cash is the same. When loans here by western banks are recalled, conditional demands for credits are thrown upon the local banks and the net results were that the western banks withdrew their deposits from New York.

The lateness of the corn and cotton crops The lateness of the corn and cotton crops are expected to cause delay in the interior demand, but its proportions are generally expected to equal those of former years. In other respects conditions are materially altered from those of last year. Then credits were inflated to sustain prices of securities at an unstable height. Not only domestic resources but enough foreign borrowings were employed for the purpose, and foreign creditors began to call home their loans in the very crisis of the fall needs for money. Now the stock market has gone through a decline and the foreign borrowings of our capitalists have been reduced to a great extent. There is no fear of any obstacle to an inward movement of gold as soon as the outward movement of grops begins to make exchange.

CATTLE—There was quite a string of cattle reported this morning, but the bulk of them were quasigned direct to local packers. Those that were on sale were intended for yesterday's market, but were delayed by the washouts on the railroads. For the week receipts show a decrease of a syer 5,000 head, as compared with last week, and as compared with the corresponding week of last year there is a loss of nearly 15,000 head. The increase in receipts for the year to date now amounts to about 117,000 head.

Most of the cattle that arrived today were confed steers and the big bulk of them was good enough to bring $5.25. Most of the salesmen thought the cattle did not sell to quite as good advantage as they would had they arrived yesterday, owing to the fact that packers are never very anxious for cattle on a Saturday. The commoner cattle in particular were hard to sell at satisfactory prices. As compared with a week ago the market may safely be quoted 15005c higher on everything except warmed-ups, which come in competition with the westerns. They have shown very little improvement. Good to choice cattle sell from $5.00 to $5.55, the latter price being paid yesterday, which is the highest price of the year to date. Fair to good steers sell from $4.75 to $5.00 and the commoner kinds from $4.75 to $6.00 an day, which is the highest price of the year to date. Fair to good steers sell from $4.75 to $5.00 and the commoner kinds from $4.75 to the weak ago. The quality of the bulk of the offerings has been rather inferior and for that reason the common kinds are, if anything, a shade lower. Good cows, however, have been very scarces and are fully steady for the week. Good to choice cornfed cows may be quoted from $2.75 to $4.00, and some heffers that were fed with steers sold this week as own sell to the cornfed cows may be quoted from $2.75 to $4.00, and some heffers that were fed with steers sold this week as own sell to be $2.50 to $2.50.

Bulls, veal calves and stags have not shown enough change all the week to be worthy of mention.

There has been a good brisk demand for feeders all the week in spite of the heavy rains which made it impossible to ship stock for a couple of days. As compared with the close of last week prices on good stuff are, if anything, a little higher, some sales showing an advance of 16915c. Common on kinds, though, are not quotably lighting the good trom $2.50 to $2.50.

EHEEP—There were no sheep on sale this morning, although there were a few carg reported to arrive later in the day. For the week receipts have been light, as there is a slight decrease compared with last week and as compared with the corresponding week of last year there is a falling off amounting to over 30,000 head. The increase for the year to date now amounts to only about $5,000 head. For the week the market has been in very satisfactory condition. On some days trading was not as brisk as might be desired, but still taking the week as a whole, the offerings have been well cared for and prices have stayed in very much the same notches. Early in the week prices eased off about a dime, but at the close of the week there is very little change to note in the prices ruling on good stuff from those paid at the close of last week. If there is any change at all it is on the common stuff, and that is not more than a shade lower. This is true of lambs as well as of sheep. Choice lambs have been very scarce all the week and in fact nothing strictly choice has been offered in some little time. The demand for feeders has been prisk and each day's receipts have sold freely at just about steady prices.
